Builders Report

Vandal Crisis Grows Serious

That impression came through to a deeply embarrassed school board during a report by builders on vandalism at three District 25 school construction sites.

The builders, members of Four Contractors, Inc., Waukegan, told school directors they had "never seen anything like" the Arlington Heights vandalism. At Patton School alone, they estimated, it has cost $2,000. Damage has been constant at all three sites they are working, including Patton, Ivy Hill and Thomas Junior High, and apparently involves a large number of youngsters.

—Sand has been poured into gas tanks.

—Windows have been smashed.

—Sheds have been smashed, battered and entered.

—Reinforcing bars have been dumped into excavations.

—Concrete forms have been pulled out while the concrete was still soft, forcing replacement of some foundations.

—Bricks and blocks have been broken.

—Tools have been stolen, some almost under the nose of workmen.

Defiant children have told workmen to mind their own business after being asked to leave construction sites.

Parents have been uncooperative and unconcerned.

Contractors generally painted a picture not of sporadic outbursts but of continuous harassment by vandals. They asked the schools to try again to make parents aware of the danger to children in playing around construction areas.

William Kirchoff, construction supervisor for the firm, said he had told one boy to leave a site.

"Touch me," was the reply.

"A mother who lives near one building told me parents don't realize how dangerous the site is. Then she told her son to come in and eat.

"He put down his bricks and went in and ate."

Kirchoff said workmen have had to ask children ranging in age from about 4 to 15 to leave building sites. "We never expected anything like this in a community like Arlington Heights."

"This is an indictment of the community. Everyone must share the guilt," commented board member Mrs. Dennis R. Malcolmson.

"This board strives very hard to provide a high level of education and to give parents a patient ear when they come to us, and it burns me when this is done," said Pres. Harold Sortor.

"I think we're just beginning to get it. Contractors in this area have experienced it for some time," opined board member Charles O. Bennett.

"Much as I am embarrassed by this report," said Supt. R. E. Clabaugh, "in the long run this vandalism will be ended by (hiring of) night watchmen, cold weather and early darkness."

Board members directed Sortor to write to homeowners groups and Parent Teacher Associations asking for their cooperation. They warned that anyone caught at vandalism would be prosecuted.

Schools Ask Civic Help

A "total community effort" to end malicious vandalism has been suggested by the superintendent of Arlington Heights' elementary school system.

"The various agencies of this community should get together to work out a sensible program to end this," Supt. R. E. Clabaugh said.

The superintendent made the suggestion after a report to District 25 board members about vandalism sites. Contractors described vandalism and thievery as constant and malicious. (See separate story.)

Board members, who had previously asked for a study of vandalism against existing buildings, were deeply embarrassed by the contractors' comments.

BUT VANDALISM is a major problem for contractors in Arlington Heights generally, Clabaugh pointed out.

"This is a community problem. I know construction sites — not only for schools but for homes and businesses — are an invitation for children to play. However, by the same token a lot of irresponsibility exists on the part of children and adults who have the attitude, 'This doesn't really belong to anybody so it is just clean fun to mar, destroy and damage.' "

Clabaugh said he would "try to find the appropriate vehicle, the Youth Council, the Community Council or some other appropriate group to coordinate such an effort."

Vandalism will not be ended by one group he said.

"It seems there are several groups you can blame — the kids, families, schools, police or society at large. Actually, we're all to blame."

"THIS WILL not be solved by one group any more than it is caused by one group. We need to get over clucking about it, saying 'What is the world coming to,' and really mount a program of enforcement and education.

"We need the help of many groups — educational, youth groups, churches, police and so forth, each playing its appropriate role. This isn't a matter for the police alone. There aren't enough of them. We need education as well as enforcement if we want a community where a man doesn't have to be afraid to leave his property unguarded.

"There's something about this vandalism that is difficult to understand. We don't find that children are destructive in the schools. The damage we have is after school is closed.

"I'm confident we can find the answers and end this problem. But we've got to decide this simply has no place in our community. There is no need for it. It has to stop."

Citizens Group to Assist In School Finance Study

A special citizens advisory group will be named to help in a financial study of Arlington Heights Elementary District 25.

Members of the group, which will counsel a professional team from the University of Chicago Midwest Administration Center, will be nominated by organizations making up the School Caucus nominating committee. The board of education last Thursday directed Pres. Harold Sortor to write the heads of participating organizations, asking them to nominate one member.

BOARD MEMBERS are to follow up individually with the organization heads, to impress on them the importance of the citizens group.

Last summer, the board approved a study by the Midwest Center to study the district's finances, its use of funds, educational level desired by citizens and the quality of the current program.

The advisory group is to:

1. React to procedures proposed by the research term for measuring these four areas.

2. Study these and other aspects of the survey.

3. Evaluate and react to the result of the survey as it progresses.

4. Study the final survey report, adding its own report and recommendations.

5. Assist in informing the community of the findings and recommendations of the report.

THE SURVEY was sparked by increasing concern among board members and administrators that the assessed valuation per pupil in District 25—and thus tax income per pupil—is not increasing as rapidly as enrollments.

Board members discussed several possible compositions of the advisory group before agreeing to the School Caucus membership. School Caucus member organizations include PTA's, women's clubs, civic clubs and the like.

Chief concern of the board was that participating organizations and citizens generally appreciate the importance of the survey.

President Sortor said he could not remember "any other action this board has taken that will contribute to our school district what this survey will."

Federal Help Boosted For Park Land Buying

Property tax load on Arlington Heights Park District residents will be lightened by about $100,000 as a result of new federal legislation, Parks Supt. Thomas Thornton told the board of commissioners Tuesday.

Thornton said he had been informed by the Housing and Home Finance Agency amendments to the Open Spaces Act signed by the President Aug. 10 will increase the federal share of parkland acquisition from 30 to 50 per cent.

THE ARLINGTON Heights Park District is in the midst of a land acquisition program approved by voters early this year. Park commissioners at that time told voters the actual land costs in the $465,000 referendum would be reduced by the federal contribution.

By adding another 20 per cent to its contribution, the federal government will further reduce the amount derived from local property tax levies.

The Housing and Home Finance Agency told Thornton the district's application for funds will have to be resubmitted in light of the new legislation. But, Thornton added, that would not affect the timing of purchases; since the application was filed, site changes have been made and a new application was required in any case.

THE ADMINISTRATOR informed park board members the Open Spaces amendments will make grants available in several new areas:

1) Development of park sites after they have been acquired.

2) Acquisition of land in built up urban areas.

3) Relocation of property owners on such tracts.

Boys Admit Theft From Gas Station

Three Arlington Heights boys have been turned over to Family Court after they admitted burglarizing a filling station where one of them had been employed.

The youths are 15 and 16.

Burglary was reported by David Keller, an employe of Jack Koske Shell Service, 830 W. Northwest Highway, who discovered it on entering the premises shortly before 8 a.m. Monday. Burglars had pried a window and taken the cash register containing an estimated $200.

POLICE SUSPECTED a person with knowledge of the premises was involved because the register was kept in a storage room. They began interviewing former employes. One of them, and two companions, signed statements admitting their role. The register, $119 in cash, credit cards and papers were returned to the owner.

Another incident, apparently unrelated to the burglary, was reported at 8:30 a.m. by Antone Koske of the A. Koske Excavating Co. at the same address. Sometime over the weekend, he reported, vandals did $80 damage to a tractor parked next to the building. Several gauges were broken and control handles were taken.

Wieboldt Expansion Approved

A height variation to permit an addition filling out the entire second-floor level at the Wieboldt Store, Randhurst, was granted Tuesday night by the Mount Prospect Village Board.

Trustees followed the recommendation of the zoning board of appeals in approving the store's request.

The store manager, Robert Wieboldt, said construction of the addition, primarily over the one-story foods section of the store, will begin "as quickly as possible."

The new area will measure roughly 25,000 square feet; the store now has about 185,000 square feet.

THE ORIGINAL building was constructed for opening needs when Randhurst was built three years ago, Wieboldt said. "We have found the addition necessary because of the growth in sales volume and the potential in the area."

In its recommendation for approval of the necessary height variation, the zoning board said the addition will make Wieboldt's the same dimensions as Ward's and Carson's. There are now some 7,000 parking spaces, "more than enough for the additional square footage being built," the zoners reported.

Burglary Nets $70 at School

Burglars entered Olive School in Arlington Heights over the weekend and took $70 from a cash box and an undetermined amout of ice cream from a freezer.

The break-in was discovered by head custodian Gilbert Linneweh shortly after 7 a.m. Monday. Glass in a door was broken to gain entry to the school's offices. Olive School is at Olive Street and State Road.

Windsor Kindergarten Difficulties Cited

Reorganization of Windsor School kindergartens to accommodate five sections caused a number of difficulties, Supt. R. E. Clabaugh reported to the District 25 Board of Education last Thursday.

The board last month authorized addition of a fifth kindergarten section, forcing that school to go on three kindergarten shifts a day rather than two. The first class begins at 8:30 a.m. under the three-shift system.

Normally, class assignments would have been made with the opening of school, but because of unanticipated growth at Windsor the reorganization took place after children were in classes.

CLABAUGH said 18 to 20 parents objected to their children's new section assignment. He said he made changes in two cases where mothers had made commitments based on the old class assignment: one had taken a job and the other enrolled in college.

The superintendent said he rejected the other requests but informed parents they could appeal his decision on the school board. None appeared at the meeting.

Board member Charles O. Bennett reported one other difficulty in the reorganization — a parent told him some children attending the early session did so without benefit of either police or school patrol crossing guards at the Miner - Windsor Drive crossing.

He said the woman reported drivers do not give children time to cross the intersection, although it is a four-way stop, and she attempted to stop traffic to let children cross one day.

ASST. SUPT. Robert P. Campbell said the police department assigns a patrolman to one intersection for each school, and the schools assign patrol boys. The Windsor School crossing guarded by police is at Windsor and Kensington.

Campbell said police counted children at the intersection during the early kindergarten period and did not feel a guard was necessary. Only two children crossed, both accompanied by parents.

At the Miner - Windsor intersection, he said, the schools could not ask boys who guard it to report that much before the start of their school session. Their school day opens at 9 a.m.

"We can't assure any and every child a crossing guard," interjected Supt. Clabaugh. "We do what we can and ask the village to do what it can to help t[illegible]n to school safely.

"But this is essentially the parents' responsibility."

Commented board member Mrs. Dennis Malcolmson, "If the drivers aren't stopping properly at the intersection, they should be ticketed." (A

Action Expected On Creekside Park

The Arlington Heights Plan Commission was expected Wednesday to appoint a committee to meet with park district officials on the development of an extensive creekside park on three legs of McDonald Creek north of the village.

Park Commissioner Charles B. Cronin, who is also a member of the plan group, told the park board Tuesday the plan commission chairman would name a committee to sit with the park board to review the impact of the development.

PURPOSE OF THE meetings, Cronin related, would be to decide what areas the parks wanted to acquire and what formula the plan commission would adopt in accepting the land donations from developers. The village requires subdividers to donate land for public use, but Cronin said some of the creek area must be considered "waste" by developers in any case.

A concern of the park district is that it receive areas usable for normal recreation programs, not just the strip along the creek.

Under consideration will be three legs of McDonald creek, from Hintz Road on the north to Palatine Road on the south to Schoenbeck Road on the east.

THE VILLAGE board of trustees asked the plan commission to review the potential development and make recommendations on land the park district may request be reserved for park use.

Trustees acted after they were presented with a proposal by developers of Ivy Hill Unit 6 for a park along a small chunk of the creek. After a series of meetings and after presentation of research done by village staff engineer John Best, they decided a review of the full creekbed was "more sensible" than acceptance of only one parcel.

United Fund Residential Appeal Starts This Week

Residential Crusade of Mercy solicitation in Arlington Heights will begin in earnest this week.

"Because we are urging residents to give where they work, we want them to have time to do just that," said General Chairman Paul Collins. "Solicitations in Chicago started two weeks ago, so we're ready to start here."

John Gillen, residential division chairman, will hold two instructional meetings for solicitors. One is Friday (tomorrow) and the second on Saturday. Both will be held at Miner Junior High, Dryden and Miner Streets, opposite Arlington Market. Friday's meeting will be at 8 p.m., Saturday's at 10 a.m.

All solicitors should attend.

ARLINGTON Heights has a budget of $52,500. The Arlington Heights United Fund is part of the Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy campaign for the first time this year. Fifty-five suburbs have joined Chicago in one combined drive to support over 700 service and private health and welfare organizations. The over-all goal is $21 million. If the total is achieved, all participating agencies will receive their approved budgets.

"Because we are part of Metro," Gillen said at a recent organization meeting, "we can expect to stop the confusion between our local drive and Chicago's and raise more money with lower costs. It's a good idea all around."

C. Frederick Leydig is president of the Arlington Heights United Fund. Heading major divisions of the campaign this year are George (Bud) Beacham, professional; James L. Warriner, commerce and industry, educational, and Mrs. Martha Pate, clubs and organizations. (A

School Building Work to Speed Up

Weather and mechanical failures have delayed work on the first stage of the Arlington Heights elementary school building program, but contractors told the District 25 school board last week they expect to "make up" the lost time without delaying next fall's use of the buildings.

Spokesmen for Four Contractors Inc. of Waukegan said they are waiting for construction steel at three schools and would have been delayed by steel deliveries in any case. Elaborate charts mapping the progress of work on one new building and five additions indicate much of the work is behind schedule, but contractors said it was "a little early" to be concerned. Escavation is ahead of schedule at the new building, Ivy Hill School.

BOARD MEMBER Robert Bukowski told Four Contractors to "hold someone's feet to the fire" on overdue materials. And Pres. Harold E.Sortor told them the board will "continue to ask questions" because "we've been stung before" on building deadlines.

Architect William A. Ganster advised the board "you are dealing with reliable and efficient men, and if they tell you they can make up the time, I think you should believe them.

Supt. R. E. Clabaugh promised board members he would get a progress report to them every month. (A

Three Hurt In 3-Car Collision

Three persons were injured in a three-car accident at Buffalo Grove and Palatine Roads shortly before 8 a.m. Monday.

Treated at Northwest Community Hospital were Rosita M. Koepsel, 35, who suffered facial cuts, and Howard C. Harris, 45, 2027 Mulberry Lane, Arlington Heights, with pains in his side. His daughter Debra, 13, was treated by a family doctor for neck pains.

ARLINGTON Heights police said the Koepsel vehicle was westbound on Palatine Road, the vehicle driven by Harris was westbound on a frontage road, entering Palatine Road. They collided at the intersection and Harris' car continued on into a car driven east on Palatine by Patrick G. McIlwee, 39, Dundee.

Harris was ticketed on a charge of failure to yield after stopping. (A

Jr. Great Books Is Organized

A Junior Great Books program has been organized at four schools in Arlington Heights.

The program is being sponsored by the PTA's at Park, Dryden and North Schools and South Junior High. All groups have been filled, and some have students on a waiting list.

At the K-5 schools, the students meet once every other week after school. At South Junior High, they meet in the evening.

The program provides an opportunity for interested students to read selected classics on their own time and to share these books in a round-table discussion guided by two trained leaders.

THE LEADER'S function is to ask questions which encourage examination of the books. Through an exchange of views in discussion, youngsters are to arrive at their own understanding of the selection, find that there may be more than one valid way of interpreting a work and gain new respect for the opinions of othtrs.

National in scope, Junior Great Books is a recent offshoot of the Great Books Program which has been offered to adults since 1947 under the auspices of the Great Books Foundation in Chicago.

A tuition - free leaders' training program is being offered to local residents beginning Oct. 25. Anyone interested in becoming a leader or in obtaining additional information regarding the Junior Great Books program in the public schools may call Mrs. T C. Seiler, CL 3-1302.

Burglary of a vacant home on S. Walnut Avenue was reported to Arlington Heights police late last Tuesday.

Police said the owner is staying in a rest home, and the break-in was discovered by a neighbor. Clothing and tools were taken, and the intruder did considerable damage in an apparent search for cash. Mattresses were slashed, trunks, closets and a water tank were damaged. Entry was gained by breaking a pane of glass in an outside door. (A

RETURNING TO Palermo, the biggest thrill was going into the American Consulate, with it's beautiful building, seeing our flag and a picture of the President.

In Palermo, Mrs. DiMaiolo attended many parties and celebrations, the highlight being an engagement party attended by a hall filled with relatives and friends.

The next stop was Naples. They went on a conducted tour to Mt. Vesuvious, visited a cameo factory, saw Almafia, the private retreat of Mrs. Jack Kennedy, the Ruins of Pompeii and a day was spent at Sorrento, enjoying the ocean and formal gardens.

In Rome, they spent two days touring the city, including St. Peter's Square, the Vatican Buildings, Trevi Fountain and the Colloseum and attended a service at St. Peter's. In Venice there was a gondola ride with a singing gondolier along the Grand Canal, a visit to St. Mark's Bascilica and the adjoining square and a visit to a glass factory.

The last city was Milan and a stay with friends who took them on tours of the city.

Friends gave Mrs. DiMaiolo a surprise farewell party with a feast, music and dancing on the last day of her visit.

Returning to Rome, she boarded a plane for New York City, where she was met by her sister, Mrs. Sam Mazzolo. In the following two days she met 24 nieces and nephews.

THE EDWARD Wuchterl family, Kim Avenue, and other family members attended a dinner in honor of their cousin, James Brophy of Dallas, on Thursday evening at the home of Miss T. Brophy and Miss C. Brophy in Chicago.

Katherine and Deborah Harbut have been enjoying their new home at 502 Deborah Lane with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Harbut. They also have a beagle named Ginger.

They charged the driver, Dennis R. Howland, 19, 564 Cumnock Road, Inverness, with negligent driving. They charged his passenger, Earle F. Manoney, 2309 Longacres Lane, Plum Grove Estates, with littering. A court date has been set for Nov. 10.

Swim Pool Plan Is Tabled by Village

A proposal by Elk Grove Village to construct a swimming pool on the Elk Grove High School site for use by the high school students and the community was tabled "temporarily" by the District 214 school board Monday night.

Under the Elk Grove proposal a $375,000 to $400,000 pool would be constructed by the village, with the high school district entering into a 20-year lease. At the end of the leasing period the pool would be the property of the high school district.

Voters in District 214 last July rejected a proposal to build swimming pools at all five district high schools at a total cost of $1.95 million. This would have included some additional educational and physical education areas.

THE SCHOOL board was committed to seek a decision by area residents after a favorable study on the subject by a citizens committee.

The question of a swimming pool for the sixth district high school has been raised by some members of the Lay Citizens Committee studying the need for the school. If the citizens committee recommends inclusion of a pool, board members indicated that a decision on the Elk Grove pool should also be made.

The two swimming pools for six high schools would provide minimal swimming for athletic teams and limited student use, as well as community use at night, weekends and in the summer.

Some board members questioned whether other villages might be interested in a similar proposal to that advanced by Elk Grove.

A new state law adopted this year enables villages to enter into leasing or purchase agreements with payments extended over a maximum 20 year period. Schools or parks do not have this power, but can enter into leasing arrangements with local villages which now do have the authority. (ACM-E

High School Referendum Set Feb. 5

A new date of Saturday, Feb. 5, 1966, has been set by High School District 214 for the referendum to approve construction of a sixth 2,500 student high school in the district.

The school board previously set Saturday, Feb. 12, as the date for the referendum. In Illinois, Feb. 12 is a legal holiday marking Lincoln's birthday and special elections may not be held on a holiday according to the school code.

THE REFERENDUM will be held only if the present Lay Citizens Committee now studying the need for the school recommends such a vote.

The proposed school would be constructed on Willow Road, just east of Rand Road in the Prospect Heights area and adjoining the village boundaries of Arlington Heights.

The vote, if approved by the committee, will be held before the opening of the district's fifth high school in Elk Grove Village. This school is scheduled to begin operation next September. (ACM-E

Parley to Attract District PTA Units

Parley to Attract 3-48 Bold.....

Delegates from 64 PTA units are expected at the first fall conference of District 37 of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers. The conference is to be held Oct. 25, 1965, at 6:30 p.m. at the Old Orchard Country Club, Mount Prospect.

The theme of the conference is "Spotlight on Mental Health."

Mrs. Thomas Uragami, 250 Norman Ct., Des Plaines, director of the new District 37 says delegates from four PTA area councils and principals and superintendents representing nine elementary school districts also are expected to attend.

District 37 includes the four townships of Wheeling, Elk Grove, Schaumburg and Palatine plus part of Barrington.

FIRST ON the program will be a panel of speakers. Mrs. Elbert Tourangeau, mental health chairman of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, will discuss "The Child in His World — Inner and Outer Space." Dr. Jeanne McCarthy, director of special education for school district 54, will speak on "The Child in His School." "The Child in His Community" will be the topic of the talk by Miss Gertrude Pastryk, psychiatric social worker, Northwest Mental Health Clinic.

After the speeches, the delegates will form into "buzz" groups using the theme "Focus on Children's Emotional Needs." Trained discussion leaders including principals and other school administrators will guide the discussions at each table.

The first "buzz" group will talk about "The Family and Home Environment," and second group, "The Role of the Educators and the Schools." "The Responsibility of the Citizens and the Community" will be discussed by the third group.

A PANEL of District 37 board members will listen to the feedback from the buzz groups and summarize the three areas of discussion. Mrs. Arnold LoMar, immediate past district director of PTA District 21, which formerly included the District 37 area, will be on the panel. Other panel members will be Mrs. Robert Oakley, member of the school board of Palatine-Rolling Meadows District 15, and Robert Bright, principal of Dwyer and Patton Schools, Arlington Heights.

"The reason for the PTA's existence is its concern for the welfare of children," said Mrs. Uragami. "We feel that this concern extends naturally to mental health. The emotional needs of children must be met even as the physical and spiritual needs are met."

Mrs. Marvin Morse, Hoffman Estates, program coordinator, is in charge of the conference.

Notes from Arlington Acres

Marie Marshall — CLearbrook 5-2936

Arlington Acres is rolling out the red carpet for the Ralph Verley family, now at 436 S. Prindle. Mr. Verley is with the Chicago-North Western, as road-master at Des Plaines. Their children are Bill, 14, and Teresa, 12. The family moved here from Wal Lake, Iowa.

The welcome to the Verleys was preceded by a farewell to Gilbert and Dolores Wozniak and their son, Michael, former owners at 436. The Wozniaks have taken an apartment in Mount Prospect.

Luck flew with Carl Schmidt, 515 S. Gibbons, when he left for Casper, Wyo., on a hunting expedition Tuesday of last week. Original plans were to stay until the following weekend, but he bagged the limit of one deer and one antelope sooner than expected and returned home Friday. As soon as processing is completed, two sets of antlers will adorn the walls of the Schmidt family-recreation room.

When Raymond O'Donnell, 405 S. Gibbons, concluded the business which took him to Tokyo and Hong Kong recently, he flew to the Hawaiian Islands to be joined by his wife, Catherine, for a week of island hopping. Some of their stops were at the Hawaiian Village on Oahu, Cocoa Palm at Niwihili on Kauai and at Hilo on Hawaii.

They returned in time for a belated celebration of the Sept. 29 birthday of their 16-year-old son, Kevin.

OCTOBER BRINGS a rash of birthday celebrations to the Robert Kunz home, 505 S. Forrest, starting with Betty's on Oct. 2. Dinner guests that evening were a long time friend and her husband of Rolling Meadows, with other close friends, the James Haanels of Arlington Heights, joining them later for cake and coffee.

Three days later 13-year-old Pam celebrated her birthday by going on a shopping expedition, followed by cake and ice cream at home with the Haanel family as guests.

Since Sandy and Debby Kunz have birthdays following in quick succession, a joint celebration was held Sunday at the home of Betty's sister-in-law in Rolling Meadows who planned the dinner in honor of the birthdays of the Kunz girls as well as those of her own two daughters.

Doug Stoehr, 441 S. Prindle, made his first trip home since enrolling as a freshman at Wisconsin State University at Superior, this past weekend. However, his parents did not see much of him, as Doug's reason for the trip was Prospect High School's homecoming. He attended every function connected with the event.

THE TOTAL number of parties in honor of Bonnie Lucas's birthday almost equalled the number of years she was marking. Bonnie was 4 Oct. 6. Celebrating started with a family dinner. Joining Bonnie's parents, Fran and Andy, was an aunt, Mrs. Thomas Cotts of Lincolnwood.

On Saturday, the birthday girl entertained friends and playmates for lunch topped off with birthday cake and ice cream and an afternoon of party games.

The wind-up was dinner Sunday, when guests were uncles and aunts, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Wojcik of Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs. A. Van Patten of River Grove with their families.

Janice Thorstad, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Thorstad, 412 S. Phelps, invited several school friends to help her celebrate her 12th birthday Oct. 7. Guests asked to come for supper were Diane Cooper, Michelle Stewart, Mary Beth Weiler, Debby Kusch, Cathy Farrell, Susan Romanenghi, Susan Thorstad and a cousin, Cathy Connery. Stacks of records were played all evening and the party was voted a complete success.

The next day Mark's parents and sister, Greta, were joined by his grandmother, Mrs. John Olson of Evanston, for dinner at the Hermanson home, 437 S. Forrest.

The Paul Retzlaffs, 2116 E. Gregory, are settling down to the established routine after enjoying a three-week vacation, part of which they spent sightseeing in Washington, D.C. From there Paul and Helen flew to Dallas for a short stay. Coupled with the trips involving distance was a short one to La Grange to take part in a family reunion occasioned by the birthday of the youngest niece in the Retzlaff clan, the daughter of Paul's brother. More than 20 relatives gathered to celebrate the birthday and to meet and greet each other.

THE TONY FARINAS, 421 S. Forrest, are enjoying having his mother, Mrs. Joseph Farina of Griffith, Ind., spend a few weeks with them. She, in turn, enjoyed having them entertain their son, Larry and his wife for dinner Sunday in honor of Larry's birthday.

On Saturday, Tony and Esther, Larry and Kerry, her parents, the Dan Siakels of Wheeling, and two friends of the young couple spent the evening at Pheasant Run for dinner and a performance of "Tea and Sympathy" with Theresa Wright.

The Frank Marshalls, 432 S. Forrest, celebrated the Oct. 10 birthday of their daughter, Susan, by inviting her and her husband, Stanley Koy, to join them for dinner Sunday. Margaret came home from Northwestern for the day and with Grandma Novy, completed the family circle. Added guests for a late evening buffet supper were Stanley's parents and his brother, Joe, of Chicago. (A Introducing the tuned car. 1966 Buick.

What makes a car a car is styling, performance, ride and handling. Only when they're all tuned together is the car a Buick. Like this 1966 Riviera Gran Sport.

You know how well your car's engine runs after a tuneup? Buick tuning has the same effect on the whole car. Not just the engine. The whole Buick. Everything blends with everything else. Styling. Performance. Ride. Handling. All tuned to work together in harmony. That's what the tuned car is. A Buick. Only Buick is the tuned car. (And every Buick is the tuned car.) What the tuned car is is a masterful blending of all the things that make a great car greater. The Riviera for 1966 is the tuned car. It features six-passenger seating, disappearing headlights, a silently efficient new ventilating system and the kind of roadworthiness you'd expect in a car that costs twice as much. (You can get a Riviera for your desk as well as your garage. Send $1 in check or money order to Riviera, P.O. Box 68, Troy, Mich., for an accurate 1/25 scale model '66 Riviera.) But Riviera's not the only tuned car. LeSabre is, too. And Wildcat. Electra 225. Special. Skylark. Sportwagon. See them all at your Buick dealer's. The tuned car may not mean much to you now. But then you haven't had a chance to drive one yet.

Wouldn't you really rather have a Buick?

Ex-Businessman to Be Ordained in Ministry

For the second time in the 63-year history of St. John United Church of Christ, an ordination service will be celebrated in its sanctuary.

It is the adopted home-church of Mr. and Mrs. William Garner Werntz, and since his decision to enter the ministry was made while he was a part of the fellowship of this congregation he has chosen St. John Church for the scene of his ordination on Oct 31 at 7 p.m.

Garner Werntz formerly served as assistant to the pastor of St. John, the Rev. Robert S. McDonald. He was also a member of the Arlington Heights barbershoppers and was directly and vitally concerned with the political life of the community.

PASTOR WERNTZ

WERNTZ WAS born March 11, 1937, at Annapolis, Md., and graduated from Franklin and Marshall College in 1959. On May 24, 1958, he was married to Marcia Louise Bird. They have two children, Pamela and Robert. Before coming to Arlington Heights, and also the reason for his settling here, was his employment with Federal Mogul-Bower Bearing Co. as a sales engineer.

It was while in Arlington Heights that he decided to leave this employment and study for the ministry. He received his bachelor of divinity degree in May, 1965, and has now accepted the challenge of ministry by starting a new mission church in Joliet, Ill.

THE CHURCH Council of St. John United Church of Christ and all of the church members have extended a cordial welcome to members of the community to attend the ordination service and, immediately following, a reception for Mr. and Mrs. Werntz. Participating in the ordination service will be Dr. James Smucker, executive director of the Northwest Association; the Rev. Stanley Davis, youth worker, YMCA; the Rev. Robert S. McDonald, pastor of the host church; and other ministers of the United Church of Christ in attendance, who will participate in the laying on of hands, the solemn, high point of an ordination service. The chapel choir of Bethany Theological Seminary at Oakbrook, the alma mater of Pastor Werntz, will present the ordination anthem and other choral selections. (A

Park School Roof Repairs Approved

Roof repairs estimated to cost $2,042 at Park School were authorized by the Arlington Heights District 25 board last Thursday.

Work is to be performed by the Knight-Stevenson Co., hired by the district last May to survey school roofs and make recommendations on their upkeep.

The board also authorized a change order for the J. M. Krejci Co. to relocate 390 feet of sanitary sewer on the Olive School property. Krejci is plumbing contractor on the district's current building program.

SUPT. R. E. Clabaugh explained the existing sewer, which serves an abutting property, is in the path of the Olive School addition. The easement was granted when the site was acquired.

The board authorized payment of $500 for a year's rental of storage space in a barn owned by Martin Hahnfeld, head custodian at Wilson School. Two metal buildings at Wilson are to be removed. Storage will be provided for grounds equipment, plows, seed and other materials.

A credit of $125 was accepted from Four Contractors, general contractor on the building program. Clabaugh said it was for a change in specifications for carpeting in several rooms at Thomas Junior High. The new carpeting will be self-backed and will not include pads. (A

Frosh-Soph Open House Is Tonight

Parents of freshmen and sophomore students at Arlington High School are invited to an open house from 8 to 9:45 p.m. tonight, Oct. 14, at the school. The project is sponsored by the school Teacher Parent Council.

Open house for parents of junior and senior parents is scheduled for Thursday evening, Oct. 28 at the school.

The annual event has been divided this year in two sections to relieve overcrowding and give parents and teachers more time to meet and discuss student progress.

PURPOSE OF THE open house is threefold: for parents to meet the teachers, to learn about the academic programs being presented to students and to discuss progress of individual students.

From 8 to 8:15 p.m. parents will meet for the opening session in the boys' gym of the school. From there, parents will have an opportunity to visit each class of their child's, spending nine minutes in each. During these abbreviated classes, teachers will introduce themselves and explain their educational program.

Parents are requested to obtain a schedule of their child's daily program including period, subject and room number.

At the close of the evening, will be served the cafeteria. (A

Goliath Conks David With a Coke Bottle

Judge Walker Butler of the Cook County Circuit Court entered a final judgement against David—better known as James Stevens—on Oct. 4. Stevens operates Jimmy's Red Hots, 642 W. Northwest Highway, an eatery near Arlington High School.

Agents for Coke announced the victory in a news release indicating the courts have enjoined Jimmy from "passing off or substituting any other manufacturer's soft drink" on orders for Coca-Cola or Coke, unless the substitution is explained.

"JUDGE WALKER also enjoined the defendant from committing any other acts of unfair competition likely to dilute or infringe the Coca-Cola Company's registered trademarks," the release reported.

The Coke release did not indicate how its agents got the drop on Jimmy. But it did report his actions caused Coke some discomfort:

"Two of the most widely advertised, universally accepted and valuable trademarks known to the world of business are Coca-Cola and Coke, and as such (they) must be carefully guarded to protect the trademark owner as well as the customer." (A

Planners OK Two Appeals For Zoning

Two requests for rezoning will come before the Arlington Heights Village Board at its meeting at 8 p.m. Monday. Both carry the favorable recommendation of the plan commission.

One involves the extension of the Hampton Court apartments to a small parcel north of the existing development. The McHugh Construction Co., developers, have asked for a zoning change from M-1 (limited manufacturing) to R-5 (apartment) to the parcel north of Eastman Street.

The second request involves a petition by Anna Koziol for a change from single family to R-5 zoning on Lot 5 in Arlingdale subdivision. The lot is opposite a race track entrance on Wilke Road. (A

Apartment Rezoning Approved

The Arlington Heights Plan Commission last week voted to recommend that the village board grant multi-family zoning for a lot adjacent to Arlingdale Apartments across from Arlington Park.

The petition was presented by Anna Koziol, who gave testimony from real estate broker and appraiser Robert A. Cagann estimating the value of the property would jump from $3,000 to $15,000 if it were rezoned. The property currently is zoned for single-family residences.

A petition objecting to the rezoning, signed by 137 persons, was presented to the plan group. However, they pointed out it might be better for the property surrounding the lot in question if it were zoned for multi-family rather than general retail. (A

Working

EIGHT, DIRECTORS

—who actually direct their institution!

The full involvement of all directors in the operations of this Association has won the commendation of savings and loan authorities.

Monthly meetings of the Board are no rubber-stamp sessions. Each meeting, lasting three to four hours, involves careful inquiry into every aspect of Association activity.

Work of the Board between meetings is divided among five committees, for which individual members are, by experience, specially qualified. Every Board member serves on at least one committee. Some have as many as three committee duties.

The concept of a working Board, with full responsibility for decision on policies and operations, was fostered from the outset by Paul E. Collins and endorsed by fellow founders of Arlington Heights Federal Savings.

It insures open inquiry and free concurrence of every member in all Board decisions.

Trustees Cling to 1 Standing Committee

The Elk Grove Village Board has finally decided the issue of standing committees.

The board voted 4 to 2 Tuesday to keep one standing committee. This will be the judiciary, planning, and zoning committee.

Village Pres. Jack Pahl promised to appoint three members and designate a chairman.

Pahl's request for two standing committees — a government operations committee and a communications committee was refused.

THE BOARD DISCUSSED the need to update the committees as a result of having a village manager handle administrative details.

Trustee Charles Zettek who introduced the motion to abolish all standing committees but the judiciary, planning, and zoning, argued other committee functions were obsolete.

The village manager and department heads handle most of the administrative details for the water and sewer committees, the public safety committee, the streets and parks committee, and the building and public property committee.

The finanace committee's former assignments are handled by the treasurer and other consultants, he pointed out.

TRUSTEE THOMAS Garrity suggested committees make the village board function more efficiently. "We're in sad shape if the village manager goes on vacation," he said.

At another point he suggested the village board was "stretched as thin as a rubber band."

Trustee George Coney countered that the village needed more staff, not committees, if this was a problem.

Trustee George Mullen favored retaining committees on the basis they could be updated and give more attention to legislative functions.

Mullen and Garrity voted against having just one standing committee. Trustee Ralph Lewis who originally argued committees were necessary to know what was going on and act as liaison between the board and consultants voted for the one standing committee. He hesitated several minutes before recording his aye vote.

THOSE VOTING FOR the one committee were Zettek, Ronald Chernick who seconded the motion, Lewis, and Coney.

The board indicated a communications committee proposed by Pahl is the responsibility of the village board as a whole.

Pahl wanted this committee to "implement the village objectives and policies."

No action was taken on a government operations committee.

Parks to Issue Party Bulletins

The Rolling Meadows Park District will begin a new series of party and program bulletins to aid the residents of Rolling Meadows in planning for special days of the year to come.

A complete party bulletin will be printed with the following titles:

Halloween Bulletin
Christmas & New Years
Patriotic and Special Occasions
Picnic Bulletin
Travel & Vacation Game Book
Informal Party Games for Teens & Adults.

EACH BULLETIN in the series will give complete details for planning a party whether it be a home event or a club program. Ideas will be presented for the invitations, materials needed, decorations, refreshments, etc. A complete list of suggested games will be presented suitable to both sexes and all age groups.

The bulletins will be a help not only to mothers planning a small home party for their children and the neighbors, but to the many active organized groups working with children and adults.

A NOMINAL FEE of 25 cents per bulletin will be charged to help defray the expenses of publication. The bulletin may be obtained in person at the park district office, 3200 Central Road, or by requesting the material through the mail.

Individuals or groups wishing all seven of the bulletins should mail a check for $1.50 to the park district office along with their address. A copy will be mailed to them direct.

A copy of each bulletin will be on file in the Rolling Meadows Library. (K

Street Blockade Cleared by Police

Four pre-teen boys who blockaded a street in Waverly Park subdivision last week were apprehended by Rolling Meadows police.

The youths used rocks and an old tire to impede traffic.

Police officers turned the boys over to their parents, who promised proper action to discourage further roadblocks.

TWO SCHOOL buildings were hit by mischief makers over last weekend.

Plate glass windows were broken at Salk School, where words were sprayed on the sides of the building with gold paint.

Third Grade Class Makes Sea Study

Third-year youngsters of Miss Mary Ellen Hermann at Eugene Field School in Wheeling have been studying the waters of the world. As a climax to their studies, many of the students brought and exhibited their own personal collections of sea treasures.

In addition to many shell collections from all over the world, several children contributed turtles and fish.

Among those who displayed exhibits and participated in informal panel discussions with the other third-year classes, were Richard Eiler, Linda Engle, Kevin Ford, Colleen Garry, Jeffrey Higgs, Debra McCord, Glenn Michals, Rosemarie Mueller, Cathy Paddock, Kurt Peckus, Kip Pryby and Barry Taylor. (W

Annexation Hearing Date Is Changed

A pre-annexation public hearing on extending the Rolling Meadows city boundaries beyond Plum Grove Road, originally set for Oct. 26, has been moved to Nov. 9 because of difficulty in getting the legal documents ready in time.

The 60-acre tract south of Brockway Street and west of Plum Grove Road, behind the Plum Grove School, is owned by Zale Holdings Inc.

The owners are expected to seek zoning for single family homes on 7,800 square foot lots for part of the land, and apartment zoning for the balance.

2 Resign from Police Youth Advisory Group

Two resignations this week cut the membership of the Rolling Meadows Police Juvenile Advisory Commission.

Leaving the youth committee because of increased job responsibilities are Ald. Nicholas Schmitt and Paul Jung, now principal of the Jane Addams School in Palatine.

Schmitt told Mayor John J. Woods that a recent company promotion keeps him from attending meetings, but he volunteered to help with fund drives or other activities. (KF

Supervisor Sought for Teen Dances

A supervisor for the thrice weekly teen dances at the Buffalo Grove Municipal Building is being sought.

Permission to hire one was given to Park Supt. Jerome Brown at last Thursday's board meeting. Brown said he is looking for a "big school teacher."

The municipal building is open to teens Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights. (BG

Board Reverses Apartment Refusal

A reversal of a previous Wheeling Village Board zoning decision for apartment development on Wolf Road was voted by the board Monday.

The board granted an R-4 multi-family zoning to permit the extension of Capri Terrace apartments north to Strong Avenue by a 4-2 vote, with Trustee Peter Egan and Ira Bird dissenting.

Last March the former village board denied the zoning change requested by Capri Builders.

The change had been unanimously recommended by the zoning board of appeals.

However, former village planner Marwood Rupp recommended that the area be developed with single-family residences.

It is the second time the zoning of the area has been changed, and about the fourth time the issue has come up.

A suit by Capri Builders against the village to obtain the apartment zoning will be ended be an "agreed judgment" to do so, it was agreed by the board Monday.

Egan and Bird did not explain their negative vote.

Spanish-Speaking Patrolman Hired

Elk Grove Village Police Department has hired its first Spanish-speaking patrolman.

Jose Gonzales, 25, of 742 Schubert St., Chicago, will begin Nov. 1.

Gonzales served in the Marine Corps for four years as a squad leader in the infantry.

Raised around the Hull House district on Halsted Street in Chicago, he worked as a counselor for Hull House. He traveled throughout the country counseling and representing Hull House.

GONZALES WAS FIRST on the eligibility list compiled by the police and fire commission. His ability to speak Spanish was considered an asset by the commission since the Elk Grove police department handles cases involving Mexican-Americans. No one in the department speaks Spanish.

Gonzales has been working at Presbyterian St. Luke's Hospital since his discharge from the Marines in May.

He attended Creiger High School and Crane Junior College.

He is married, and his wife is a high school teacher in Chicago.

Wheeling Furniture Store Growing with Community

Wheeling is a town with a 133-year history, founded on the banks of the Des Plaines River as a stage coach stop on what was once the main route from Chicago to Milwaukee.

It is still famed for its row of restaurants along old Milwaukee Avenue.

But Wheeling is now a fast growing suburb of Chicago, and growing right along with the community has been Wheeling Furniture at 82 E. Dundee Road, just a stone's throw from historic Milwaukee Avenue.

One of their current features in their large assortment of home furnishings are new lines of rugs and custom drapes.

Their racks contain the latest in the durable "high pile" carpets in olive greens, old golds, royal blues, and the new favorite hues of red, plus oranges for accent.

An expanded line of drapes are hung in simulated room conditions for customers to ponder upon.

KEEPING UP with the current tastes keeps them hopping, the two partners tell. They report that whereas in the past 99 per cent of the demand was for tweed fabrics, now it is almost entirely for plain textures.

Ensembles of dining room and bedroom suites are on display on the floor, and combinations of furniture for all parts of a house.

Wheeling Furniture also offers extended payment plans to match family budgets. (SS

See Frost School Done This Month

Frost School should be completed by the end of October, Wheeling-Buffalo Grove school officials hope.

It "appears to be in the final stages of construction," Supt. Kenneth Gill reported to the school board this week.

Pupils from the area of Frost School near Camp McDonald Road in Prospect Heights have been attending Whitman School in Wheeling on a split shift basis pending the building's completion. It was originally slated to be ready by Sept. 15.

Joint Meet Planned for 3 Boards

A meeting between the Wheeling and Buffalo Grove Village boards and the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Elementary School Board was agreed to by the Buffalo Grove board at its Thursday meeting.

The meeting had been requested by the Wheeling Village Board, and was prompted by the 135-acre residential development proposed in Buffalo Grove.

A letter of acceptance is to be sent by Buffalo Grove to the two other boards.

Police Log 1,567 Hours In September

AVERAGE man hours per day was 53

There were 70 incidents, complaints or requests made of the department from citizens. n(BG

Teacher Strike 'Worries' PTA

The big question the Eugene Field PTA members are asking these days is "Will the Teachers Strike?"

Of course they are referring to bowling, and the answer will be forthcoming at a Halloween Social Evening Oct. 23 at Thunderbird Bowl, Rand Road in Mount Prospect. The parents and faculty will join in a "Scotch" bowling competition and buffet supper.

Halloween costumes are optional, but prizes will be awarded as an added incentive to bowlers and non-bowling masqueraders as well.

Drugs Help Teen Escape Problems

The use of narcotics by a teenager is not an accident but a decision — a purposeful act by a disturbed youngster wanting to escape the problems of reality.

This was the main theme of a presentation by Mr. Robert Redig, Guidance Counselor of Niles Township High School, before members of the Eugene Field PTA Oct. 4.

The speaker sounded a warning to parents to provide for the emotional needs of their children during their pre-adolescent years.

Faculty Is Introduced At PTA Meet

Wheeling's Mark Twain School PTA first meeting of the 1965-66 school year was the annual open house Oct. 12.

At the general business meeting Mrs. Mildred Tins, principal, presented the entire faculty, including the special teachers of music, physical education, developmental reading and the school nurse.

Following the meeting parents had an opportunity to visit each classroom and become better acquainted with their children's teachers, discuss the work which will be covered during the year, and view student projects.

Nov. 4 parents will be able to discuss specific aspects of their child's education during parent conferences. (W

Sixth Grade Pupils Take Field Trip

The sixth grade classes of the Whitman School in Wheeling, under the supervision of their teachers, spent Monday, Oct. 4, at Camp Reinberg in Palatine.

Purpose of this field trip was to study geology and forest life.

After an initial lecture survey of fall was given to the entire sixth grade, the group was split in half for the day. The students learned about how leaves change colors, rock formations, stream directions and characteristics, and plant and animal preparation for the winter season.

There were two experienced staff members from Camp Reinberg working with the group. Lindy Carlberg from Wheeling was overseer for the day's program.

This trip is the first of three designed to teach the students about nature in the changing seasons, fall, winter and spring.

Illiteracy and Automation Are Blamed for 'New Poor'

Lack of education and lack of job skills is creating an entirely new class of poor people, Cook County's public aid director told suburbanites Monday night.

Addressing a League of Women Voters meeting at Winston Park School, Palatine, Raymond J. Hilliard declared:

"All but unnoticed until about 1958, America had been creating a new kind of poor — people who were working, earning good wages, and supporting wives and children 10 years ago."

He said these were "the sturdy men who with their muscles and their backs had been doing the hardest, dirtiest, and heaviest work in steel mills, foundries, road gangs, meat packing plants and farms."

RAYMOND J. HILLIARD

AUTOMATION and technological change, however, were displacing all common labor, and machines were even obsoleting skilled and semi-skilled labor, he said.

"Now idled, rejected by our present mechanism, they face a stark future of never having another job," added Hilliard. "Ten years ago their illiteracy was of small concern to them and of no concern to the public."

Hilliard said that as more and more attention centered on the "new poor," the more apparent was the relationship between poverty and its two companions: ignorance and racial injustice.

A study of illiteracy among able bodied adult relief recipients in Chicago revealed that more than half of them were functionally illiterate, and the others little above that.

"Poverty, ignorance and racial injustice — the ugly inseparable trio which always dwell together — disfigure the image of America and, if ignored, will wreck our nation," warned Hilliard.

"The men who denounce the poor, who charge that poverty is the result of a lack of incentive and initiative, are the blind ones who if turned loose will wreck the American capitalistic system," he declared. "Our cherished system must be made to work for all Americans, not just some of them."

HILLIARD said the man who has been automated out of industry will lose his income and go on relief.

"Nor did he want to be deprived as he is of the education, and the skill and training which he must have to get a new job," he added. "His deprivation and his lack were not of his making."

The public welfare official stressed education as the "first order of business for the war on poverty. If you can't read or write, you're not ready to work."

He listed five groups which must be included in a comprehensive education program "or else we're lost and poverty will multiply so fast it will engulf us all." They are:

—grown men unemployable because they can't read, write, or figure:

—mothers who need schooling for the sake of their children who otherwise will be infected with ignorance;

—pre-school children who need compensatory education for what mothers can't give them and are certain future dropouts;

—youngsters now within orbit of education only physically and are destined to dropout because they are dropping behind in their school work; and —special programs geared to dropouts who are in, or heading for, trouble.

REFERRING to pioneer programs for reliefers in Cook County, Hilliard said, "There are indications that many experts are now beginning to face up to what Chicago has already learned, namely, that basic education must precede training, retraining, or vocational education."

He said much of the difficulty in Chicago can be traced to the exodus of industry to suburbs, which refuse to permit Negroes to live there. "You're taking taxes out of the city and leaving Negroes in the city."

During a question and answer period, Hilliard urged abolishment of township government and sharply criticized the new anti-poverty Job Corps.

Referring to Cook County townships, Hilliard said there were pockets of poverty in suburbia which were being ignored.

"THE greatest need among poor in suburbs is for medical care," he said. "There is help available, but township officials don't take advantage of it. These needs could be met if there was a will to do something."

General assistance funds are administered by township officials who "have complete authority and make their own rules as they go along." He said he was "impatient" with township supervisors because "need" for assistance funds is "based on an invalid assumption — the unmet needs of the [illegible]"

Stating that few townships in [illegible] an allowable maximum tax for welfare, Hilliard said relief should be administered on district or county levels with townships "abolished."

The county public aid director took a swipe at Job Corps urban centers, describing them as "college professors' dream but failures."

The centers are impractical, and other programs can do as well at less cost, he said.

URGING A revival of the Civilian Conservation Corps, Hilliard said the CCC demonstrated in the 1930s that delinquency was preventable.

"Young men, otherwise destined to become delinquents as a result of school dropout and no job, were transformed into useful citizens through the adventure; the training in character, skill, and leadership; and the healthful work experience which was provided by the CCC. It was the one measure of the New Deal that has emerged without any criticism whatsoever."

Hilliard added, however, that the Neighborhood Youth Corps was the outstanding success of the current Economic Opportunity Act, because its efforts were all directed to private employment. (B10

Fence Around Pool Allowed to Stand

A variation to permit a fence erected at 2105 E. Grove St., Arlington Heights, to stand was approved by the zoning board of appeals Monday.

The fence, in the yard of the John Shahinian residence, surrounds a swimming pool. The village building department had ruled that the fence, built without a permit, violated ordinance requirements of 50 per cent opening for light and ventilation.

ORIGINALLY built as a solid redwood board fence, it was changed subsequently to create a basketweave effect. A chain-link fence with self-locking gates, required for pool installations, was added inside the wooden fence.

Building inspectors still did not approve the wooden fence. In permitting it to stand, zoning board members told spokesmen for the fencing firm, True Like Fence of Chicago, to check village ordinances before making additional installations in Arlington Heights. (A

Jury Rules Suicide in Garage Death

A coroner's jury last Thursday ruled suicide in the death of an Arlington Heights woman.

The woman, Mrs. Helen Goodrich Wentworth, 58, was found dead on the floor of her garage by her husband Walter A. Wentworth when he returned home from work shortly after 6 p.m. on Oct. 5.

HE TOLD police he found the garage closed. While the motor of their car was not running, the ignition was turned on. Several cans filled with nails weighted down the accelerator pedal.

Wentworth told police his wife had been despondent since he was transferred here in August from their home in Short Hills, N. J. He is district manager for Inter-Chemical Corp., Chicago.

Village Finances Are Explained to Rotary

Thirty per cent of village of Arlington Heights income comes from real estate and personal property taxes, with 24 per cent gleaned from the sales tax.

Those facts were part of the insight into finances of a municipality of 42,300 people brought out by Stewart M. Grant, director of finance, before the Arlington Heights Rotary club Thursday.

Fourteen per cent of the $1,234,000 village income comes from licenses; 13 per cent from administration service charges to other funds; and 11 per cent from building permits. Court fines account for 3 per cent, inspection fees 2 per cent and investments 1 per cent.

EXPENSE SIDE OF the ledger indicates 29 per cent of the budget is earmarked for public works, 27 per cent police, 9 per cent fire, 4 per cent building inspection, 4 per cent engineering and planning, 3 per cent, retirement and 1 per cent special assessment. The village takes 8 per cent of the local real estate tax dollar.

Grant spoke of the cost of delivering water to local homes as just over 32 per cent per thousand gallons. "Recent survey indicated some water was being sold to large users for just 20 cents, so we had to come forth with a new rate structure," stated Grant. The new rates went into effect with bills mailed last month.

Village plans for a $50,000 surplus in the water fund each year, holding the money until it totals $200,000 in four years, just in time to be spend on a new well. Well No. 9 is next earmarked for shutdown and improvement.

Household use of water averages about 93 gallons per day per person, Grant revealed. Family of five, without an automatic softener and with no sprinkling, will use about 25,000 gallons each quarter.

PARKING METERS are a constant challenge to man's ingenuity. Motorists spend considerable effort fashioning make-believe meter-joggers of wires, washers, plastic checkers, play money and foreign coins. "We watch the Wall Street Journal for the most favorable rate of exchange" smiled Grant. "That single farthing we have, worth just ¼ cent, is getting lonesome in our collection box. If we can find three more, perhaps we can turn them in for a refund."

Yr.	Budget	Pop.	Emp.
50	$ 175,000	8,700	55
55	253,000	19,000	65
60	821,000	27,000	89
65	$1,169,000	42,000	119

VILLAGE DATA books also include notations of 10 square miles of area, 135 miles of streets, 109 acres of parks, and 10,120 water accounts. Final statistics revealed that of 19,700 registered voters in the community, just 5,500 voted in the last election.

John Schaff, district governor, will be visiting his own Arlington Heights club at the local meeting Thursday (today) at Corrado's Restaurant. He was scheduled to meet with club officials Wednesday evening, then make his analysis of club affairs Thursday. (A

Eastwood Events

Bob and Florence Milne, 707 E. Euclid, have returned home after vacationing for three weeks. The Milnes first drove to Denver and toured northern and southern Colorado, spent two days in Las Vegas, and then visited Lake Meade, the Grand Canyon, and Oak Creek Canyon. The couple spent half the time camping in their tent, and in their absence, Florence's parents, the Bruce Jags of Chicago, vacationed in Eastwood in the Milnes' home.

A game of Eastwood bridge was played on Oct. 1, at the home of Bill and Mary Flinn, 207 N. Hickory. Guests were Al and Esther Gamenthaler, Jerry and Avis Schoendorf, and Bob and Ginny Fritz who substituted for Hermann and Dorothy Raasch. This brings a total of two scores for September games to the hands of the tournament's scorekeepers, Don and Marietta Derebey of 416 N. Hickory. With the end of October approaching, scores for the September and October games should be flying towards the Derebeys' scoresheet!

Houseguest last weekend at the Rev. Carl Nowack's, 720 N. Hickory, was Carl's sister, Edith Nowack, who teaches in Watertown, Wis. Edith helped celebrate niece Julie's birthday which was last Thursday. On Oct. 7, Carl and Jean, and children, Liz, Mary Robin and Steve feted Julie with a family birthday dinner and cake.

Charley Pederson recently drove with a friend to Kenora, Canada where they enjoyed five days of fishing and cabin life. Although this was Charley's first fishing trip, he happily caught enough perch and wall-eyed pike to bring home to wife, Mary Jo. En route to 215 N. Beverley Charley took movies of a Canadian sunset. After shaving off his vacation beard, he and Mary Jo drove to Indiana for the Notre Dame-Northwestern football game. Sons, Tory and Eric, spent Saturday in Eastwood with Mary Jo's brother, Jim, who lives in Wilmette.

VI CORCORON attended a tea Thursday given by Dorothy Crier in her home on Kennicott. It was held in honor of a Methodist missionary couple from England who spoke to the guests about their 34 years in India.

Winny Crockett of 638 N. Hickory, recently drove with Bill and Raye Inman of 513 N. Douglas, to Cambridge, Mass. to see their newly-wed children, Bob and Trish Inman. Bob works in the admission office at Harvard. They also visited with the Inman's younger son, Greg, who, as a freshman at Harvard, had flown to Cambridge a week earlier. While together, the families celebrated Winny and Bob's mutual birthdays.

Winny flew back to Eastwood while the Inman's next-door neighbors, Joseph and Evelyn Babs, 507 N. Douglas, went to Boston and were met at the airport by Bill and Raye. The two couples then drove to Bar Harbor, Me. and ferried across to Nova Scotia. At Quebec, they dined at several French restaurants. After touring Montreal and Sault Ste. Marie, they drove to Rock, Mich. and visited Raye's father.

Joseph and Evelyn recently left home again; this time to stay at the N. Patton home of their daughter, Judy. The grandparents spent three days caring for their two grandsons and 6-week-old granddaughter while Judy and her husband, Jerry Bickl, drove to a wedding in Fairfield, Iowa. Jerry served as his brother's, Jim's, best man.

Garbage Dump Gets Sanitary Face-Lifting

Officials Witness Land Fill Assets

You may believe that a garbage dump would be the least likely place to hold a social dinner.

Yet recently 300 men gathered at a sanitary land fill near Peoria to enjoy a meal.

It was sponsored by the Illinois Municipal League, which was holding a meeting in the city.

Robert Hollander, Palatine village manager, who was one of the diners, concedes that the affair was a publicity stunt.

But, Hollander adds, the men found nothing the least objectionable to their surroundings. They found no more odor, smoke or dust than they would have on their patios at home.

THAT WAS THE point of the dinner — exploding the popular image of a dump as malodorous, duty, smoky and rat-infested.

Municipal officials and scavengers seldom use the old-fashioned word "dump." Now they talk about "sanitary land fills."

There's a big difference. In the old days, you did find all of the offensive conditions which the public still associates with garbage disposal. But with a land fill, the trash is compacted with heavy machinery and covered with a layer of dirt every day. Nothing is burned.

Says Hollander: "The only economic method of garbage disposal seems to be the sanitary land fill." He notes that incineration is expensive, and it still leaves about 40 per cent of the material in ash and residue to be disposed of.

But the land fill method is posing a big question for municipal officials, especially those who consider long-range needs.

WHAT WILL happen when all available land is gone? "Any one can tell that it's not going to last forever," comments Hollander.

Then there is public opposition to garbage dumps. No one wants to live near one, regardless of what they might be told about clean conditions.

Two years ago land owners in the western part of Hoffman Estates asked for zoning for a land fill. Hundreds of villagers, living two and three miles from the site, signed petitions to oppose the dump. The whole matter was dropped before village officials ever got a chance to vote on it.

Similarly, last year rezoning of 186 acres of land near Northbrook was proposed for a sanitary land fill. Strong opposition arose from a group claiming to represent 2,000 persons in the Glenview-Northbrook area.

WITH A shrinkage of available land, municipalities in that area have considered another possibility. The formation of a garbage disposal district under a commission.

Legislation to allow the establishment of such districts has been introduced in the Illinois General Assembly. It failed this year, as in the past. But new attempts are expected as more communities try to find a way for waste to be discarded in an economical, esthetic manner.

Yet little consideration seems to have been given in northwest suburbs to a garbage disposal district.

Hollander said there appears to be no need for it in this area yet. Other public officials seem to agree.

One reason is that capital outlay would be required for land and equipment.

GENERALLY, private scavengers are optimistic about future availability of land.

H. W. Laseke, president of an Arlington Heights disposal firm in business since 1927, said he expects land to be available for at least 20 more years.

Laseke now trucks most of his trash to Wauconda — a 32-mile round trip. Admittedly this adds to cost, but its a straight drive up Rand Road.

He notes two other land fills have opened recently and should last 15 to 20 years (sometimes engineers question the estimates of scavengers).

One is the land fill north of Wheeling on Milwaukee Road, which Laseke uses to a limited extent.

ANOTHER LAND fill is on Central Road, near River Road. It is operated by John Sexton, a sand and gravel man. Concealed by trees, this land fill is cited as visible proof that a dump can avoid objectionable features, and even be attractive.

Barrington Trucking Co. operates a land fill on Mundhank Road, in southwest Palatine Township.

What will happen to this land once it is filled in.

It won't be good for building for many years. But most of the land wasn't buildable before dumping started.

Some of it will be used for parks; some for golf courses; and some, if it is far enough from the city, for farming.

While garbage can be burned or buried, there is a third method of disposal which is being studied in some areas, if not in northwest suburbs.

This is composting. Organic matter is ground up and converted to fertilzer through a chemical and biological process. This can be done with not only kitchen wastes, but with paper, cardboard, wood scraps, leaves, clippings.

ADVANTAGES of composting are that it requires no land, creates no smoke, odor or vermin and turns waste into a usable product.

Elmira, N.Y., and Altoona, Pa., are among cities which now are using this process, on an experimental basis. Limited research is being done by government and private industry.

Whatever lies ahead in new methods of garbage disposal, one fact is certain. It has changed greatly over the past few decades.

Laseke recalls that when he started in Arlington Heights garbage was dumped and burned at Miner and Dryden, now the site of an apartment project. Kitchen waste was fed to hogs.

Just about every available gravel pit or hole was used for dumping. Today dumps are carefully controlled by the state. It must be covered with dirt every night.

LASEKE, serving a population of 45,000 persons, hauls 7,000 cubic yards of trash a month. No one weighs it, but it probably would amount to about 4,500,000 pounds. That would mean three or four pounds of trash daily for every person.

Back in grandmothers day, only a fraction of this amount of waste was produced. But that was before disposable bottles, and widespread use of packaged and canned foods. (A-15

Nurses to Tour County Hospital

The Cook County School of Nursing in Chicago has invited nurses to visit Cook County Hospital Thursday and Friday, Oct. 21 and 22.

Cook County Hospital, one of the largest hospitals in the United States, has 2,747 beds and includes 22 buildings. In 1964, the hospital had 65,547 admissions, 18,000 births and 27,161 out-patient visits.

Over the years, hundreds of nurses have contacted Cook County Hospital to arrange special tours or to request information about nursing procedures in a large metropolitan institution. To answer many of these questions and give nurses an opportunity to tour the hospital, the school of nursing is having the special program, "Visit At Cook County."

REGISTRATION FOR the program will begin in the Nurses' Residence, 1900 W.Polk St., Chicago, at 7:30 a.m., Thursday, Oct. 21.

The Thursday session will include:

—Discussion on organization structure and in-service programs by members of nursing service staff.

—Tour of Cook County Hospital and Cook County School of Nursing includes visits to admitting area, recovery ward, out-patient clinics and pediatric nursing units.

—Discussion by medical and nursing staff of some of the current research projects being conducted at Cook County Hospital.

—Coffee hour and question period in Nurses' Residence.

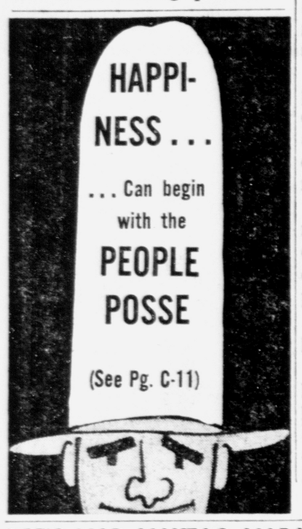
The Thursday evening social program will include a champagne dinner at the Gold Lion Restaurant. The group will then attend the musical, "My Fair Lady."

Friday morning there will be the opportunity to tour the entire West Side Medical Center by chartered bus. Then tours of special areas in the hospital not visited during the Thursday program will be available to program participants. They will cover the operating rooms, the burn unit, Hektoen Institute and the mental health clinic.

Friday afternoon there will be an "International Tea," which will feature many foreign nurses in their native dress.

REGISTRATION FOR the Thursday and Friday program is $2 per person and $10 per person for the social program. Housing for women will be available in the nurses' residence free of charge. Men may be housed at a nearby YMCA at a nominal cost.

Interested nurses should contact Marion Watson, Cook County School of Nursing, 1900 W. Polk St., Chicago 12. TA 9-8400 before Oct. 15. (B-10



'Good Turn,' Fire Safety Combined

Last Saturday brought nearly 18,000 Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorers along with their leaders of the Northwest Suburbs out for a gigantic "Good turn."

Scouting and Goodwill Industries joined in a team effort with local fire departments in the general Fire prevention program.

Kickoff Meeting For Skaters Set

The Mount Prospect Skating Club will hold its annual kickoff meeting on Friday evening, Oct. 22, at the Community Center in Mount Prospect, President Bob Zuckermandel announced this week.

The meeting is open to all youngsters interested in skating and their parents.

A program featuring famous names in skating will be presented and refreshments will be served. Additional details will be published later.

"If we have a normal siege of freezing weather, this should be one of the finest speed skating seasons on record," Zuckermandel said. "In addition to the usual run of meets, the state of Illinois will conduct a special event some time in February.

"In addition," Zuckermandel said, "there is presently under construction in the Milwaukee area a 400 meter Olympic track that will be artificially refrigerated. Our fine midwestern skaters will now have an opportunity to train properly for the European competition."

A fall picnic was held at the Frank Tangney home in Mount Prospect with plans for the forthcoming season discussed informally. Herman Haenisch will coach the team.

Help Yourself

A motorized grocery cart has been patented. For heavy eaters?

THE BOYS distributed nearly 40 thousand bags that they will collect on Saturday, Oct. 16.

THIS YEAR Scouting decided to add a "safe turn" to its project by encouraging residents of the northwest suburbs to make their homes safer by cleaning out closets, attics and basements of no longer used but usable clothing and shoes.

"Residents often wonder what happens to the materials collected," William Rogolio, executive director of Goodwill Industries, observed. "After they arrive at the Goodwill plant at 1500 W. Monroe St., they become tools of vocational rehabilitation for more than 500 handicapped workers, who are given an opportunity to train and prepare for a job in outside industry by processing, repairing and renovating the donated materials.

"After the materials are given new life, they are offered for sale in Goodwill's 12 retail outlets. The sales provide the major source of wages for handicapped workers." (B10

Chicago Area Callers Slate Annual Festival on Sunday

By DOROTHY MEYER - CL 3-2298

A note from Marvin Labahn, president of the Chicago Area Callers Association, reminds us that the association's fourth annual Square Dance Festival is coming Sunday to Chicago's McCormick Place. Bob Atcher, Schaumburg's village president and WGN-TV Barn Dance star, is among area notables looking forward to Sunday, and like thousands of other Midwesterners Bob considers the festival the "Big One" on Chicago's dance scene.

Dancing will be continuous from 2 to 10 p.m. in five large halls with action geared to both the new and the experienced dancer. Many callers from the west and northwest suburbs will be among the 60 square dance callers, round dance leaders and folk dance specialists who will staff the festival. There's going to be just-right excitement for everyone — be there.

PALATINE SQUARES

Saturday night's dance was a "real Square Dinger" according to the club report, with banner action all over the place and guest dancers out in full force. Palatine's pennant had just been retrieved from Mount Prospect's Slowpokes and was barely settled back on the wall before three Little Squares from Niles claimed it.

Slowpokes caller, Gene Tidwell, was a special caller for the Palatiners who suspect that other Slowpokes who came along with Gene were planning to snitch the banner again! Arlington Squares, with a gleam in the eye, were also suspected of banner-snatching intent but they, too, were outfoxed by the Little Squares. Everybody had fun anyhow.

Next dance for the Palatine club is a Halloween party, scheduled for Oct. 23, and open to all dancing spirits. There'll be a guest caller, Ken Anderson from Burlington, Iowa, adding his extra-special efforts to those of club regular, Jim Stewart, and round dance specialists, Dot and Jerry Daniels. Free donuts, cider, coffee-and too!

Palatine Squares dance in Pleasant Hill School, Cedar and Illinois Sts., Palatine, with an 8:30 square-up time. Materialize for the Halloween party and give your ectoplasm a lift.

SLOWPOKES

Besides embarking on Palatine-pennant-snatching raids, Mount Prospect's Slowpokes have been staying home to have fun, too. Initial dances of the new season have beeen very well attended, they report, and always-welcome guests have joined the revelry in Euclid School.

There's another night of Tidwell tips coming up tomorrow, with the added attraction of round dance instruction by Art and Ruth Youwer. The "rounders" lead off from 8 to 8:30, and Tidwell squares 'em up immediately after the Youwers' half hour.

Everyone's welcome at all Slowpokes dances and they're reminded to keep Oct. 29 free, too-it's the night of the Halloween Dance and awesome things are in the offing.

BRONCO SQUARES

Guest caller Jim Johnson of Chicago will square up Barrington dancers and guests tomorrow night at 8 o'clock, immediately following a half hour of round dance instruction by the Robert Sanders. The happy whoop-de-do takes place in Grove Avenue School, Barrington, and it goes on until 11 o'clock. Everybody's welcome.

HOT CINDERS

High level square dancing makes its debut in the Mount Prospect area tomorrow night when the Hot Cinders Square Dance Club moves from Addison to Mount Prospect Country Club Park.

Hot Cinders' dances are high level but have a "fun" reputation, and the club is currently open for additional members. All area dancers interested in the challenge of high level calling are invited to give the H. C.'s a try tomorrow night. Caller is Bill Shymkus, Chicago's only full-time professional caller and a fellow with a national name as an exciting caller, an inventive choreographer.

The group will meet the third Friday of each month in the Sky Room of Mount Prospect Country Club with dancing from 8:45 to 11:45 p.m. Further information is available via Helen and Rollie Becker, CL 3-7469.

A-C SQUARE WHEELS

Deerfield's club dancers and guests numbered 10 full squares at the first dance this month, and everyone's invited back for October's second dance Saturday night. It's going to be a Halloween spookfest.

Club caller Joe Gipson and round dance instructors, Glen and Elaine Dolmar, are part of the party plans and echo the club's warning: Proceed with caution-the premises will be haunted.

Costumes are optional for the upcoming dance, but it is hoped everyone will get in the spirit of the season-besides, there'll be several prizes awarded for the most original get-ups.

Wizardry and witchcraft will begin at 8 o'clock in Woodland School, located on Wilmot Road, four blocks north of Deerfield Road in Deerfield. The happy haunting grounds will be open from 8 until 11:30. Spooks requiring further information may get in touch with Carolyn Cedergren via Ouija board or by phoning 537-5110. (A15

Witts to Talk On Mongoloids

Mr. and Mrs. Byrn Witt will speak to members of the Mongoloid Development Council at 8:30 p.m., Thursday Oct. 21, in Peoples Gas Co. Auditorium, 122 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago.

Barbara Witt, speech and language therapist at the Dr. Julian D. Levinson Research Foundation at Cook County Hospital, will speak on "Speech for the Mongoloid Child." She will offer specific guides to parents for initiating and developing their child's speech.

BYRN WITT, executive director of the Clearbrook Center for the Retarded in Arlington Heights, will speak on "Education and the Mongoloid Child."

The Mongoloid Council, whose purpose is the development of the full potential of their special children and their acceptance by the community, invites all interested parties to attend. Anyone who wishes further information may phone David Zanoni, 543-3708. (A15

Football, Mums, and Brisk Air Set Tone for October

Luann Schmidt, daughter of the Earl Schmidts, 724 S. Chestnut, returned by plane Sunday evening, following a weekend spent cheering for the Springfield High School football team as they won their homecoming game 25-0. Luann left here Friday afternoon to visit her friend, Pam Sweet and her family, former Arlington residents now living in the state capital.

The girls' round of weekend activities began by attending the pre-game bonfire Friday afternoon, the football game itself and was concluded when they attended the homecoming dance Saturday evening. Because of an illness the week preceding Arlington's homecoming, Luann was forced to miss the activities here.

THE JOHN R. Andersons, 206 N. Somerset, returned Oct. 2 from a trip of nearly a month touring the west. They, accompanied by their daughter, Candy, and Joan Bierma, began the trip by motoring to Fort Collins, Colo., where Joan and Candy began their freshman year at Colorado State University. After the girls were settled, Mr. and Mrs. Anderson drove to Denver to visit the William Grahams, former residents of Arlington Heights, and then flew to San Francisco for an enjoyable week. After a weekend at Lake Tahoe, they returned to Denver, drove to Fort Collins for a brief visit with Candy and Joan and then returned home.

A dinner party attended by 14 relatives was given on Sunday by the Erwin Clausings, 1427 N. Dunton, honoring their daughter, Bonnie's 15th birthday.

Mrs. Eugene Dresmal of Lafayette, Ind., spent last weekend in the home of her daughter and son-in-law, the Frank Sopranos, 1106 W. Wing, and enjoyed visiting friends in Arlington and the surrounding area. Mrs. Dresmal was treated to a family dinner on Sunday in the Soprano home attended by her son and daughter-in-law, the James Dresmals of Evanston, and her daughter and son-in-law, the Dennis Blewitts of Park Ridge.

MRS. OLIVER Opsahl, 1116 N. Walnut, and Mrs. George Behrens were co-hostesses at a baby shower honoring Mrs. Frank Regula in the Opsahl home on Sept. 30, at which 20 of Mrs. Regula's friends and neighbors were present. The shower came as a complete surprise to the guest of honor.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Baker, 19 N. Pine, returned Friday from a three-day trip to Galena. Although the weather was unfavorable, they relaxed and enjoyed visiting antique shops and other points of interest for which the area is known.

Susan, daughter of the John Romanenghis, 1006 W. Evergreen, celebrated her 12th birthday Saturday at an afternoon party for six friends and classmates.

The Walter Meyers, 1205 N. Dunton, drove to Montague, Mich., over the weekend to visit Mrs. Meyer's sister and brother-in-law, the Fred Andersens. They also enjoyed the colorful drive, so impressive at this time of year.

OCT. 3 DINNER guests of the James Hahns, 701 N. Vail, were Father Hinterberger, associate pastor of St. James Catholic Church, and Michael Conti, a friend of Tony Hahn who celebrated his sixth birthday on that date. Cake and ice cream were served, and as a conclusion to the evening, a tape recording of Tony and his family was made.

The Richard Weidners, 1131 N. Dunton, and the Earl J. Friederichs, 1538 N. Evergreen, left Arlington on Sept. 18 for a trip west. The vacation included a stay in Los Angeles, where they visited Mrs. Weidner's brother and family, the Al Raupps. Other California cities included in the itinerary were Oakland and San Francisco. The couples traveled next to Mesa, Ariz., and on to St. Louis, where they were guests of former Arlington Heights residents, the Clarence Loechls.

On Oct. 5, the 25th wedding anniversary of both the Weidners and the Friederichs, the two couples returned to Arlington. That evening, a "double" silver anniversary party attended by the immediate families and close friends was held in the Weidner home.

MR. AND MRS. Russell Ward, 132 S. Highland, whose 25th anniversary is Oct. 19, were guests of honor at an anniversary party given by their children, Ethel, Julie, Russ and Barbara, on Oct. 2. The children were assisted in the preparations by their grandmother, Mrs. Julie Andersen and Mrs. Ward's sister, Mrs. Vivian Cihlar, both of Chicago. Mrs. Cihlar was maid of honor at the couple's wedding.

The anniversary dinner party for the Wards, which was attended by 50 friends and relatives from the suburban and Chicago areas, was held in Normennenes, a private Norwegian club in Chicago. Walter Buchholz of Chicago, best man at the ceremony 25 years ago, was among those present.

The celebration was such a surprise to the guests of honor that Mrs. Ward gave vent to a few happy tears, and just as the couple had recovered from their first surprise, their son, Russ, a student at Culver-Stockton, appeared to add even more delight to the evening. Mrs. Ward was presented with a corsage, and Mr. Ward received a boutonniere. Dancing followed the dinner, and at 11:30 a Scandinavian dessert table, complete with cookies and small cakes, was brought in, followed by a large wedding cake.

The celebration was held 17 days in advance in order that all guests could be present, and further to insure that the happy event would be a complete surprise.

MR. AND MRS. Curtis C. Rogers and their children, Laura Lee and William, are here from Massapequa, N. Y., for a visit with the latter's parents, the Fred W. Siegels, 316 E. Park. During their stay, Mr. Siegel and his son-in-law went to Mercer, Wis., for a few days of fishing.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde A. Ferry, 637 S. Bristol, and daughter Leslie, went to Appleton, Wis. for the weekend, to attend a football game at Lawrence University, and for the dedication of the new stadium, the Lawrence University Bowl.

Susan Ferry, an alumni of DePauw University, returned to Greencastle to take part in the alumni program this past weekend.

Mrs. Shirley Schneberger, 319 S. Burton, returned home Sunday from Bellair Bluffs, Fla., where she spent a week visiting her parents, the E. Laurins.

TERRELL ANN Myer, 14 Oct. 12, will mark the occasion with a slumber party Friday for nine friends. Terrell Ann is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Myer, 819 Bristol.

Mrs. Ted Skiermanski, 125 S. Burton, gave a children's party Saturday for their son, Scott, who was 4 on Sunday. Scott enjoyed a second celebration Sunday, at a family dinner party.

The Charles E. Skinners, 721 S. Beverly, are home from a 10-day business and pleasure trip through Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Weekend houseguests of the Larry Kussows, 815 Burton, were Mr. and Mrs. Wally Sells of Cincinnati. The Sells, former Arlington Heights residents, have just been transferred to Neenah, Wis. The Sells' sons are attending colleges in this area; Dan at Valparaiso and David at Purdue.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald W. Scheck, 512 Banbury, will attend the University of Illinois homecoming game Saturday with their daughter, Peggy, a freshman at the university.

OUT-OF-TOWN guests of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Beverett, 431 S. Pine, for the weekend were Mrs. Ewen Cameron and her daughter, Ann, from Toronto, Canada.

On Wednesday, Mrs. Beverett attended a luncheon and meeting of the North Shore Theta alumnae in the Winnetka home of Mrs. Don Clausen. She gave a book review on "Night of Camp David" by Fletcher Knebel.

The Donald Strathearns, 720 Bristol, took their son, Don, to St. Louis over the weekend to visit the campus of Washington University. Don had his 17th birthday while in St. Louis and marked the occasion with dinner at Gas Light Square.

Recent houseguest of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Niedheiser, 119 S. Brighton, for a week was her brother, Clark Stafford from Cody, Wyo.

Mr. nad Mrs. Charles Barton, 321 S. Windsor, just returned from a two-week business and pleasure trip which included an overnight stay with friends in Springfield, a Tax Executive Institute convention in St. Louis, a tour through the Ozark resort area and a stay in Houston.

MR. AND MRS. John Shelly, 350 S. Derbyshire, accompanied 20 boys to Portage, Wis., for a three-day camping trip. They stayed at Portage State Park, from where they took an 11-mile hike on historic Marquette Trail.

Area parents assisting with the trip were Mrs. Fred Jasper, Mrs. Richard John and Robert Holmes.

Mrs. Melvin Coobs, 401 S. Carlyle, assisted by Mrs. J. Phipps and Mrs. Roy Benson, accompanied a group of girls on a weekend camping trip to Camp Pine.

The John Haberstrohs, 1207 Mayfair, are saying goodbye to their Arlington Heights friends, as they will be moving later this month to East Greenwich Village, R. I., where Mr. Haberstroh has been transferred.

Numerous farewell parties have been given for them during the past two weeks. Among them has been a dinner party hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Strobel; Mrs. Clarence Ames entertained at a luncheon; Mrs. Irving Lowry gave a coffee; Mrs. Frank Kroll, assisted by Mrs. John Otzen, gave a coffee and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thorp will give a dinner party Saturday. Is Suburb Poverty War Patronage Bid?

FREDERICK McLENDON, executive director of the Cook County Office of Economic Opportunity, vows that suggested programs for north Cook County will be thoroughly screened to determine their need. McLendon is aware that the poverty war in other parts of the country has been mishandled.

Fulle, Chief Debate Value

By DAN PRIBILSKI
Staff Writer

The war on poverty via the federal Economic Opportunity program: a political maneuver to help Democratic patronage or a truly worthwhile program to end poverty?

If you believe the program is a patronage boon, then Republican Cook County Commissioner Floyd Fulle would be one of your articulate spokesmen.

But if you believe the program will curb drastically or end poverty, then a spokesman is Frederick McLendon, executive director of the Cook County Office on Economic Opportunity.

These two men confronted each other last week at Miner Junior High School in Arlington Heights during a forum sponsored by the Wheeling Township Young Republicans.

Whatever yocr point of view is, a small amount of accord was reached by these two men.

McLENDON commented after the forum, "I think Mr. Fulle is a little closer to understanding than before. The same can be said of Mr. (William) Erickson (Republican minority leader on the county board)."

Fulle agreed with this general observation.

He stated that now that the Economic Opportunity program was officially recognized in north Cook County by the county board, the Republican job is to see it works as well as possible with the least amount of waste.

McLendon agrees that critics as well as proponents of the program should be watchful of useless programs and see they are curtailed.

THE POVERTY WAR chief was anxious to make an appearance before the Young Republicans to describe the program and answer Republican criticisms.

McLendon never before had had an opportunity to speak at length with the minority Republicans on the county board.

Fulle, a Des Plaines commissioner, has been in the forefront of the critics of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

His criticisms last week centered on two points:

1, The program is a Democratic political maneuver to increase patronage jobs.

2. And it is a duplication of existing federal programs.

Fulle cited numerous statistics, particularly those from Harlem, New York City, to show the war on poverty is a political boon. In that city, Democratic U.S. Rep. Adam Clayton Powell has taken full advantage to provide jobs for friends.

As to duplication, Fulle cited such existing programs as the Appalachia Assistance program and the Vocational Rehabilitation program.

McLENDON challenged anyone to prove he was politically active or ever had been in Democratic politics.

Regarding Economic Opportunity jobs, he said only four full-time paid professional workers would be in the Cook County office besides himself.

Two have been hired and two more are being sought, he said. The four men will head four separate areas of the program: research, manpower resources, social welfare and community welfare.

McLendon receives a salary of $14,000 a year, and each of the assistants will receive $12,000 a year.

THE $14,000 salary, McLendon said, is actually for an assistant director but he will not seek a full director's salary.

The bulk of the community work will be done by volunteers of the communities. The core group for north Cook County is a 35-member steering committee.

Presently the Office of Economic Opportunity is conducting research to learn the types of programs needed in north Cook County.

The poverty war will be ruled by a 15-member board consisting of three appointees of the county board president, Seymour Simon, and four members each from the steering committees of north, west and south Cook County.

McLendon's office will assist this board and review applications for federal funds.

FLOYD FULLE, a Republican Cook County Commissioner, forcefully names poverty war programs which have been mishandled. Most blatant mishandling which he cited is the program conducted under the auspices of U. S. Rep. Adam Clayton Powell in Harlem, New York City.

SAWER RECENTLY served as chairman of Cong. Donald Rumsfeld's 13th district leadership conference, was an ardent supporter of Barry Goldwater and Charles Percy.

He backed up McLendon in saying the Economic Opportunity program would do more and go beyond other existing federal programs.

Few of the other programs are as comprehensive nor do they strike at the root causes of poverty such as the Economic Opportunity program, he said.

A couple of the basic programs expected for this area are job retraining and special education for culturally deprived people.

Sawer said he became active in the program for two reasons:

First, if it is a political program, then both sides should be represented so one can act as a watchdog on the other.

And second, with the program in existence people should attempt to make it conform as closely to its ideal as possible. (B10

Need Is Apparent; Method Is Argued

Poverty does exist in north Cook County. How much or just what should be done about it is debatable.

However, Frederick McLendon, executive director of the Cook County office of Economic Opportunity, has found that a main obstacle is "middle class bias."

Last week at the Wheeling Township Young Republican forum on the poverty program, McLendon got a chance to comment on this bias.

ONE MEMBER of the audience commented that the program was taking care of old people and kids and all the impoverished but giving little consideration for the middle class complacency. I know I wasn't raised in poverty and knew no poor people before I took this job.

"The physical manifestations are tremendous on these people."

At another point in the forum, McLendon said, "It is harder to be poor in an affluent society such as out here than in the city of Chicago where you are surrounded by poverty."

The contrast of rich and poor out here can cause deeper problems and psychological hardships for the poor, he said.

Evangelistic Family Preaches with Music

Showmanship Helps Tell of Salvation

by JOAN LORENSON
Staff Writer

"But as for me and my house, we will serve the Lord" appears printed on a car parked in the driveway of a Hoffman Estates home.

The message is the clue to the activity taking the James Berndt family, 251 Highland Blvd., away for weekends and summers.

The Berndt family conducts evangelistic campaigns.

Special music is the media the Berndts use to make their religious message. Berndt calls his work interdenominational but the majority of appearances are at fundamentalist Bible churches. The Berndts have never been called to Episcopal, Catholic, or Jewish services.

Usually hte program includes a concert of church music, gospel, and sermon.

A tall, well built man, Berndt considers his family's evangelistic work free lancing. "It's sacrificial," he explains, "since the family must depend on a 'love offering' for payment. This can be small or large."

THE HOST church always arranges for accommodations in private homes or at motels.

Berndt considers this might become a full-time job but hesitates to predict when. He and his wife give music lessons and have other activities for their present livelihood.

"I've always wanted to do evangelical or missionary work," he explained. He studied for the ministry at Bob Jones College in Greenville, S. C. and later at the Southwest Baptist Theological School and the North American Baptist Seminary. His wife Arleen is the daughter of a minister and sang on a religious program when she was nine years old.

THE BERNDTS use 21 instruments for their special music though their stand-bys are piano, clarinet, violin, and flute. They use a guitar and orchestra bells frequently as supplements.

The longer evangelistic campaigns are easier, Berndt believes. "After a long week, you hate to leave because you've gotten to know people." The one nighter never allows an evangelistic team to discover how effective they've been.

Part of the Berndt's program is designed to elicit some kind of audience response—sometimes in the form of a Billy Graham "come forward and witness" decision. Berndt does not worry about numbers who respond because he believes his group may have affected those who do not make a public "witness" to change or increase in their faith.

"The family of today has lost a lot," Berndt believes. "It no longer is as close a unit. Part of our ministry is to get the family together again to do things together." Having a family make up the major part of the team is effective in demonstrating the solidarity Berndt would like to see in other families.

MRS. BERNDT accompanies the group on the piano. Gwen, 16, plays the violin and often does solo work; Melody, 15, plays keyboard instruments; and Autumn, 14, plays the piano and clarinet. The Berndt's seven year old son sometimes "breaks the ice" between audience and performers by playing cow bells and sleigh bells.

The family is supplemented in long engagements by the Rev. Bill Echols of Akron, Ohio, the father of Mrs. Berndt. Rick Bravine of Chicago, a guitarist and singer, also is added to the group occasionally.

The group has 35 songs in its working repertoire, 10 in the book.

Mrs. Berndt admitted she used to get nervous before an appearance but now has conquered this "except for some butterflies" in her stomach. The girls do not seem nervous, she feels, performing consistently.

"It's an adjustment," she says of the Berndt's life that takes them traveling. Berndt is a stickler on prompt arrival for an appearance. As a result, the family leaves a half hour before the time figured necessary for a trip.

THE CHILDREN "give up a lot" in return for being the "center of attraction" on stage, the Berndts agreed. The two girls who attend Wheaton Academy were promised they could stay home from a tour to attend homecoming activities.

"We try to make the trips fun," Mrs. Berndt said. The family took a butterfly net on most of their trips so they might catch specimens for Melody's biology studies. "It didn't work out too well," Mrs. Berndt admitted. The family also tries to see some of the attractions of the areas where they're visiting. For example, they visited the Little Church in the Vale in Nashua, Iowa.

One of the girls was a reluctant performer when she was smaller. The Berndts note her development on stage with satisfaction. Berndt stresses the girls' need for personality and smiles on stage.

SHOWMANSHIP IS an integral program. The group must hold the audience. The family cannot relax after a performance since they must meet people. This personal contact is considered crucial for their success.

Berndt tries to keep the family's engagements within a 100 mile range of Chicago. The summer tour was planned with trips home at intervals.

The girls wear identical dresses made by their grandmother. Berndt usually chooses a dark suit and tie. Sometimes something like a tie he wears will match something his wife wears.

Berndt does not pattern himself after any particular evangelist. The Bible is the source for his sermons. He tries to use illustrations but avoids individual illustrations. "The minister must be a salesman because he has one of the hardest products to sell," Berndt said.

THE PLANNING Berndt requires has prevented any "no shows." The family car has had a flat tire on the way but the leaving early rule prevented a tardy appearance.

Berndt does not permit any of the group to tune an instrument on stage unless it is a violin that changes in key in a short time. If one of the girls is sick, Mrs. Berndt can substitute in the trio. When Mrs. Berndt became ill, the group switchtd to a tape recorded accompaniment. Trying to find an adequate accompanist is difficult. Berndt's one occasion of having laryngitis meant the program was taken over by the others and speaking was drastically reduced.

Berndt does not predict how long the family can continue as a team. The girls talk of going to college and their eventual marriage would bring changes. (A-15

Suburb Men to Accompany Gov. Kerner to Far East

Gov. Otto Kerner recently announced that four area residents will be among the 60 representatives of Illinois' industrial, agricultural, and commercial business interests who will accompany him on the Illinois Trade Mission to the Far East.

They are Basil Regione, 645 South Ridge, Carl M Behrens, 525 West Kirchoff, Raymond R. becker, 414 Mitchell Court, all of Arlington Heights, and W. F. Wheeler, 353 Army Trail, Addison.

The 24-day Illinois Trade Mission is designed to establish effective sales contacts for Illinois industries and products in the developing markets of the Far East.

The Mission will leave Chicago Monday, Nov. 1, and return Wednesday, Nov. 24. Participants, who represent all sections of the state, will visit Japan, Taiwan, the Philippines, Thailand, Australia and Hong Kong. Specific business contacts will be made in the cities of Tokyo, Kyoto, Osaka, Taipei, Manila, Bangkok, Hong Kong and Sydney.

MISSION MEMBERS include manufacturers of construction and refrigeration equipment, printing, packaging., duplicating and mining machinery, optical lenses, tools, pharmaceuticals and medical and laboratory equipment, as well as producers of dairy products, food supplements, soybeans, dry milk and other industrial and agricultural goods.

Regione is a partner in the Arthur Andersen and Company, Behrens is President of Carl M. Behrens & Associates, and Raymond R. Becker is Chief of Information and Publications, Illinois Department of Business and Economic Development. Becker will represent the state's tourism interests. Wheeler is president of the King Korn Marketing Corp., Chicago. They will be accompanied by their wives.

The mission is sponsored by the Illinois Department of Business and Economic Development, headed by Gene H. Graves.

Graves points out that Illinois is the nation's leading exporter of combined manufactured and agricultural goods and that the state must take every avenue to maintain this position. "Illinois is the leading exporter of electrical and non-electrical machinery and construction equipment and tools to these countries," said Graves, "and ranks either second or third among the states in the export of soybeans, corn, wheat, livestock, processed foods, grains and other food and kindred products. Many of the mission members are engaged in the manufacture or production of these products."

GOV. KERNER became the first governor to organize a statewide trade mission when, in 1963, he headed a mission to Europe that resulted in direct export sales of more than $5 million in Illinois products. Since that time 12 other states have followed Illinois' lead in conducting similar trade missions overseas.

Participants will include representatives of 27 Illinois communities from the counties of Champaign, Cook, DeWitt, Franklin, Grundy, Kane, Lake, LaSalle, Livingston, Macon, McLean, Morgan, Peoria, Will and Woodford. (A 15

Junior Achievement Advisers in Training

Volunteers in this area are completing a three-session training course to serve as advisers in Junior Achievement of Chicago's 1965-66 program.

Training acquaints the men and women with the philosophy and operations of the J. A. program in which teenagers organize and run miniature business firms to learn the principles of private enterprise.

Advisers, business executives who represent business and industrial firms in the Chicago area, will meet with teenage companies in J. A. business centers for two hours one evening a week. The youth program opens in October and ends in May when the miniature companies dissolve.

EACH COMPANY will have a team of three advisers who are skilled in management, production, and sales techniques. Advisers will guide the teens as they elect officers, select a product and company name, apply for a charter, and sell stock to begin business operations.

Raw materials will be bought and production advisers will help teens set up production lines. When products roll off the line, the teens, guided by sales advisers, will develop a sales presentation for door-to-door selling.

Guidance in record keeping, accounting procedures, and company administration will come from management advisers.

The small companies, however, are "risk" ventures. Their profit or loss picture during the year will be determined by decisions made by the company's teenage officers. In this way, teens gain a practical knowledge of the rewards and risks involved in the private enterprise economy.

APPROXIMATELY 1,300 advisers will participate in the Chicago area J. A. program. Advisers in this area and the firms they represent area:

'Newcomer' Flight Inaugurated

Work in Suburbs, Dine in Hawaii

By LEE SECHLER
Staff Writer

Is it possible to put in nearly a day's work in suburban Chicago and still be able to enjoy Polynesian food that evening in Hawaii?

Mrs. Flanders was one of a special group of area newspaper representatives who left Chicago on a recent afternoon and arrived in Honolulu shortly after 9 that evening.

The trip was made possible by American Airlines and Pan American Airways, teaming up to speed passengers from the Midwest to our 50th state.

SAID MRS. FLANDERS as she talked about the reason she and the others on the inaugural "Malihini" flight went to the island. "None of us had ever been to the island before. We wanted to see how the people live and earn a living."

"I was most impressed with the relaxed attitude and friendliness of the people," explained Mrs. Flanders.

In Hawaii from Thursday to late Sunday, Mrs. Flanders and the others on the inaugural flight were taken on guided tours of the islands, hotels and restaurants.

They were flown from Honolulu to Hilo on the island of Hawaii Saturday morning.

ALL THE ISLANDS are a one-hour ride from Honolulu now, but this will be reduced to one-half hour next year when Hawaiian Airlines puts into service the new commercial jetliners.

Hilo is the orchid-growing center of the 50th state and is located on the northeast side of the island of Hawaii. Kona, on the west side of the island, is the coffee-growing center. Islanders also engage in cattle raising and sugar cane cultivation.

Accommodations in the 50th state have developed in just a few short years.

Seven years ago, explained Mrs. Flanders, there were only eight hotels in Honolulu. Now there are hundreds. Rooms on the other islands have also been developing.

Mrs. Flanders was given a special tour of the recently built Mauna Kea Beach Hotel on the island of Hawaii. With the hotel is an excellent golf course.

SHE EXPLAINED that the school year in the Kona region has been changed to allow the children to work with their parents in hand-picking the coffee in the fall.

Flowers were evident everywhere, and bloom the year 'round, she explained.

Mrs. Flanders was impressed with the variety of activities offered to those who tour the islands.

Skiing in the winter and surfing are just two of the many activities available only a few hours from Chicago. In addition you can hunt wild goats and boars on the island of Hawaii.

"HAWAII IS becoming more of a tourist attraction because of jets which allow ease in reaching the islands," Mrs. Flanders stated.

"I want to go back again and see the rest of the islands," she explained. (A-15

MARGIE FLANDERS receives a traditional Hawaiian welcome from Kammy Makua on her arrival by the "Malihini," new through service from Chicago to Honolulu. The "Malihini" (Hawaiian for newcomer) flight departs from Chicago daily at 4:05 p.m. and arrives in Honolulu at 9:05 p.m. the same day. Four-engined jets of American and Pan Am connect to make the 4,303 mile flight in nine flight hours with a one-hour stopover in Los Angeles.

Inside Randhurst

Art Fair to Feature Work of Top Painters

By MARGARET IRWIN

I'm sure you have noticed the magnificent sight of the trees in all their Autumnal glory. It seems as if, just over night, the mysterious hand of nature painted the landscape with warm, vibrant colors. I truly believe that is why many of us love fall, for but a fleeting moment, we can enjoy the lush colors this particular time of the year brings.

Randhurst, in its own way, is rivaling nature's flamboyant beauty. Come to Randhurst Saturday, October 16 or Sunday, October 17 and you will see what I mean. These are the days that Randhurst is presenting its 4th annual Art Fair. The sparkling fountains and modern sculpture provide a most enchanting background for the varied talents of these nationally-known artists.

AMONG THE prominent artists exhibiting are: J. Ellen Wilhelm, whose marvelous seascapes captivate one's attention so that one can almost see the waves crashing on the rocks and hear their thunderous roar, and her appealing portraits of children are a delight to behold; Enid Petersen specializes in water color with an adeptness that makes her work outstanding; Robert Kaiser, manipulates his brushes with a strong hand, blending color, rhythm and style, making his water colors a pleasure to see; Sandra Weller's interesting treatment of ordinary objects is well-known to many, and one wonders what her magic brushes have captured on canvas for this show.

These are but four of the 125 nationally-famous artists Randhurst is proud to present. Each artist displays his individual artistic talents on one or more pegboards assigned to him. This is an excellent chance for you to meet these famous artists in person. Many of them have their paintings hanging in well-known places, such as, libraries, medical, office, and public buildings.

FOR THOSE of you who have never attended an art show on our covered mall, Randhurst Merchants' Association cordially invites you, and hopes you will enjoy a relaxing time in the comfortable climate of beautiful Randhurst.

Let me remind you again of the time — Saturday, Oct. 16, from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and Sunday, Oct. 17, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Please come and spend a couple of pleasant hours with us. (Rh

Appeal for Goodwill Donations

Crowded clothes closets, cluttered attics and obstacle-course basements that cause storage headaches provide the very items that Goodwill Industries needs to employ and train more than 500 handicapped women and men.

Outgrown children's summer togs, no-longer-worn winter apparel, appliances made idle by new purchases, the "extra furniture," a trunkful of clothing from a past era, jewelry, toys, musical instruments—these materials gleaned from storage provide a gold mine of training tools for the handicapped at Goodwill Industries' plant, 1500 W. Monroe St.

At Goodwill's vocational rehabilitation facilities, the handicapped discover they can work and learn a skill by repairing the used material donated by the public.

SINCE GOODWILL Industries appeared on the Chicago scene in 1919 it has been dedicated to offering the handicapped a chance to help themselves through work, not charity. It has been successful in doing this mainly through the donations by a generous public of used but usable materials that can be repaired by the handicapped and then sold in one of Goodwill's retail stores. Sales of reconditioned materials provide the major source of wages for the handicapped workers.

Householders may deposit their used clothing in one of Goodwill's clothing collection booths conveniently located outside supermarkets and at shopping centers and other business places. The booths are open for the depost of clothing 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

FOR DONATIONS of large-size items (furniture, appliances), householders may arrange for a Goodwill truck pick-up, of the materials by calling their nearest area representative:

Wheeling—Leah Axelrod, ID 2-6923, or Dorothea Bockelman, OR 5-7775.

DuPage—Mrs. Hollenbeck or Judy Jilek, MO 8-4995.

Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Prospect Heights, Rolling Meadows, Roselle, Elk Grove Village and Hoffman Estates—Margaret Krettler, CL 5-6664. (A15)

'Shaggy Hair' Latest Fad for Male Teenagers

Schools Lukewarm To Lengthy Style

By DAVID HANKS
Staff Writer

A group of teenage boys stood outside a suburban high school. Their hair extended down well over their ears and "shagged" down over most of their foreheads.

At a distant glance one couldn't tell if they were boys or girls, however.

The idea of long-shaggy hair for boys got started a couple years ago when four British chaps came to prominence in the entertainment world.

Yes, the Beatles initiated a new fad both in England and the United States. Teenage youths started letting their hair grow long so they would resemble their musical idols.

Now it has gone "too far" some school officials say, while others have more lenient opinions on the subject of long hair.

ONE OF THE most outspoken critics of the "Beatle or shaggy hair" styles is Father Paul F. Gilgallon of St. Viator High School in Arlington Heights.

"We have those who try to get by with Beatle haircuts, but if we catch them the long hair must go." He added, "If 'faddy hair' means more to them than their intellect, then we ask them to leave the school."

"We refer to them as men and expect them to get their hair cut like men or in a manly fashion," Father Gilgallon said.

Father Gilgallon, dean of men at St. Viator, said he felt it was a disservice to "the people and the community to let teenagers cut their hair in the manner they wish, just because it's "the thing to do."

PUBLIC SCHOOL officials in the northwest suburbs admitted they had some boys with long hair, but none with it down around their shoulders.

Larry Jenness, principal at Forest View High School in Arlington Heights said he was not aware of any with "Extremely long hair this year." But he admitted that some wear it "European style" which means it is down on their forehead and much longer than it ordinarily would be.

"Our policy isn't real strict about hairstyles of young men," said Jenness. "We try to deal with each individual personally."

He said if they had some who were extremely talented that he didn't think they would be asked to cut the hair or leave. "All we would require is that they conduct themselves as gentlemen," he added.

Fenton High School officials say they will not allow any student with extremely long hair, but added that it wasn't much of a problem so far this year. The main reason officials don't like Beatle haircuts is because they distract classes.

Some teenage boys at Fenton have been asked to get long hair cut, according to Norman E. West, principal. He estimated that only about two or three students out of 1,550 had long hair which extended far down around their necks and had to be disciplined.

At Prospect High in Mt. Prospect Asst. Principal Lou Schultz said the school had no rules on long or Beatle-type haircuts. "The policy is that if students with long hair disrupt classes then school officials consider what action to take."

Last year several of a combo entertainment group called the "Shadows" were students at Prospect. But Schultz said the administration didn't have one complaint from the nine teachers who taught the entertainers.

BRUNO WAARA, principal at Arlington High said the school had no problem. "But if we catch students with extremely long hair we ask them to take a trip to the barber shop." He added the main concern is that in some areas of the school, such as the shop around machinery it is dangerous to have extremely long hair.

Eddie Gilbert, of the administrative office of District 214, said there was no school board policy on long hair or hair styles. Most school officials don't frown too much if it doesn't disrupt classes. (A15

THIS TEENAGER is a typical example of the long hair or "Beatle" type haircut popular with the high school set now.

Captain in Viet Nam Tells Need for Toys

In a letter to his father, Walter Kroeber, 709 S. Walnut, Arlington Heights, Captain Donald W. Kroeber describes conditions in Viet Nam and makes a plea for toys for children living in his area.

Capt. Kroeber is head of a U.S. Military Advisory Team stationed on a peninsula located about 25 miles from Saigon.

He writes:

"...USOM (United States Overseas Mission) and USIS (United States Information Service) people (in Saigon) tell us that we must win the hearts and minds of the people if they are to win the war. Perhaps we are doing this, but the route we take passes first through their stomachs. People... here cannot eat great principles.

"THEY KNOW THAT the VC (Viet Cong guerillas) are bad—they hijack rice and water, kidnap fishermen and woodcutters and shoot up villages now and then. We and the present government are good—we bring rice and water, protect the fishermen and woodcutters and shoot back from the villages. They also know that these things cancel out nicely—except for one thing: we are bringing more food than the VC steal. So you see, we are only one step ahead...

"This country is unbelievably poor. The average per capita income is $105 in goods and money. From what I have seen in the rural areas it must be closer to $50 per year....

"YOU CAN'T LIVE among people as impoverished as (these) very long without experiencing a desire to help. Mostly, we can help through the organizations and channels set up for that purpose - USOM, Catholic Relief Society, etc. However, we also do personal favors. I'm sure you feel the same about slums, adult education, the Headstart program and other things you see.

"My latest sympathies are with the children in the villages. I don't think I have ever seen a child in this district with a toy. (The Air Force dropped some in North Viet Nam this week.) Of the 8,600 people in this district, 3,500 are under 12. No toys. Do you want a picture of great principles?

"Publish a plea for 'Toys for Can Gio' in the papers. People or companies (or newspapers) who have too much money to send individual toys can send playground equipment. We have a fine courtyard in the fifth grade elementary school here. It could accommodate several swing sets, tetherballs and merry-go-rounds.

"TELL PEOPLE that if they like the idea of sending toys here to use my APO address. It's much cheaper that way.

The Way We See It

Junior College Movement Grows

The Junior college picture in Illinois has changed dramatically in the past year.

A year ago the advocates of junior colleges were licking wounds received in referendum defeats in Lake County and in a proposed district linking the Palatine-Arlington area with Niles and Northfield Townships.

The determined junior college advocates who proposed another try in the Wheeling-Elk Grove-Schaumburg-Palatine Township area seemed to be out in left field, according to some of their critics.

However, logic of the situation began to prevail. Voters in the four-township district endorsed the idea as an important part of the answer to higher education needs. A junior college district was also set up in the Leyden-Proviso area.

Furthermore, the state legislature accepted its responsibility, and passed the junior college bills drafted after much careful citizen study. U.S. Congress made federal funds available.

Following these developments, many more areas are now moving for referenda to set up their own junior colleges.

A hearing on the subject was held last Friday in DuPage County. In Lake County, supporters of a junior college are preparing for another vote, with confidence it will carry this time.

Voices have been raised in Barrington urging citizens to consider a junior college link. A study is under way in the Riverside-Brookfield district. Undoubtedly there are many similar efforts in progress which haven't come to our attention.

It has been amply demonstrated that existing college facilities in Illinois cannot handle all of the high school graduates who can profit from further study.

Morever, many of these students cannot afford the expense of attending a distant resident college, even if space was available.

Junior college development has importance beyond students and their families. It will be a great asset to the economic development of the state.

The Wall Street Journal dealt with the importance of good schools to industrial development in a report in its Sept. 23 issue headed: "School Scrutiny: Good Educational Systems a Key Factor in Locating Plants."

The report quotes, among many others, Richard R. M. McGhee of Celanese Corp., who has major responsibility for plant site selection for that company, on the importance of an institution of higher learning (junior college at least) within easy range of the town being considered.

"There are all sorts of places that look like good sites in the boondocks of such states as Louisiana," McGhee said. "They have water, sulphur, gas—everything we need. But you can't get anyone to go there to work."

In addition to catering to the natural wish of employes to provide good schooling for their children, companies consider local junior colleges an important recruiting ground for new employes.

Thus, an area with a junior college has at least a twofold advantage in the quest for economic growth.

These are factors voters should keep in mind when the time comes to mark their junior college ballots.

Critic's Corner

Apathy Is Real Danger

By HELENE BRISTOL
Staff Writer

A friend recently returned from a visit to Alabama, raving about the "friendly attitude of the people, the welcome and helpful way the people there have in meeting strangers, and the peaceful atmosphere."

Since she was in Montgomery, the state capital, during the apparent unprovoked shotgun slaying of Jonathan Daniels, an Episcopal seminary student, and the effort to similarly kill Rev. Richard Morrisroe, a Catholic priest from Chicago, this summation of Alabama "hospitality" seemed hard to understand.

She was there, too, during the mockery of a trial in Haynesville when Thomas M. Coleman, a part-time deputy sheriff who gunned down the two, was found "not guilty."

BRISTOL

I asked if this was part of the "friendly attitude" and and the "welcome and helpful way" strangers met in Alabama.

"Oh, people did not approve, you know, but they just don't talk about those things," was the reply.

They also "did not talk about" Gov. George Wallace calling a special session of the Alabama legislature to amend the state constitution to permit him to seek another term as governor.

I wondered how "peaceful" the atmosphere would be in Illinois if Gov. Otto Kerner had called a special session of the State Legislature for his personal political gain.

THE APPARENT massive apathy of people living in Alabama seemed incredible, but then I started to think about a few local experiences.

Just last week, a group of representatives from home owners' groups in the Des Plaines area of Elk Grove Township told officials none of the residents of their area read any publications which carried news of elementary schools, high schools, township government or area park districts. Since these taxing bodies are responsible for the education of their children, their recreation and their welfare — and take the largest bite of the individual tax dollar — this seemed like mass apathy.

But these same residents aren't apathetic about complaining over the size of their tax bills, although they don't know anything about how the money is being spent.

When a basic political issue — federal aid to education — came to the fore in High School District 214 there were overflow audiences at school board meetings for three sessions. Once the board had voted on the issue, however, attendance fell to interested school people, an observer for the League of Women Voters and two local citizens. The almost 100 people who attended some of the other meetings had melted away — uninterested in real education problems when it did not further political argument.

THE APATHY seemed to infect both those opposed to federal aid and those in favor.

Assuming local citizens were interested, a special meeting with outside experts on the topic of federal aid to schools was planned by the school board as an educational forum. Speakers opposed and in favor of federal aid were brought in — one leading federal aid critic all the way from Washington, D. C.

Except for school board members, school officials and members of the League of Women Voters, who conducted the meeting, there was only a handful of citizens.

It was only an educational meeting — and apparently outspoken critics do not need to be informed. The general public played their role in true form — total apathy.

A HUMAN Relations Council finally began to take shape in Mount Prospect, started by people aware of the need to avoid frictions in cases of race, religion or similar community changes. The second meeting of the organizing committee was 'taken over" by rightists, including members of the John Birch Society who see civil rights as a "community plot."

What was the reaction of the majority of people who live in the community? The majority, who are not rightists and who, presumably, would not want inflamed incidents to mar their neighborhood reputations have "washed their hands" and their minds, too, of the problem.

It might mean standing up for their avowed principles — at least the principles they repeat weekly in their places of worship. It might mean becoming the target of typical Birch Society labeling as a "communist sympathizer." It just might mean fulfilling the role of active citizens which the founders of our nation expected from voters.

Perhaps the attitude of the people in Alabama isn't so unique after all. It is only a matter of degree.

It isn't the communists or the Birchers or the bigots who threaten to undermine our nation and our communities. It's the apathy of ordinary citizens which paves the way for them.

Choosing a Career

by BOB CUMMINS
Staff Writer

A good many years of observation have convinced me that the occupational fields containing the largest number of misfits are photography and restaurants.

I can reconstruct the circumstances that led some people to these mistaken career choices.

Let us consider Claude Thighroyd. After leaving high school, Claude spent a number of years as a tire changer at various service stations in Jefferson Park.

CUMMINS

One day at the race track he hit the daily double and three other winners besides. After celebrating properly, he still had about $1,000 left. He used it to buy quite a good camera and some photographic equipment. He rented a store front and had a sign painter letter the following legend on the door:

CLAUDE THIGHROYD
Photography
Portrait - Commercial - News

His commercial pictures feature groundbreakings, for which he keeps an ample supply of shovels on hand. Judging by the evidence of his pictures, these groundbreakings usually take place at about 5:30 a.m. on a foggy morning.

If Claude eventually runs out of photographic customers, which sometimes happens, he will say to his wife, "Alice, I think I may sell the photography studio and go into something else. There's a nice little restaurant for sale out on Northwest Highway."

And so we get a new restaurateur. Claude relies on the tested weapons which have proved so effective in the war against gastro-intestinal well-being—the hamburger with french fries, meat loaf, and the Friday fish fry.

Perhaps the state should give a test to all prospective restaurateurs.

IT COULD be a simple multiple choice test like the following:

(1) The desired color of gravy is: ( ) blue, ( ) gray, ( ) brown.

(2) If coffee spills in a saucer, the waitress should ( ) pour it back into the cup, ( ) tell the customer to be careful, ( ) start over.

(3) Sauce veloute is made with: ( ) kraut juice, ( ) veal stock, ( ) Dr. Pepper.

(4) One of the following ingredients must never be used in a stew: ( ) dandelion greens, ( ) tire patches, ( ) oregano.

It may seem drastic, but I think a candidate for restaurant proprietorship should be required to score at least 50 per cent on this test.

After all, the state requires a license for embalmers. Why can't it do something for us when we're still alive—like helping to keep us that way?

Roselle Improvement Effort Aided by Reports

Like most other growing northwest suburbs, Roselle faces a multitude of problems aggravated by change and expansion. Roselle is fortunate, however, to have the benefit of two recent reports to guide it in its future development.

A study by Action Committee to Improve Village Environment (ACTIVE) shows need for some changes, and offers specific solutions.

A community survey conducted by the Jaycees effectively demonstrates how Roselle residents feel about local government, business, recreation, education, and beauty. Some of the survey responses could be utilized as guidelines for action.

The conclusion to be drawn from both reports is that the public image of Roselle "is not the best."

A contributing factor appears to be apathy among residents, which indifference apparently stems from an acceptance of high taxes, physical eyesores, and a lack of interested leadership.

ACTIVE offers concrete suggestions on beautification of the village, a better recreation program, improvement of Roselle's public image through public relations, and enhancment of community facilities.

Foremost among recommendations were removing litter from streets, replanting and repaving of Main Street, providing sidewalks throughout the village, installing additional street lights, and developing more parking space.

Village officials are exercising initiative in implementing some of the ACTIVE recommendations. Already in progress is a plan to build sidewalks with minimum destruction of trees essential to maintenance of beauty. Negotiations are under way with the Milwaukee Road to move the train depot east of the village to help solve the parking problem. Roselle also plans to buy a street sweeper to remove litter from the streets.

High on ACTIVE's list of "musts" is beautification of Roselle's downtown-Main Street area. Village Pres. William Florence says the board plans to ask civic groups such as the Jaycees, Lions, and others, to start voluntary projects to dress-up this and other sections of the village. The trustees are even willing to offer some financial support for projects involving municipal property.

ACTIVE offers some suggestions for improving the village's recreation program. Primary responsibility here lies with the park district, currently working on plans for an expanded program, hopefully, in operation by next year.

The reports by ACTIVE and Jaycees have focused public attention on Roselle shortcomings as well as reviewed the advantages of living in the village.

Village and park officials must continue to exert leadership and solicit professional counsel. But officialdom cannot do the job alone. Progress for Roselle must be a united effort on the part of village and park officials, civic and service groups, merchants, and most important of all, the citizens themselves.

Suburbanites 'Speak Up!'

OK Gambling for Charity?

By NANCY ANDERSON
Staff Writer

Is gambling a legitimate means of raising funds to benefit community projects?

Northwest suburban residents had a variety of responses to this question when they were asked to Speak Up! this week.

Leading up to the informal questioning was recent purchase by Bensenville VFW Tioga Post 2149 of a federal gaming stamp for coin-operated pinball and slot machines. If the machines are obtained, profits would be used to support the post's projects in the area, according to Tioga officials. The Tioga Post, with some 1,500 members, has a long record of public service in the north DuPage County area.

ANDERSON

Regarding gambling generally, several persons expressed a similar attitude: "If people are going to gamble, they're going to gamble, so the benefits might as well go to charity."

"WHY GIVE IT to the gangsters?" asked Mrs. Richard H. Erickson of 248 Forest, Buffalo Grove. "I don't know why they don't legalize gambling. It's just the racketeers who profit now."

She continued, "These clubs — such as the Legion, VFW, many others — they're all benefiting somebody. Why not let them use the money instead of lining the pockets of gangsters?"

"No, I guess I don't object," said Mrs. John M. Edwards of 416 N. Russell, Mount Prospect. "All I know is I would never use one (gambling device). I consider it stupid from any angle."

But, she said, "You can make thousands of laws, and people will go ahead and do what they want to anyway."

Gambling doesn't appeal to Mrs. Thomas Stickles of 6924 Glenwood Lane, Hanover Park, either. "I imagine if it was going to do some real good in the community, I'd go along with it," she said. "Though I don't know how gambling can do any good."

Her husband "just doesn't care for gambling. He says he works too hard for his money to waste it like that."

MRS. KENNETH F. Crouse of 223 Pine, Bensenville, thinks "it would be perfectly all right in a place like that (a VFW post) where it's confined mainly to adults. And, when it's used for those projects and things."

Concern about the effect on young people of any sort of gambling was expressed by Mrs. Robert X. Avildsen of 284 W. Old Plum Grove, Palatine.

"My first thought when you ask me that question is that I have a teen-age son," she said. "And he'll be driving a car in another year. I would just as soon not have any opportunities like that too accessible."

Regarding the charitable aspects, she commented, "I'm sure there are other ways of raising the money."

ANOTHER negative opinion was expressed by Mrs. William J. Cobb of 1534 N. Walnut, Arlington Heights.

When contacted, she commented, "I was just talking to my husband about this last night, gambling in general. I would just rather we didn't have any at all."

Some churches take a conservative stand on the whole issue, while others are more liberal and some feature bingo as a standard means to raise funds.

The position of the Baptist church is firm. "We allow gambling under no circumstances," explained the Rev. L. D. Patrick of the First Baptist Church of Wood Dale, which also serves Itasca and Bensenville.

"The teachings of the church are quite conservative," as you can see. We even oppose the $2 bet at the race track."

AMONG THOSE which take a less strict stand is the Presbyterian church, where "we would want to review each social problem before taking a position," said the Rev. William R. King of John Calvin United Presbyterian Church of Prospect Heights.

"In light of the specific situation, I would like to look around at other organizations doing similar things before making any blanket statement."

Young Parents Attracted By 'Williamsburg' Home

In Colonial Heights, located in Mount Prospect on Busse Road, three blocks north of Golf Road, a one-story ranch model has been designed especially for the middle-income family looking for practical layout and complete livability.

Known as the "Williamsburg," the home is of colonial ranch styling with face brick exterior on all sides, full basement, three bedrooms and 1½ baths. It is priced at $23,900.

Speaking for the builders, sales director Neil Hunter said, "The young couple with one to three children seem particularly drawn to this home, because of its convenient layout and traffic pattern."

A LOW SILHOUETTE and shuttered windows of differing proportions enhance the exterior appeal of the "Williamsburg." The buyer has a wide choice of color in the face brick used on all sides of the home. Entrance is directly into the living room, almost 19 feet by 12½ feet in size. Featured here are a large picture window reaching nearly across the front wall, and three unbroken walls for exercise of various decorating ideas.

The kitchen-dining area is directly back from the front entrance. This combined space is well over 17 feet long, with double sliding glass doors on the far side of the dining space opening out to the rear of the home. The other half of this combined area is taken up by the kitchen proper, with cabinets, double sink, work space and counters in a step-saving U-layout.

At one corner is the rear entrance to the home, opening into the kitchen and to the stairs to the basement. The latter extends completely to all foundation walls of the house, and provides plenty of room for recreation, children's table tennis or other play equipment, and laundering utilities.

Thtre is ample room here, too, for future addition of a den, hobby room, woodworking shop or a similar room.

ON THE MAIN level, the sleeping wing of the home is reached by a long distributing corridor with a short right-angled extension at the end for additional privacy. Located near the center of the over-all plan, the family bathroom opens off the central corridor, is attractively finished in a choice of color-toned tile and fixtures.

The half-bath—similarly finished, with colorful tile and fixtures—is private to the master bedroom, and has its own matching basin and drtssing table. A convenient linen closet is at one end of the corridor, handy to both bathrooms.

Each of the three bedrooms is attractively finished, with a double-size sliding-door closet and a double-width window for full ventilation.

OTHER FEATURES of the "Williamsburg" include oak hardwood floors; drain tile around entire building; full exterior insulation; overhead sewer; gas forced air heat; double-hung wood windows; etc.

Colonial Heights model homes—ranging from $23,900 to $32,700—are open to visitors daily from 10 a.m. The attractive Mount Prospect Community is located on Busse Road, three blocks north of Golf Road (Route 58). (10BB

SELF ANALYSIS QUIZ

How Good Are Your Church Manners?

By Jane Sherrod Singer

The same people who are considered to be polite and courteous can be sorely lacking when it comes to good manners in church. Let's see how you rate on these questions.

	YES	NO
1. Do you ever find yourself sending messages by mouthing, writing notes or pantomiming to someone you know?	( )	( )
2. If you come early and take an aisle seat, do you expect people to step over you to find their places?	( )	( )
3. If you know the Bible passage, do you say it along with the pastor or priest during his sermon?	( )	( )
4. Is it hard for you to sit still inchurch?	( )	( )
5. Do you wear your coat or wrap into church and take it off during the sermon?	( )	( )
6. Is it hard for you to stay awake during the services?	( )	( )
7. Are you frequently amused during a sermon when the subject is serious?	( )	( )
8. Do you make it a habit to see if all your friends are in church?	( )	( )
9. Is it difficult for you to keep your mind from wandering during the service?	( )	( )
10. Do you take a long time to talk with the pastor or priest, after church is over?	( )	( )
11. Are you uncomfortable in church if you feel you are not dressed in the latest style?	( )	( )
12. Is it hard for you to keep from whispering?	( )	( )
13. Do you go to church primarily because it is the thing to do?	( )	( )
14. If someone were sitting in the spot where you usually sit, would you ask him or her to move?	( )	( )
15. Do you make a show of how much (or how little) you are giving during collection?	( )	( )

SCORING: Give yourself two points for each "no" answer.

30 points—Your priest or pastor is very happy when he sees you in church. He looks for you and to you as the perfect member of the congregation, a person who is in church, not only to learn, but to set an example.

22 to 28 points—Your church manners are very good. Once in a while you slip, but you really don't intend to do so. You are basically thoughful and know the meaning of religion.

12 to 20 points—You need to think through the reasons you go to church. Consideration for the solemnity, your priest or pastor and your fellow man should be taken into account. Remember Matthew VII:12.

0 to 10 points—Exercise your basic self control. You will be surprised how good you will feel when you can answer all these questions with a "NO".

Wheeling Furniture Store Growing with Community

Wheeling is a town with a 133-year history, founded on the banks of the Des Plaines River as a stage coach stop on what was once the main route from Chicago to Milwaukee.

But Wheeling is now a fast growing suburb of Chicago, and growing right along with the community has been Wheeling Furniture at 82 E. Dundee Road, just a stone's throw from historic Milwaukee Avenue.

One of their current features in their large assortment of home furnishings are new lines of rugs and custom drapes.

Their racks contain the latest in the durable "high pile" carpets in olive greens, old golds, royal blues, and the new favorite hues of red, plus oranges for accent.

An expanded line of drapes are hung in simulated room conditions for customers to ponder upon.

KEEPING UP with the current tastes keeps them hopping, the two partners tell. They report that whereas in the past 99 per cent of the demand was for tweed fabrics, now it is almost entirely for plain textures.

Ensembles of dining room and bedroom suites are on display on the floor, and combinations of furniture for all parts of a house.

Wheeling Furniture also offers extended payment plans to match family budgets. (SS

HINTS TO HOMEOWNERS

by Richard H. DeLano, Associate Farm Advisor

ALERT HOMEOWNERS DIAL DAILY 392-3060

By: Richard DeLano
Assistant Cook County Farm Adviser in Ornamental Horticulture and Floriculture

If fall is here can winter be far away? Certainly not when we think of the potential nightly invasions of frost that occur long before winter sets in for good.

There are two types of protection that can be used at this time of year, fall frost protection and full scale winter protection.

FROST PROTECTION takes advantage of the natural stored heat of the earth. If insulating materials are placed lightly over the tops of the plants this heat is trapped, thus warding off possible frost. The insulating materials may be newspapers, old blankets or even large sheets of plastic. Large sheets may be purchased off rolls that may be six to twelve feet wide and as long as you wish. When handling such large sections of material it takes only a few seconds to protect the average size garden.

You should look for possible frost on clear windless evenings. Carefully protected, some semi-hardy plants such as roses can have their blooming season extended to as late as November.

Although now is the time for frost protection, it's much too early for actual winter protection. In fact, my roses right now are in a good stage of bloom. There's certainly no reason to cut this bloom short by winter pruning.

There are however preparations that you can make for winter. Evergreens should be thoroughly watered before the ground freezes. Fertilization at this time has been found to be even more effective than in early spring. Although mulches should not be applied until after the ground is thoroughly frozen, you can start collecting the material now.

YOUNG PLANTS, especially evergreens, less than three years in a location should be protected from winter wind and sun. This can be done by erecting two sided lath cages or covering with burlap.

Older evergreens such as some arborvitae may need protection from the weight of snow. Simply attach a cord to the base of a branch and spiral upward and attach.

Winter is coming without a doubt. However, we can squeeze every last bit of bloom and fruit from the garden by proper frost protection and not starting winter protection too soon. (15BB

Olds Toronado Sets Pike's Peak Record

United States Auto Club has revealed that Oldsmobile's new front-wheel-drive Toronado has soared up the twisting dirt road to the top of mighty Pike's Peak, climbing the 14,110 foot mountain in just over 14 minutes—the best time recorded by any stock powered automobile this year.

An official timer clocked the Toronado at 14:09.9 during its start-to-finish scramble, and the results were certified by the Records Division of the United States Auto Club.

The impressive run was a special non-competitive test conducted by Oldsmobile engineers to confirm the Toronado's ability to maneuver safely on hills and turns. Pike's Peak is often used for such tests as the mountain's curving road is considered by many to be the world's most difficult.

USAC ALSO announced that the Toronado run established the best time ever at Pike's Peak for a car equipped with an automatic transmission. It was also equipped with power steering and power brakes as all three components are standard equipment on the Toronado.

The special test run was conducted Friday, Oct. 1, only 14 days before the Toronado makes its public debut in Oldsmobile dealer showrooms.

Bobby Unser, seasoned veteran of many Pike's Peak runs, was retained by Oldsmobile as consultant and driver for the test.

In support of the run, Unser stated that the Toronado's superb handling and superior traction from the driving wheels, together with the car's directional stability and more precise steering, were a definite advantage in safely accelerating through steep climbs and hard turns along the slippery,

Lighting Ideas Give Homes Fresh Spark

Homes are often like people. To keep up-to-date and pleasing to all viewers, they need to be revived now and then with fresh new sparkle.

Often, for a relatively small expenditure, new lighting ideas may be incorporated that will bring the entire house up to date. Here are a few "how to's" on reviving the home with light.

To put new life in an old kitchen, and to give all the conveniences and comforts of good seeing, install a generous-sized ceiling fixture and add special lighting under the upper cabinets to light up work surface areas that call for "close seeing." If there's a kitchen work desk, place a long, slender panel of light above the desk.

MORE AND MORE home makers are electing to bring back the dining room. A pulley lamp, with a three-way switch for low, medium or high lighting, placed over the dining table, may be pulled down for good lighting and zoomed ceiling-ward when not in use.

Or, use a chandelier. A wide range of sizes and designs is available, to suit any type of decorating and any budget.

To light up the front entrance a romantic lantern fixture will decorate as well as spread a welcoming glow of light. For an additional friendly invitation through lighting, place a path light on the ground near the door mat.

IN THE ENTRANCE hall, chase dull shadows as well as put a good light on the furnishings with cheery pendants hanging from the ceiling. Use singly, or in a cluster using four or five different colors.

Decorative lighting fixtures are lighting up bathrooms that continue to get prettier as well as more convenient. Electric supply dealers now feature an extensive display of bathroom fixtures that are attractive, easy to install and carefully crafted. (SS

FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS — by C. D. Smith

Parents Say 'No' to Sunday School

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I have been reading the article "FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS" for a long time. I have a problem I hope you can solve. I have been going to Sunday School for several months to a church near where I live. I met a girl at Sunday School. My parents found out about her and they do not like her and have stopped me from going to Sunday School. I like Sunday school, and not just because of the girl. I think it is interesting. I told this to my parents but they still say I can never go back to Sunday School but must go where they say until I grow up. I'll soon be 18. Don't you think I should be allowed to go where I want? What should I do? I like this girl very much and I cannot quit her as easily as my parents think. What should I do?"

OUR REPLY: Examine your conscience very thoroughly. Determine if you have been honest with yourself and with your parents. Have you, perhaps even sub-consciously, been using Sunday School as an excuse to see this girl? Would you not still use it as an excuse if such were possible?

Your parents should have no objection to your going to Sunday School. Isn't there another church in your town which offers you the same opportunity to attend Sunday School? Have you investigated this possibility? Have you discussed it with your parents?

If your parents object to the girl, they have a reason. It may be nothing more than the fact they do not feel you should become too interested in any girl. See if you can, by approaching your parents sensibly and matter-of-fact, find the reason. Be prepared to look at things from "their side of the fence" — remember they have a responsibility to do not that which makes you happiest, but that which is best for you.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, COMMUNITY AND SUBURBAN PRESS SERVICE, FRANKFORT, KY.

How to Plan Laundry Room

You do a lot of thinking before you select a neighborhood in which to buy, build or rent a house.

But do you also consider all the possibilities before you decide where to place your laundry equipment?

According to the American Gas Association, laundering is the next most important task after meal preparation, serving and clean-up. Important factors for every woman to consider are, therefore, the size and activities of her family, her own laundering habits and the space limitations of her home.

An automatic washer and gas dryer can be placed in any one of a number of rooms, but a laundry complete with adequate work and storage space should have a minimum over-all area of 8x10 feet.

A recent trend, according to "Your Plan for Designing An Efficient Gas Kitchen & Laundry" by the American Gas Association, is to bring the laundry upstairs. Possible laundry locations listed in this pamphlet are as follows:

BASEMENT

Advantages:
Usually plenty of space available.
Plumbing and other utility outlets often already located here.

Disadvantages
Usually too far from other household activities.
Too many steps to climb, etc.

UTILITY ROOM

Advantages:
Ideal for small basementless house.
Usually sufficient storage space.
Water heater often can be installed in utility room or immediately below to shorten hot water pipe runs and reduce temperature loss.
Can often be located on first floor.

Disadvantages:
Often too small in new homes.

KITCHEN

Advantages:
Convenient—most of homemaker's work can be centered in one area.
Plumbing cost relatively low — use existing piping.
Can be separated from food preparation center with partial wall, screen, counter peninsula.

Disadvantages:
Usually difficult to provide adequate facilities for all laundering needs.
To prevent moisture from collecting in room, dryer should have an exhaust to the outside.

FAMILY ROOM

Advantages:
Extra use of available space.

Disadvantages:
Depend on location.

GARAGE OR CARPORT

Advantages:
Takes advantage of what might be wasted space.
Indoor space for drying on rainy days if housewife doesn't have dryer.
May be only space available in basementless house.

Disadvantages:
Not good in cold climates.
May be very inconvenient — requires carrying of laundry from house.
Often dusty — equipment will probably need covers.

BATHROOM

Advantages:
Saves time and steps—wash is done where most soiled things accumulate.
Easy to store unironed items, i.e. towels, etc.
Convenient to bedrooms for storing ironed items.

Disadvantages:
Usually higher installation costs.
Usually difficult to provide adequate ironing facilities.

BEDROOM

Advantages:
Can be economical if plumbing is "backed-up" to bathroom.
Convenient to storage areas.

Disadvantages:
Noisy.
Difficult to provide adequate ironing facilities.
Must install longer piping and provide adequate venting.

SEWING ROOM

Advantages:
May be convenient.
Many mending jobs discovered in laundry.
Ironing necessary after many sewing operations.

Disadvantages:
Depend on location in house.

"I REMEMBER" BY THE OLD TIMER

From Clara Warner, Berwyn, Pennsylvania: In reference to Wallace S. Murray's letter, I must say it brought back old time memories to me. The 16 to one candy was indeed good. It had a soft cream center thickly covered with chocolate. It came into being about the time William J. Bryan, Democrat, and William McKinley, Republican, were running for President. There was a catchy Republican song with the 16 to 1 slogan. All I can remember of it is . . . "16 to 1 — for Bryan will be done, for we all want M. C."

On the day McKinley was shot, I was in a dairy at our street corner getting milk to add to what we already had for oyster stew — good milk, ¼ yellow cream, at 8c a quart; skim at 4c per quart. The dairyman just grabbed his hat and said to his wife, "McKinley has been shot. I'm off to Washington." I went home and told Mother. Father came home and he, too, was in a hurry — off to Washington.

During the hour of the funeral services, the power was turned off all over Philadelphia. The church bells pealed and most people on the streets stood with heads bowed. I like to think they all did as we did — said a silent prayer for our fallen leader. Thanks for the memories and I do enjoy the column."

Confidence

"And you will have confidence, because there is hope; and you will be protected and take your rest in safety."
— Job 11:18

The difference between setback and defeat is sometimes nothing more than a point of view. The man who refuses to give up hope still has a chance.

Whatever befalls you is an experience that someone, somewhere, has endured. No problem is so peculiar that no one has not attempted to solve it before you. However cloudy your outlook may be, the world becomes darker still if you close your eyes and turn away.

Have hope—and you have confidence; you have the spirit and the will to say, "I'll try," rather than "I quit." Rest assured that God does not forsake you. Have faith, maintain hope—and confidence will urge you to try again.

Purple Heart Vets Eligible For Insurance

Although not a necessary possession, a Purple Heart decoration might make a veteran eligible to reinstate all or part of his National Service life insurance that he may have dropped since release from service.

A veteran's eligibility to repurchase insurance under a new law passed by Congress is based on his having a service-connected disability. Many types of surgery performed during active service would leave scars, which would not necessarily entitle the veteran to disability compensation. However, the disability would be service-connected and thus would qualify him to purchase insurance.

Thousands of veterans who underwent surgery in service but never filed claims to establish service-connection for the condition, may still do so, thereby establishing eligibility for reinstating insurance. Deadline is May 2, 1966. (15WUS

SUNDAY'S SERMON

ESSENCE OF SIN

We sometimes have the wrong idea about what sin really is. We think we sin only when we do something that we know is wrong, something we ought not to do.

Perhaps we make too much of the fact that most of the Ten Commandments begin with the formula, "Thou shalt not." The Commandments are not a series of negatives and mere restraints. We should remember that when Jesus was asked the greatest commandment in the law, he said, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart." This is positive and we do not have to speculate; we know that Jesus meant that a true love of God would turn us away from sin in all its forms and disguises.

Let us be positive in our evaluation of sin and remember we shall not be judged solely on the basis of our outward sins. It is written that on the last judgement the King shall come in glory of his Father with holy angels, before him gathered all nations, and he shall say unto them on his left hand, "Depart from me . . . for I was a stranger and ye took me not in, I was hungered and ye fed me not, I was sick and in prison and ye visited me not."

So, do more than avoid evil. Fill your life with goodness. Let it may not be charged that you "did it not."

Her Parents Don't Trust Her

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I am almost 13, and am not allowed out after dark. I wasn't really happy when I found out that my parents don't trust me. I can tell by the way they act. I am not allowed to stay overnight with my girlfriend unless her brother isn't there. My parents won't even let me stay with her if her parents are home. They don't like the kids I run around with. They might not trust me, yet they sure trust my sister. They let her go to the drive-in with a boy, by themselves. I think my parents could trust me just a little.

OUR REPLY: At almost 13, you are only 12—and your parents are obliged to provide parental guidance and supervision. If they permitted you to go where you pleased, do as you pleased, you could be certain of one thing; they were either shirking responsibility or didn't care what happened to you.

When parents say "no" it is not merely because they don't "trust" their children. Your parents do not let you go out after dark because you really have no business being out at night. The thought that you might do something "wrong" is perhaps secondary to the possibility that something might happen to you. And, your parents are responsible for your welfare, both legally and morally.

Your parents supervise your activities because they care for you; you should be happy about this situation.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, COMMUNITY AND SUBURBAN PRESS SERVICE, FRANKFORT, KY.

Federal Okay Given District 214 Youth Corps

Young Fashions

Children of Berlin, both boys and girls, wore corsets as part of the fashionable attire in that city in 1760.

by HELENE BRISTOL
Staff Writer

While Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) was announcing in Washington that formal federal approval of the controversial High School District 214 Neighborhood Youth Corps project, school board members here Monday night agreed to go ahead with the project on their own.

Board members agreed there was a real need for the program and it should be put into effect before any more of the school term passed.

The action by the school board followed on the heels of a hectic verbal exchange between board members and four spokesmen of the Arlington Heights based Taxpayers Association of District 214.

THE TAXPAYERS group started the exchange with a letter charging the school board with "basic distrust and lack of faith in your community."

The running commentary in the board room ended when the 10 members of the taxpayers group stalked from the room.

The exodus came when Albert J. Miller said he would give the board members some information requested on the "comprehensive work study program which the taxpayers group had offered to sponsor. Both board members Dr. Frank Smith and Hal Armstrong insisted the information be written — "to avoid controversy on who said what and when" and so that "it could be verified."

Miller said that if they would not take his word, perhaps the group was "wasting our time here." Smith replied, "Maybe you are," and the group left with private commentaries about being thrown out and being told to get out.

THE LETTER submitted by the Taxpayers Association withdrew the comprehensive work-study program proposal by the group. The group stated the proposal had been submitted as an alternative to the NYC, not as a supplement. The group charged the board rejected the proposal in favor of federal aid, then asked the taxpayers' group to operate their program as a supplement.

At the meeting at which the NYC was approved by the schoo board, Armstrong questioned Warren E. Frandsen of Tef, Inc., at length before the vote was taken. Frandsen, who had been listed by the taxpayers as their official spokesman that night, replied that he thought the group would go right ahead with the work-study program regardless of the vote.

Rolland A. Franzen, Arlington Heights attorney, said at the time approval of the youth corps would be a "stumbling block" which would "take the impetus away."

Frandsen has not appeared at subsequent school board meetings as a taxpayers representative and is reported to have broken with the group over their refusal to proceed with the work-study program.

Board President Arthur E. Aronson told the taxpayers group, "You have lropped the ball — in light of the Chicago federal aid action you could have gone all over the country with a successful program —all over the world-"

THOMAS NOVOTNY, Arlington Heights Republican precinct captain, countered by telling Aronson the school board had "dropped the ball" by "rejecting" the taxpayers proposed program.

Board member Earl Thompson asked if the taxpayers had contacted anymanufacturers or if they had made the decision to write their letter on the basis of their own meetings. Franzen said that businessmen were contacted, and mentioned Fuzeon in Des Plaines.

Board secretary Leah Cummins queried the taxpayers group if they meant local industry would only be interested in providing jobs for youths from low-income families to avoid use of federal aid by local schools.

She asked if this meant the jobs would disappear as soon as the federal aid program was no longer available, or if local business people were primarily interested in providing training for area students.

In approving the basic NYC program to be supported by local school funds, the board noted action was needed because no information had been received on the feleral NYC application.

THE FEDERAL program would cover 100-students at a total cost of $84,410, with $75,180 coming from federal allocations. The approximate $9,000 difference would be paid by District 214. Of the total cost more than $61,000 will go toward enrollee wages.

The program will cover about 40 students now in school but unemployed and about 60 students who have dropped out of school and who need work experience to increase their employability or to enable them to resume school.

The board's approval of a locally financed NYC program would have included only the approximate 40 students from low-income families now in school. All of these students need paid work experience in order to stay in school. Ages of the students in both proposals is 16 through 21.

Presumably the federal approval of the entire NYC program will void the board action Monday. (B10

Final Okay Given New Liquor Permits

By a vote of 4-3, Mount Prospect trustees Tuesday night officially added three liquor permits for package sales in the village.

Pres. Dan Congreve cast the deciding "yes" vote, with Trustees Robert Colfer, Joseph Grittani and Robert Teichert. Voting against raising the number of Class C licenses from six to nine were Trustees Frank Bergen, Harry Bruhl and Parker Ekren.

BRUHL AND BERGEN also had opposed the action on first reading of the ordinance two weeks ago, when it was recommended the licenses should go to the Jewel food store on Northwest Highway, the Village Market on Prospect Avenue and the National Tea food store now under construction at Route 83 and Golf Road.

$28,000 Sidewalk Assessment Okayed

Mount Prospect trustees Tuesday night approved a $28,000 special assessment for construction of sidewalks along portions of Central Road, Pine Street, Maple Street and Elmhurst Avenue.

Sidewalks will be installed:

—Along Central on the north side from 1,040 feet east of Arthur (the Bruning company) to 250 feet west of Kenilworth Avenue; on the south for 116 feet east of Lewis Street; and on the north past Mount Prospect Plaza from Rand Road to Westgate Road.

—Along both sides of Pine from Central to Northwest Highway.

—ALONG the west side of Maple for 442 feet south of Prospect Avenue, to the village parking lot.

—Along Elmhurst on the west side for 100 feet south from Elmhurst Road to an alley.

The trustees recommended the village foot 20 per cent of the estimated $27,861.76 bill, or about $5,600, as special benefit. The remainder of the cost will be assessed against property owners, primarily commercial establishments. (M

Falcons Battle Wildcats; Cards Home

Grad Day at Forest View

Both Elevens Surprise In Early Season Action

by MICHAEL HESS

Two grid surprises, one pleasant and one not so pleasant, face each other this week.

Wheeling and Forest View collide in the fifth 1965 pigskin contest for each on Saturday. Both have performed unexpectedly thus far.

The Wildcats had a winless first season and many thought they'd repeat as doormats. Instead they've pulled to a 1-2-1 record and haven't been trounced yet.

The Falcons are 3-1 to date but haven't been as impressive as many had hoped. They were 4-4 one year ago and returning talent had tabbed them as a pre-season powerhouse.

IMPROVEMENT for coach Bill Daletski's 'Cats has come through better defense. In '64 Wheeling yielded a whopping 32 points per game. That has been reduced to 8.3 points this season.

Main credit for the defensive stiffening is given by headman Daletski to linemen Ted Armstrong, Tony Stiok, Jim Whittington and Steve Zasadny. "I can't praise them enough," commented their coach. "They're the ones who have helped strengthen us."

That improved strength brought about the first shutout in school history when Wheeling blanked Prospect last Saturday. Unfortunately the Wildcats didn't score either and 0-0 was the final result.

Not producing touchdowns has been the main problem for the 'Cats. They've averaged 3.3 points against this season's opposition compared to four points each time out last year.

Wheeling's point production won't be helped by two critical injuries.

END KEN Traversone will definitely miss the meeting with sprained ankle. Moving in for him will be either Jim Harfield or Al Gibbon. Gibbon will enter when a pass receiver is needed and Hatfield will be used main-

Hinsdale in Final Visit

Arlington Seeks Rebound After First Loss of '65

by BOB FRISK

Memorable victories and embarrassing defeats . . . they've all been a part of Arlington High School's football series with Hinsdale.

The final chapter in this gridiron story will unfold Friday evening as perennially powerful Hinsdale comes to town to make its final visit to the Arlington High field.

Arlington and Hinsdale have tangled 14 times in varsity football ranks, and coach Harvey Dickinson's Red Devils have emerged with 11 victories. Some of those Hinsdale victories have been extremely embarrassing for the Cardinals.

There was a 59-12 massacre in 1951. And a 47-6 whipping in 1960. Hinsdale has averaged 27 points for each outing against Arlington High School.

BUT THERE have been some bright spots in this series that began back in 1951.

Arlington, boasting a so-so 2-3 league record, shocked the unbeaten Red Devils, 13-12, in 1953 with Dick Winterbauer scoring the winning touchdown with 15 seconds remaining.

Two years later Arlington built up a 20-13 lead at halftime and held on for another victory over Hinsdale, and in 1957 the Cards jumped on top of another unbeaten Devil unit by three touchdowns and finally pulled out a 20-14 win.

THAT 20-14 CONQUEST was the last Arlington victory in the series. Hinsdale has rolled up seven straight triumphs since 1957, including a dramatic, come-from-behind 27-26 win in 1959.

The concluding act in this gridiron series Friday evening is expected to draw a capacity crowd to the Arlington High field as the Cardinals seek to bounce back from their first loss of the season.

THAD WOODARD
May Go to Line

Hinsdale blanked La Grange last Saturday, 19-0, to remain the only unbeaten club in West Suburban play. Four teams, including Arlington, are tied for second at 2-1.

The circumstances revolving around Friday's contest at Arlington are similar to those that surrounded the 1964 meeting.

WHEN ARLINGTON and Hinsdale got together last fall, the Cards were riding high with a 2-0 record and were fresh from an 8-7 shocker over York. Hinsdale was forced to bounce off the floor after a 25-0 loss to La Grange.

Today, Arlington is faced with rebounding and Hinsdale is riding high after an impressive conquest of La Grange.

ARLINGTON'S AL Allen was disappointed in his squad's performance in the 13-6 loss to York.

"There was a lack of team effort," he said. "It was the second poorest game we've played in three years and the other one also was at York."

Mark Frase, the Cards' 200-pound lineman and one of the top performers this season, was ill the week of the York game and wasn't able to go full blast Saturday but he should be okay for Hinsdale.

ALLEN DID praise the defensive performances of Thad Woodard, Bill Syre, Tom LeStarge, and Bruce Weber and indicated that Woodard, a rugged 185-pound senior, may get a shot at an offensive line position.

Woodard, the co-captain and "quarterback" on defense, is a versatile senior who can play anywhere and who thrives on the challenge. He may be worked in at either guard or tackle.

Offensively against York, the Cardinal passing game clicked for 132 yards on nine completions, and 6-6 end Bruce Hubbard increased his yardage total to 320 for 18 grabs.

Hubbard is closing in on the school pass receiving marks established by Gene Dahlquist in the 1959 season. Bruce needs 11 more receptions but only 70 more yards to eclipse Dahlquist's standards of 28 for 389 yards.

OVER IN THE Hinsdale camp Dickinson was naturally encouraged by the Devils' easy win over La Grange last Saturday. "We've been improving every week since losing to New Trier in the opener," he said.

Dickinson is deep in available talent once again with several outstanding backs. Pete Malin (160) quarterbacks the Red Devils with Ken Koranda (190) and Parker Wellington (185) slated to open at halfbacks Friday and Gary Weck (190) at fullback.

Lions to Test St. Mel

by BOB FRISK

There was a time not so many years ago when one of the most successful coaches in the Chicago Catholic League was Bob McAlpin and one of the most successful high school running backs was Joe Gliwa.

McAlpin served as head coach at Holy Trinity High School and his star pupil was Gliwa, a do-everything back who picked up All-City, All-State, and All Catholic All America honors.

Today, McAlpin is the football boss at St. Mel High School and Gliwa coaches St. Viator in Arlington Heights.

They'll match teams Sunday at 2 p.m. in Rockne Stadium in Chicago, and this is where a friendship ends — at least for a few hours.

McALPIN AND GLIWA have good reasons to be a little discouraged these days. Their clubs have both gone through four weeks of the 1965 season without a victory.

While St. Mel has been leveled by decisive margins, St. Viator has been involved in some battles to the wire. The Lions have dropped decisions by one, four, and six points and also have a tie.

The one that really hurt was that 13-12 loss to Holy Cross last Friday evening in the Chicagoland Prep League lidlifter. St. Viator had the lead and the football with only seconds remaining but lost both in a nightmarish windup.

HOLY CROSS STRUCK for the decisive score with 55 seconds remaining on a 30-yard pass play and added the important extra point.

St. Viator held the Crusaders to only 71 yards on the ground but yielded 91 through the air. The two Holy Cross touchdowns came on passes from almost the identical spot on the field, and Bill Best and Tom Wise were the villains both times.

Even in defeat St. Viator's Gliwa had some reason to smile because his Lions played their "finest game of the year" against a team that had been averaging close to 30 points for each outing.

"OUR INTERIOR line play was exceptional," Gliwa praised "Forston (Denny) played his finest game of the year and was our outstanding football player."

Forston is a 6-3, 235-pound junior tackle who goes both ways for the Lions. He teams with John Helmer (191) to give St. Viator one of the finest sets of tackles in Chicagoland activity.

Helmer and Dave McGee (200) also turned in superb performances against Holy Cross. McGee came up with a clutch defensive effort in the final minutes of the fourth period, nailing the Crusaders' Best for a three-yard loss on a fourth down play at the Lion 21.

AT THE TIME it appeared McGee's defensive gem would save the day for St. Viator, but three plays later Holy Cross had the football again and they scored on the 30-yard pass.

St. Viator came out of the Holy Cross game without any serious injuries but will have one regular on the sidelines Sunday. Bill Roser, 150-pound senior halfback who scored one touchdown last Friday, has been shelved for one game by grades.

St. Mel, a 34-6 victim of DeLaSalle in league play last Sunday, is equipped with two king-sized defensive performers in Tom Varak, a 6-foot-2, 300-pounder and John Let, at 6-4, 375. Lee is the biggest boy ever to play football in Illinois.

The Knights, a 5-4 club last fall, were hit hard by graduation and this inexperience has been showing up on the scoreboard.

St. Viator tripped up the St. Mel eleven in 1964, 15-7, and moved the ball well (374 total yards) against the Knights' big defensive unit.

Now if they can only move the football that well this Sunday. . . .

THIS BUSINESS OF PICKING all-star teams, a harmless pastime that sometimes gets carried to ridiculous extremes, began in 1889 when a former player at Yale University decided to name the best players in the game.

Walter Camp, probably this nation's strongest early-day gridiron voice, picked an All-America football team for Collier's magazine, and his choices were considered official. Most of the football was played in the East in those days, and Camp was able to see the important games and top players.

Camp died in 1925 but the selection of "all" teams continues despite the obvious difficulties in making these choices. Today, All-America, All-Conference, and All-State are words as closely associated with football as the forward pass and block and tackle.

Every football writer is involved in the all-star team selections, either directly or indirectly, for the all-star teams go far below the All-America level.

Now that we've passed the halfway point in the high school football season we can expect the "big push" to begin as coaches look for the most suitable adjectives to describe the efforts of their top performers.

Certainly fame may be fleeting but everyone thrives on its brief visits. Some of the boys who make these "all" teams will play college football; only a few will ever win the glory equal of that accomplished as a prep.

While some amateurs have been hurt by criticism, some — especially among the prep class — have been harmed perhaps even more by too much praise. We can remember reading of a high school boy who had been highly praised and hounded by offers from eager colleges. The boy disappeared and was found in a daze a few hours later. Doctors said the effect of the pressure plus indecision had brought on a nervous collapse.

Of course, this is an extreme case but it can happen.

Opinions are split on the subject of publicity for teenagers. Some say you must emphasize team play and avoid overemphasizing the exploits of one or two boys. This keeps impulsive youths from becoming conceited and keeps jealousy from developing among teammates.

However, some writers believe that much ballyhoo for teenage athletes is not as dangerous as it appears. They say coaches know enough psychology to keep publicity from hurting the boy too much and that the press clippings help the athlete in attracting attention for college.

Whatever your feelings on the many all-star teams they are here to stay. The intense reader interest in the selections will insure the popularity of the all-star idea for some time to come.

All these post-season honors come by the dozens and we tend to heap columns of praise on the all-stars. These boys have earned something extra for their work, and they should be complimented.

But it should be emphasized that they have not necessarily received any greater benefits from football than those who played alongside them, those boys good enough to make the team but no better than that.

You can't forget the rank and file, the non-stars who blocked and tackled, who hit and got hit, who played with little or no fanfare.

Their names won't be among the "elite" when the all-star teams are released in a few weeks, but they also served and served well. They have contributed something and should never forget that.

Top Defense, No Offense . . .

Prospect's Monster To Host Maine West

by MICHAEL HESS

One face of the grid beast is sadly-shaped, slobbering, witless and laughable. That's the Knights offense.

Finely-honed, tight-lipped, incisive and deadly grim is the other face of this pigskin freak. That's the Knights defense.

Rising this Saturday to slay Prospect's monster will be some rugged Warriors from Maine West. MW comes to battle with a single cranium which knows little but success.

THUS FAR the Knights offensive skull has been nothing but laughable. It has produced just seven points in four games this season and has been blanked for 12 consecutive quarters.

That horrendous record should mean a quartet of losses, but it doesn't. An 0-2-2 mark is presently owned by Prospect thanks to defense.

Knights defenders have permitted 23 points, only three during their last three outings. These efforts have brought 20-7 and 3-0 defeats and two straight 0-0 ties. Such heroics must earn a "Best Around" tag.

To aid his fizzling offense, Prospect coach Don Williams has been forced to make changes and double his viewing of past performances.

"We have to find someone who can move the club," Williams said. "I've looked at more movies of our games this year than at any time before. I hope these changes work."

TOM LUNDSTEDT
Gets Promotion

Prospect, Maine Battle Saturday

Number one shift in the Knights alignment will come at quarterback. Formerly, seniors Gary Guerin and Bob Mutert have alternated as signal caller. Neither has had great success but now Tom Lundstedt has moved into the picture.

LUNDSTEDT is a 6-3, 190 pound junior. He had been playing for the junior varsity which he led to a 3-1 record while passing for three scores of 48, 35 and 23 yards. He and Guerin will split the field general duties against Maine.

Other Prospect changes come in the line.

Tom Nading (6-0, 205) or junior Roger Anderson (6-0, 185) will go in at left tackle. Anderson has been used on defense. At right guard Jim Herod (5-9, 160) will start in place of Rick Bertoglio, who will see increased duty on defense.

Only other possible change could come due to injury. Right half Bob Grady twisted a leg in last week's scoreless battle with Wheeling and junior Vince Curry (5-10, 165) might take over should Grady need rest.

Defense, obviously, is no problem for the Knights. "We haven't worked one bit on defense in three weeks," stated Williams. "I don't worry about it and neither does the team. We know we can hold the opposition but we have to score to win."

PACING THE Prospect defenders all season long has been 6-2, 190 pound guard Dan Agard. In four contests to date, Agard has felled opponent runners for 59 solo tackles and 60 assists. His grand total of 119 means he has been in well over half the tackles made by his whole team.

To challenge Lundstedt-Agard & Co. will be a Maine West unit which carries a 3-1 record. The Warriors started with 26-0, 26-0 and 25-7 victories before falling last week 12-0 to Palatine. Quarterback Jim Kautz, halfback Ken Mandelky and fullback Steve Ryden are MW's leaders.

Kautz has passed for five scores and made one himself this year. Mandelky owns 30 points and a 4.5 yard rushing average for the season and Ryden has two touchdowns and a 2.5 yard rushing average.

One week ago, in their lone setback, the Warriors relied mainly on rushing. They picked up 204 yards and 10 first downs on the ground and only nine yards through the air. MW might be counted on to turn Kautz loose for more throwing against Prospect.

"Our game with Prospect has always been a tough one," said Maine coach Ken Olson. "They're bound to break out on offense one of these times. I just hope it isn't against us."

THE KNIGHTS have broken out in the past against Maine West. They have won three of the five grid encounters between the two schools including a 16-12 squeaker last year.

Will Prospect break out again this Saturday? Will the twin-skulled Knights put their heads together and come up with an initial win? They'd better or they'll soon own the worst record in school history.

Falcons Frightened; Conant Beaten 6-0

By KEN KNOX

With a wing and a prayer, Forest View's Falcons escaped the lair of the Cougars Saturday afternoon, emerging clawed and ruffled but in receipt of an opening Mid-Suburban League victory.

The Falcons, ranked as one of the high-flying outfits in the MSL, were almost consumed. They scored early and battled off an aroused and menacing Conant team the rest of the way. The final read 6-0.

In the end, it was not the storied running of Pat Dunnigan and company that made the difference for Bob Scott's eleven. It was the aerial union of quarterback Chuck Boesenberg and end Jim Baumgardt and a stout defense.

Ron Smith's Cougars, increasingly closer to the day when victory will be met, avoided the kind of collapse that featured their first three starts this autumn. It meant a solidifying defense and a more consistent offense, but not quite consistent enough to prevail over the Forest View defenders at the crucial moments.

Conant actually had the best of it in most of the statistical departments, outrushing Forest View 120 yards to 75, collecting nine first downs to the Falcons' five. It was especially noticeable in the second half, when Forest View ran 19 offensive plans to 28 for Conant, rushed for 33 yards while Conant gained 70, had one first down to five for the Cougars. The Falcons failed on three attempted passes, with two of them being intercepted.

DEFENSIVE heroics stopped the Cougars. Passing beat them. While Cougar quarterback Mike Kennedy got nothing from three passes, the Falcons' Boesenberg connected on his first three, getting significant yardage and the day's only touchdown.

Conant, having started with the opening kickoff at their own 28, had marched steadily on the ground to Forest View's 43. There, with third down and two, Kennedy lost three and Chris Shadwell punted. Tom Coskey took it at the 18, ran it to the 30, but a personal foul penalty put it back on the 15.

The adversity was not to stifle Forest View. Dunnigan, who was to get 64 yards rushing for the day, collected seven on his first try. An offside penalty against Conant gave Forest View five more. But there was still long yardage to be made up.

IT CAME with Boesenberg flipping to left end Baumgardt, an accurate throw snared sensationally by Baumgardt at the FV 46. Dunnigan carried twice more for a first down at the Conant 44, and the setting was in order for the score.

Again it was Boesenberg to his left end, and again Baumgardt dazzled with a splendid reception, hauling the ball down with his fingertips and fighting off Conant defenders to streak for the goal. That made it 6-0 and it stayed that way as Bill King—holding for Boesenberg's extra point try — bobbled the ball and had it smothered by onrushing Cougars.

Forest View had one more good thrust in the first half, featured by a 39-yard Boesenberg-to-Tom Coskey pass play that erased a second down and 36 deficit. It took the Falcons Conant 32, and running —mostly by Dunnigan — advanced the ball to the 14. But Jim E. Wicker plucked a Boesenberg pass at the 10, the first of two interceptions he was to make for Conant in the game.

CONANT started another drive after that, but a key tackle by Pete Phillips — who injured his leg in the process — ended it. He hit Kennedy for minus 10 yarss.

The second half saw Conant make its most important thrusts, and discover a running hero in the process. Halfback Art Leitz, whose best contributions to date had been on kick returns, plumped his game total to 87 yards in 16 carries, tops for the contest. Most of those came in the second half, as he teamed with fullback Ernie Drummond and halfback Mel Nelson to give the Cougars unexpected but effective running balance.

Conant's deepest sortie — sparked by the running of Leita and Drummond — was to Forest View's 23. It started with Wicker's interception, ending the last meaningful Falcon drive at the 50 yard line early in the third period. The Cougars moved steadily to inside the FV 25, and were forcibly halted.

CONANT drove three more times for the goal, only to be began again with an interception. Chris Shadwell pulled a Dunnigan pass out of the air with an overhead reach at Conant's 41.

Leitz ran for two first downs, then had to be rested with an ailing leg. The crucial moment came with Conant at the Falcons' 30, fourth down and eight. Kennedy pitched one of his rare passes, zeroing in on Greg Klopf at the 24. Klopf, cutting left, seemed to have possession, but the ball popped away and the Falcons took over. It was then late in the last quarter, and Conant couldn't get the time to threaten again.

Hinsdale

KEY MAN IN the forward wall for Hinsdale is Dick Melin, a 190-pound center. An All-Conference selection as a junior, Melin is called "one of the finest linemen I've ever had at Hinsdale" by the head coach.

Hinsdale comes into Friday's battle with West Suburban victories over Downers Grove North (13-6), Glenbard West (14-7, and La Grange (19-0).

Knights' JV Tops 'Cats On Gridiron

One pass and one run, both in the third quarter, gave Prospect a 13-0 junior varsity grid win over Wheeling last Saturday.

The run was by Steve Niebuhr. It covered 43 yards and gave the Knights a 6-0 margin. The extra point try failed.

THE PASS WAS made by quarterback Tom Lundstedt. He tossed 23 yards to Mike Rutkowski for the second Prospect TD. Niebuhr kicked the extra point and the final 13-0 tally was established.

York Tops Cards; Yeazel in Second

Powerful York, one of the favorites for the state cross country championship, handed Arlington its third West Suburban Conference setback last Friday afternoon in Elmhurst.

Coach Joe Newton's Dukes grabbed seven slots in the top ten and posted a 19-42 victory.

Arlington's Bob Yeazel helped avert a team shutout as he finished second behind York's Coleman. The winner was clocked in nine minutes over the 1.83 mile course with Yeazel coming in at 9:04.

Greg Busch and Dave Schimpf also cracked the top ten for Arlington by landing the eighth and ninth slots. Dave Dieters was 11th and Brian Anderson 12th.

York fashioned a harrier shutout in frosh-soph ranks with a 15-50 decision. Jim Bergstrom (8), Jim Pamp (9), Al McKay (10), Rick Pelland (11), and Chuck Anger (12) scored for Arlington.

York also won a frosh meet with the Cardinals, 19-44.

Falcons Host

Possible missing will be halfback Tom Manderscheid. He hurt a leg in practice and didn't play last weekend. Daletski will "give him a try" in his starting position.

At fullback John Hitman gets the opening nod but Bill Neimeyer, a powerful blocker, will also see extensive duty at the post. Rich Haddock, at left half, and Mark Newman, at quarterback, round out Wheeling's backfield.

"Our line is the team mainstay," summed up Daletski, "but we've been hurt by our lack of good running or passing in the backfield."

THE ONLY LINE-UP he gave (and the one listed on these pages) is his starting defensive eleven. "They've done a real good job this year and they deserve plenty of credit," the coach stated.

Unmentioned by Scott is his offense which has had various troubles of late. After a bristling 52 point effort in their opening contest the Falcons tailed off to 27 points in their next three games. They beat a young, inexperienced and winless Conant team by just a 6-0 count last Saturday.

"Conant played well against us," said Scott, "and we were hurt by interceptions and penalties."

Leading the not-talked-about FV offense is Pat Dunnigan. He has picked up over 440 yards in four games. Though he started at fullback last week he'll probably be back at his old halfback slot against Wheeling.

Others in Forest View's backfield will probably be Chuck Boesenberg at quarerback, Steve Mueller at fullback and sophomore Spencer Dreischarf or Tom Coskey at half. None has been outstanding since the first grid struggle.

THE LONE offering by Scott on his offense was that they "would throw the ball all over the place." Boesenberg, Dunnigan, Mueller, and junior Bob Arnold are all potential arielists.

"I don't know about Wheeling," said Scott. "I haven't seen them so I don't know how much they've improved." In '64 FV stopped Wheeling 21-7.

"This should be a defensive game," said Daletski. "Again I think the decisive factor will be offense. I don't anticipate having too much trouble containing them but I do worry about our ability to score. Of course we'll have to watch Dunnigan."

Cougars' Sophs Defeated by FV

A last period, 35 yard pass from Mike Otto to Mike Messer set up the winning score as Forest View's sophs topped Conant 7-0 last Saturday.

The actual touchdown was gained by Frank Wasilewski on a three yard plunge over the middle of the line. Wasilewski also added the extra point on a run for the final 7-0 margin.

"It was a defensive game all the way," commented the Falcons' coach Keith North. "Except for our one scoring chance the game was played between the 20 yard lines."

FIVE FV players were marked by North for their defensive efforts. "John Wester, John Terrel, Steve Allen, Mike Casey and Jeff Nordlun played outstanding games on defense," North said.

York Sophs Hand Cards Second Loss

Host York moved out to a 13-0 lead at halftime and added two more touchdowns in the final two periods Saturday afternoon in rolling to a 25-14 victory over Arlington High School.

The loss was the second for Arlington in four games this fall. The Cards, still looking for that first victory, also have two ties.

Arlington scored its first touchdown in the fourth period on a pass that went from Bob Graham to Dave Kirchner to Paul Douglas.

The play covered 10 yards and Douglas carried in for the six points. Bill Von Boeckmann kicked the extra point.

A bad pass from center on a punt set up the Cardinals' second touchdown.

Arlington took over on the York 21 yard line and on its first play Graham hit Chuck McGuffey for the six points. Von Boeckmann converted again.

Arlington will host Hinsdale Friday at six o'clock.

FV Harriers Win Two From Conant

Forest View opened its Mid-Suburban League cross country challenge with an important victory over Conant last Friday.

Bob Rees' Falcon harriers outdueled Jack Ary's Cougars in a spirited finish that saw just 20 seconds separating the first six finishers. The final in the varsity event read 24-34, Forest View. The Falcon frosh-soph team also won, 22-36.

CRAIG BROWN of Forest View was the individual winner on the varsity level, and he ran Conant's two-mile Golden Acres Country Club course in 10:29, a new record.

He was followed, six seconds later, by Conant's Dick Ledford. The two teams alternated the first six places like that, with Ted Lambert of Forest View third (10:40), Dave Troy of Conant fourth (10:44), Ken GaNung of the Falcons fifth (10:46) and the Cougars' Larry Robertson sixth (10:49).

Forest View took the next three places after that, and it made the difference. Scoring were Dick Appleton (seventh) and Cliff Kuhnlohe (eighth). Completing Conant's point-making were Glenn Lee with a 10th and Tom Borthwick with 12th.

It was Forest View's fourth dual victory against one loss. Conant, now 1-1 in MSL competition, is 5-2 overall.

THE FALCONS took the first two places in the frosh-soph event, with Oscar Pequeno winning in 11:21, ahead of Joe Branka. Conant took third and fourth, with Jim Kramer and Sam Burns scoring.

Forest View got a fifth from Joe Joyce, a sixth from Rick Bruns and an eighth from Tom Vaughn. Tallying the rest of the points for Conant were Bob Lesher (seventh), Ray Iehl (10th) and Steve Arnold (12th).

St. Viator's Frosh Triumph

Mark Obuchowski scored two touchdowns Saturday as St. Viator's frosh football team blanked Holy Cross, 18-0, for its second victory of the season.

Obuchowski scored on runs of two and five yards. Dick Aylward tallied the third touchdown on a 40-yard pass from Pat Hudson.

Mark Walinski was the leading defensive performer for the winners.

Coach John Zid's Lions will meet a host St. Mel eleven Saturday morning at 10:00.

IF GOOSE is your game, at least to gander at, there's a bonanza awaiting a few hours away.

And if autumnal splendor stirs your sense of the aesthetic, there is no better time to combine the two.

If you have the time, the place is Horicon National Wildlife Refuge between Horicon and Waupun, Wis., a state and federally-owned reservation of some 30 thousand acres. It's mostly marsh, carefully tended by conservation officials to keep it one of the major Midwest paradises for honkers.

It is one of the singularly important gathering places for the Canada goose, easily rivalling storied Horseshoe Lake near downstate Cairo for incredible abundance of the great migratory birds. Even if you are not a hunter—if only you appreciate nature's bits of grandeur—you will marvel at the sights of Horicon marsh. And if you journey there now, you will marvel also at the blaze of leafy brilliance heralding the change of season in Wisconsin.

It's an easy weekend—or day—trip for the hunter or naturalist. I made it a family affair this past weekend, loading wife Sonja, daughters Kim and Kam, and sister Mary into the car. No shooting, just looking.

Horicon is about 100 miles north of where U.S. 12 touches the Illinois-Wisconsin border. One of the best, and most scenic routes there is up U. S. 12 through Lake Geneva, Whitewater and Fort Atkinson. Pick up Wisconsin 26 at Fort Atkinson, on the Rock River, and head straight north to Horicon. You will, if you've become sated with the urban life, find more than a little contentment in the New Hampshire-like panorama of rolling and forested Wisconsin. And you will, if you're a hunter, breathe a little excitedly as you near Horicon.

You can tell when you're near. The geese tell you. As you pass by the town of Horicon, and travel north near the western boundary of the marsh, the one sight you'll observe repeatedly is that of geese—singly and by the dozen—flapping and coasting casually in and out of the vast area to the east.

At Waupun, turn right on Wisconsin 49 and you'll shortly be greeted with a stunning sight. The first creature you'll notice is man, man and auto by the hundreds, lining both sides of 49, scanning skies and fields with binoculars, exposing film by the carload, being prodded by lawmen to move on or get off the road.

Then, turning your eyes from the road to the vast plantings of corn and grasses on both sides, you'll see what has man so transfixed.

The geese are there, everywhere, in unspeakable profusion. They are there by the thousands, the tens of thousands, wild but docile. They will, feeding heavily on the tender grasses, blacken acres at a time with their waddling forms.

When they take to the air, it is no casual flight by a flock of birds. It is a mass uplifting, a honking, flapping welling up of numberless forms, a seething cloud of white, gray and black ascending. At any moment, you can see the geese of Horicon like that, always some landing, some feeding, some flying overhead in those immaculate formations. And always by the thousands. It is, on a day when the autumnal colors are brazen and the air crystal, overwhelming.

Goose season has been open in Wisconsin since last Saturday and will continue through Dec. 18, with a daily bag of two birds. If you're solvent enough to absorb the Wisconsin $25.00 nonresident hunting fee, the area around Horicon is ideal. Not, obviously, in the preserve, where the geese are protected and know it.

But there are, for those who can secure the permits, state-operated blinds near the marsh. And in the vicinity of the huge reservation, there are numerous flyways to reward the waiting hunter. Even goose blinds need be no problem for the hunter with a premium on time. Farmers in and around Horicon have discovered a short but lucrative subsidiary business in selling blinds to transient outdoorsmen.

Such are the attractions of Horicon marsh. It will reward you if you want to hunt, to look, or profit by peddling prefab blinds. Horicon marsh—for the goose and the goose-lover—is where the action is.

Prospect-Wheeling in Nothing-Nothing Tie

by MICHAEL HESS

"No-football" was the game played last Saturday: no winner, no loser, no scoring, no satisfaction.

Combatants in the "nothing" grid struggle were Prospect and Wheeling. A zero-zero deadlock was the result.

Both elevens opened Mid-Suburban League schedules with that pointless affair. The Knights are defending M-SL champs while the 'Cats were cellar-dwellers in '64.

Of course, being shut out isn't unusual for either squad. Prospect hasn't crossed a goal line in 12 quarters. Wheeling has been blanked twice this season. Only 20 points, a combined total, have been tallied by the two clubs in four 1965 efforts.

SUCH OFFENSIVE frustration and general non-progress were much in display throughout the war of goose-eggs.

The Knights drove to the opposition nine yard line for their deepest drive and were earlier halted at the 18. Closest brush with a TD by the Wildcats was a move to the enemy six.

Only "yes's" of the "no" affair were the two defenses. Defensively the standouts for Prospect were Dan Agard and Tom Beard while Rich Haddock, Tom Neukrantz and Steve Zasadny were best for Wheeling.

Agard was amazing. He accounted for 19 solo tackles and assisted on 14 others. Thus he was in on 33 stops and the 'Cats had only 38 running or passing plays. Agard also recovered a fumble.

Several tackles were also made by Beard but his chief value was as a thief. He intercepted three passes for a Knights defensive backfield which grabbed six errant throws. Doug White, Nick Rutigliano, and Bob Grady stole the others.

HADDOCK AND Neukrantz both patroled as deep defenders. Each had an interception and Neukrantz lunged for seven solo tackles in addition to nine assists. Zasadny blocked a punt and was a real roadblock for Prospect runners.

Once tributes have been paid respective defenses, the only aspect of the 0-0 floundering to mention is offense. There isn't much to mention.

The Knights managed to gain 191 yards in the game. Quarterback Gary Guerin hit on 12 of 17 pass attempts for 81 yards and Rutigliano rushed for 40 yards in eight tries. They were Prospect's "big" gainers.

Only significant drive for the Knights came near the end of quarter one. After a Beard interception gave Prospect the ball on Wheeling's 43, a pass from sub-signal caller Bob Mutert to Rick Pauly moved their forces to the 35.

Two plays later an eight yard gallop by Vince Curry got a first down at the 31. After a six yard loss, a Guerin to Bob Destafanis pass and a 13 yard jaunt by Rutigliano produced another first and ten at the 15.

CURRY THEN leaped for four yards; Rutigliano fell for two yards and Curry was felled without a gain setting up a fourth and four situation at the nine. Guerin stepped back to pass on the next play and flipped the pigskin into Haddock's defending hands for a drive-halting interception.

Wheeling managed 169 yards gained mainly on the arm of quarterback Mark Newman. Newman tossed 17 times, completed six to his own teammates for 107 yards and six to the opposition. He had only five that no one caught.

That deep penetration to the Prospect six came early in the final period for the 'Cats.

After Zasadny's blocked punt Wheeling took over on the Knights' 33. On the first play Newman faded back, tossed, and Jim Bowker gathered in the ball at the nine were Beard made the tackle.

John Hittman went through the line for three yards before Agard pulled him down. Newman then tried a tackle eligible pass over the line but overthrew his target.

A RUNNING attempt by Haddock was stopped by Agard with a two yard loss to the eight. On fourth and eight Newman passed again and hit Haddock but he was tackled by Fred Wesley for a five yard loss to the 13.

"I wasn't happy with our offense at all," said Don Williams, the Knights headman. His squad is still winless with an 0-2-2 mark.

Neither coach was satisfied; none of the players could have been pleased; few of the fans in attendance at the Prospect homecoming battle were joyous. But, that's the way it is with "No-football."

York Has Revenge

Cards Suffer First Loss of '65 Season

By BOB FRISK

York has its revenge.

Arlington has its first loss.

A fired-up York High School eleven, determined to put on a good show before a homecoming crowd, scored one first half touchdown Saturday afternoon and controlled the football in the second half en route to a 13-6 victory.

The victory avenged one of York's three setbacks of 1964, an 8-7 shocker with Arlington, and put the Dukes of Elmhurst back in the West Suburban Conference title scramble.

The loss was the first of the season for Al Allen's Cardinals after three straight triumphs. Arlington and York are both 2-1 in the league.

Arlington only trailed by one point at halftime but couldn't ring up another tally as the hosts dominated the action in the final two periods, running off twice as many plays as the Cardinals.

IN THE FIRST half Arlington held a 30-23 advantage in plays from scrimmage. York carried a commanding 36-18 bulge over the final two stanzas and therein lies the story of this West Suburban struggle.

The Dukes had time-consuming drives of 81 and 94 yards in the second half but only one resulted in six points. George Dean, Ted Mozier, and Pete Mastro alternated in the ball-carrying chores during the thrusts, and the trio combined for 186 yards on the ground for the afternoon.

Mozier scored the first Duke touchdown with 11:23 remaining in the first half. He shot through a big hole in the middle of the line and covered nine yards for the six-pointer.

THE PAYOFF drive was set up when Dean picked off a Steve Allen pass at the Cardinal 41. On a first down play Dean and halfback Eric Neumann collaborated to the Arlington 12. Mozier penetrated to the nine and then bolted over for the score.

Mike Dann's kick was good and York held a 7-0 lead.

A fumble had checked a Cardinal advance midway in the first period with York taking over on its own 11 after Arlington had marched 43 yards in four plays. Allen's 35-yard pass to Dave Lockwood was the key play and Dave stumbled at the 11 after whipping the defenders.

ARLINGTON reached the York 31 early in the second quarter when Dean intercepted another Allen pass, but the Dukes coughed up the football seconds later and Kirk Wolter recovered on the 17.

On a second down play Allen hit Tom LeStarge at the nine, but Steve was checked at the line to set up a fourth down play. Steve Conley got the important first down with a five-yard smash to the York four, but it took Arlington four plays to counter.

YORK HELD a 7-6 lead at the intermission and then fashioned a drive of 81 yards with the second half kickoff. Dean relied strictly on his ground game, and the Dukes used eight minutes and 14 plays to push over the score.

Arlington appeared on the move for a tieing touchdown early in the fourth quarter, advancing 51 yards in 11 plays to the York 10, but a Tom LeStarge pass was intercepted by York's Lou Drinka in the end zone and returned to the three.

YORK THEN mounted the drive that cemented the decision, covering 94 yards and eating up some valuable time, before getting stopped on downs at the Arlington three.

There were only 25 seconds remaining when the Cards took over. Allen hit Bruce Hubbard at the 34 and an incomplete pass stopped the clock with seven seconds left.

Allen was decked for a nine yard loss by a charging Duke line on the game's final play.

Cards' Jayvees Top York, 20-0

The Cardinals now have not lost a jayvee encounter since Sept. 21, 1964. They've won nine and tied one over the past ten games.

The latest victory was a 20-0 conquest of York Monday afternoon in which the Cards put the decision out of reach with a 14-point third period.

Ron Horcher opened the scoring for the team coached by Brendan Flynn and Bill Myers with a 37-yard dash around right end. Gains by Bill Schell and Horcher set up the touchdown.

Arlington scored its second touchdown in the third period after taking control on the York 42. Schell paced a march to the two from where Vaughn Strong smashed in on a quarterback sneak.

Schell added the final touchdown on a 47-yard sweep

Knight Sophs Trip Cat Gridders 25-20

A first victory and first defeat were gained last Saturday by Prospect and Wheeling soph grid teams.

Following three straight losses the sophomore Knights beat the 'Cats 25-20. It was the Wildcats initial defeat and moved their record to 3-1-1.

JIM GUMZ AND Jack Behrens were the leaders for Prospect's triumph. Each tallied two touchdowns and Gumz added an extra point.

First score for Gumz came on a 16 yard pass from Joe Martin. Behrens added a six-pointer with a four yard gallop. A 20 yard run put Behrens across the goal line again and the Martin to Gumz combination clicked again for the last Knights' score.

Tom Nelson was the top performer for Wheeling. He registered a TD with a three yard plunge, ran for the PAT and later caught a 35 yard pass from John Haas for the final score. In between, John Whittington went two yards for the other 'Cats touchdown.

Arlington Cops Brown Jug Meet

The visiting Knights headed a special frosh meet, 26-29, and also won the frosh-soph event, 21-39.

Arlington took the varsity meet, 15-55, and picked up ownership for one year of the Brown Jug, and award symbolic of harrier supremacy between the District 214 schools.

The award was initiated this year and will be presented annually to the winner of the varsity duel between Prospect and Arlington.

Yeazel was an easy winner for the Cardinals in the varsity meet and he was followed across the line by teammates Greg Busch, Dave Schimpf, Tom Thornton, and Dave Dieters.

Rich Braunschweig was the first Knight to finish and he placed sixth. Also scoring for Prospect were Dennis Breen in ninth, John Jacobson in 11th, Craig Woods in 14th, and Leroy Rateike in 15th.

Other Knight scorers were Bob Bartley in third, Owen MacBride in fourth, Bruce Oswald in sixth, and Joe Mohlman in seventh.

Jim Pamp (5), Brian Marcussen (9), Al McKay (13) and Steve Coy (14) scored for Arlington.

In the freshman meet Bill Skibbe of Prospect was the individual winner. Rick Glaser and Tom Swanson of Arlington placed second and third.

Wheeling Harriers Top Knights 22-34

Doug Steinman and Paul Fiegen led Wheeling to a 22-34 cross country win over Prospect last Saturday.

Finishing first, with a time of 9:52, was Steinman. It was his initial individual triumph of this season though he has been among the top five in seven straight races.

ONLY TWO seconds behind his teammate, at 9:54, was Fiegen. He was a full 23 seconds in front of the third runner, and leader for the Knights, Rich Braunschweig at 10:17.

Others to score for coach Ken Carter's winners were sophomore Lenny Eaton in fourth and soph Andy Black in ninth (10:21), Bill Lytle in fifth (10:28) (10:55). The 'Cats are now 5-2 for the season and 1-1 in Mid-Suburban League action.

For Prospect's harriers and headman Dick Calisch the trailing point makers were Dennis Breen (10:34), John Jacobson (10:36). Craig Woods (10:48) and Leroy Ratieke (11:07). They were in sixth, seventh, eighth and tenth respectively.

Calisch's varsity crew is now 2-3 for the year, 0-2 in the M-SL, but the Knights show a perfect mark at the frosh-soph level. Younger Prospect runners bested Wheeling 16-60 last Saturday.

THE FIRST FOUR places went to f-s coach Joe Wanner's lower level racers to move their unbeaten string to 4-0 in 1965.

Steve Holmes was first in 10:25. Second through fourth for the Knights went to Owen MacBride, Dave Baker and Bruce Oswald. Bob Bartley was sixth.

Finishers for Wheeling were Phil Smith, Bill Martin, Scott Poklen, Terry Kneip and Larry Ault in 5th, 9th, 11th, 17th and 18th. Record of Gary Tjarks younger Wildcats is now 3-4.

Cougars' Frosh Win, Tie at FV

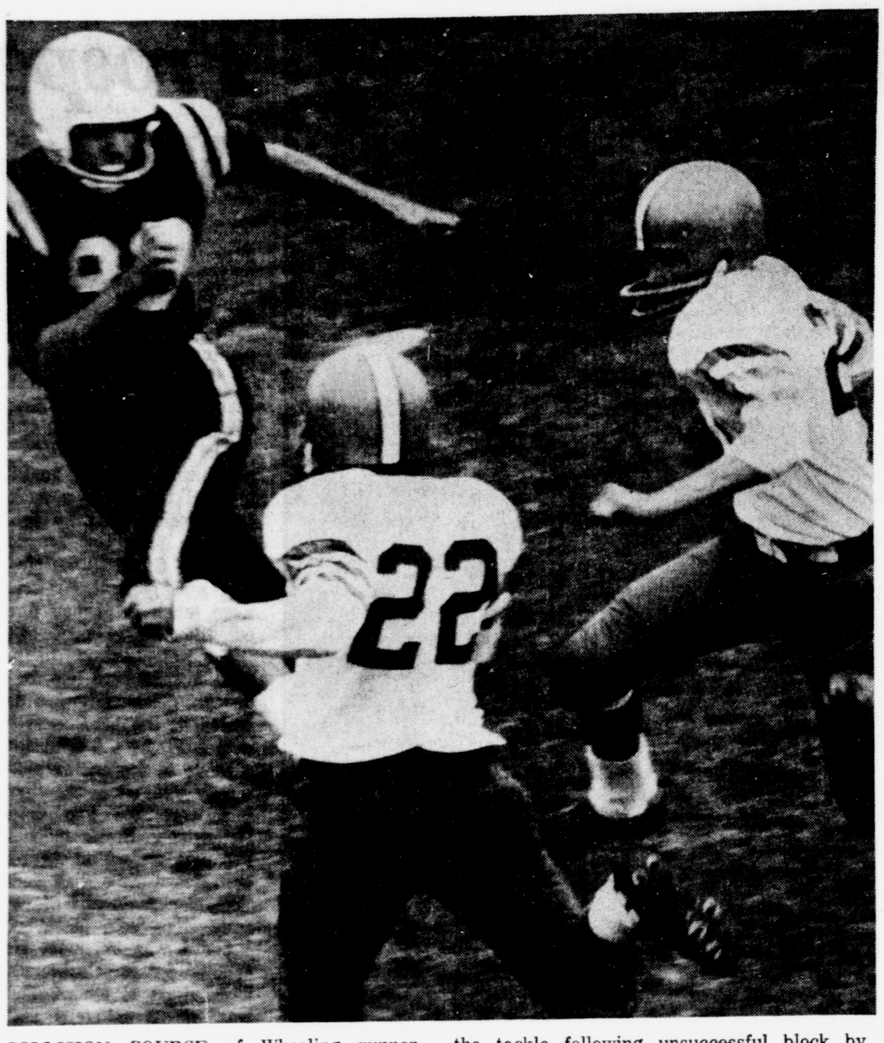
The Cougars' frosh A outfit remained undefeated with a 19-7 win against FV. Jim Farinosi registerel two TD's and one PAT and Mike Kubala scored one touchdown for the winners who now own a 2-0-1 mark.

Harry Spence and Tom Higgins crossed the goal line for Conant's B's in their 12-12 tie with the Falcons. Higgins tally came on a 70 yard kickoff return and helped his team maintain an 0-1-2 record.



COLLISION COURSE of Wheeling runner Jerry Kerr (on right), Wheeling blocker Tony Martin (22) and Prospect defender Tom Beard (80) will end with all three hitting the turf. Kerr will have gained 20 yards in run from scrimmage and Beard will have made the tackle following unsuccessful block by Martin. Kerr's was longest run of the game and Beard added three interceptions to his tackle before final 0-0 tie between 'Cats and Knights in grid game played last Saturday. (Staff Photo)

Offenses Shine in Mt. Prospect Play

You might say this was an "offensive" week in the Mount Prospect Midget Football program.

High-scoring games were the rule rather than the exception in the extensive Mount Prospect activity as the three leagues staged another full card.

In Senior activity the Cardinals romped to a 32-6 triumph over the Packers.

Anderson and Dooley each scored a pair of touchdowns, and Gaffney went over from 25 yards out. Crowell and Pauluzzi provided some solid blocking, and Holmes, Good and Gaffney sparkled in the tackling department.

The Colts and Bears battled to a scoreless tie. Mark Ennes and Tom Tagney were the chief ground-gainers for the Bears, and George Bauer, David Long, and Mark Troester were defensive leaders.

THE PASSING combination of Don Koehler to Dave Petersen clicked several times for the Colts and Jim Campagna and Mickey Gilbert also helped out on offense. Ed Klingberg, Stuart White and Dale Morgan were defensive stalwarts.

In Junior Division action Scott Szala continued to run wild. He scored five touchdowns this time on runs of 65, 50, 40, 30 and 15 yards as the Cowboys ripped the Eagles 43-20.

Phil Rotdke went 20 yards around end for a touchdown, and Jim Skuban smashed through the middle for 14 yards and another score.

Tom Bergan, Russ Young, Brower, Haenisch, and Clow were other standouts.

Tueber, Cowan, and Divito scored for the losers. Johaneson and Matter were stars on defense.

THE REDSKINS belted the Colts 31-7 with Denny O'Keefe scoring on two runs of 40 yards. Garry Chupeck received a 20-yard scoring pass from Gary McNeeley, and McNeeley scoerd on a quarterback sneak. Mike Kenny covered 20 yards on an end run for another touchdown.

Craig Gewartowski passed 25 yards to Dean Ennis and Ennis then raced 20 additional yards for the Browns' touchdown. Bob Braddish, Graham, and Quill also starred for the losers.

THE VIKINGS scored three touchdowns in defeating the 49ers 20-6. Bill Grady counted on a 10 yard end sweep, and John Trandel threw 35 and 5 yard passes to Randy Jesperson and Brian Reedy. Fine blocking performances by Mike McMahon and Doug Hardy enabled the offense to move. Underwood, Jesperson and Reedy broke up the opponent's plays.

The 49ers score came on a run by Glasgow of 15 yards. Robinson and Eilbracht made several good runs up the middle. Many tackles were made by Mike Sliva and Ballottie.

The Rams outlasted the Steelers to win 35-20. Bob MacAskill took a pass and ran 40 yards for a score. Jim Packard dashed off tackle for two 25 yard runs. Tom Freyman ran 78 yards with a kickoff for a touchdown and skooted around end for 10 yards and another score. Rich Scott and Garry Leeman made some solid blocks in opening holes. Breen, Peterson and Teichert fought hard on defense.

The Steelers scored on runs by Chisholm, Luke and Broeren. Compopiano was instrumental in scoring a safety. Cole received three passes during the game. Augustine made some fine blocks. Digargi and Parker teamed up on the tackles.

THE SPARTANS topped the Wolverines 16-13 in a Bantam Division game. Phil Leone cut around right end through the secondary for 35 yards and a touchdown. John Stavropoulos made a brilliant 50 yard run down the sideline for a score.

Gary Helfenbein blocked a punt and Mark Hempel tackled the opposition for an imporant safety. Hager, Helfenbein, Leone, Stavropoulos, Munsen and Miller were outstanding on defense.

Pete Donahue was tremendous for the Wolverines, scoring twice on fake reverse keeper plays of 50 and 58 yards. Good blocking was provided by Welch, Dambeck and Lessner. The defensive stars were Diveris, Rebusch and Tyre.

THE HAWKEYES remained undefeated with a 14-0 victory over the Panthers. Norm Smith went 45 yards for a touchdown. Ken Holan scampered for a 70 yard score. Jay Creekmore recovered a blocked kick. Kiolbassa and Smith provided good blocking and running. Storhaug, Lucianni and Kiolbasso were touch on defense.

The Panthers were pleased with the running of Polabuhi and Teichert and the blocking of Foutman. Phillips, Fisher, Miller and Leeman were stalwarts on defense.

Tom Trandel scored all of the points in the Wildcats-Badgers contest as the Wildcats won 7-0. He went around end for the touchdown and through the line for the extra point. Hamann Lowe, Taillard, Waldo and Guzzardo provided the blocking for the scores. Ron Borman and Larry Brauchle came through with effective defensive line play.

The Badgers' offense was led by Bill Kidd, Randy Cherwin and Clyde Peterson. Most of their tackles were made by Mike Petran, Jim Wade, and Bob Stephens.

The Buckeyes shut out the Lions 14-0. Mark Wegerer went 10 yards for one score. Jim Robb drove four yards for the other. Robb and Bob Italia made the extra points. Mike DiDanti caught a 10 yard pass for needed yardage. Hard tackling by Greg Casciaro and Bob Lee kept the Lions contained.

St. Viator Sophs Top Holy Cross

St. Viator's sophomore Lions remained unbeaten Friday evening with a convincing 28-7 victory over visiting Holy Cross.

Coach Tom Hansen's squad scored two touchdowns in each half in posting its third triumph of the 1965 campaign. St. Viator also has one tie.

Kevin Coulter ran 35 yards for the first touchdown, and Dave Mullen recovered a fumble and covered 20 yards for the second score.

In the second half Dave Holterhoff and Steve Kaskie teamed up to nail a Holy Cross ball carrier in the end zone for a safety, and Dennis Palubicki ran 15 yards for a third touchdown.

Holy Cross Scores In Closing Seconds To Topple St. Viator

by BOB FRISK

Victory was only seconds away for St. Viator Friday evening when disaster struck with shocking swiftness.

Holy Cross pounced on a loose football at the Lion 30 yard line, scored on a pass play, and added the extra point for a 13-12 Chicagoland Prep League decision.

The Crusaders held on in the closing 55 seconds for their fourth straight victory of the 1965 season.

This one hurt. St. Viator, still looking for that initial win after two losses and a tie, gave the favored visitors fits and never trailed until Bob Suvada's kick gave Holy Cross its 13th point.

IT HURTS even more because St. Viator owned the football and the lead with only 90 seconds remaining.

The nightmare started on a third down and three play at the St. Viator 32.

"Bob (Stevens) was going to hand off but someone pulled his hands apart and they got the ball," Lion coach Joe Gliwa explained.

THIS SET the stage for the crucial extra point and Suvada, a 190-pound senior, sent across a high but accurate kick.

St. Viator got off six plays in the closing seconds but couldn't advance past midfield in a desperate attempt to pull out a victory.

The Lions lost but still played their finest game of the year against a highly regarded eleven. If confidence can be generated from a losing effort St. Viator should have that confidence today for the rugged schedule ahead.

IT WAS A fired-up Lion eleven that scored the second time it handled the football Friday evening at the Arlington High School field.

A short punt gave the Lions the ball at the Holy Cross 41 and they struck for six points in five plays.

Stevens carried for eight to the 33 and Bill Roser shot through for two more and a first down at the 31. Mike Laird picked up one yard and a personal foul penalty gave the Lions a first down at the 15.

ROSER WAS thrown for a four yard loss but on the next play the 150-pound speedster then the junior quarterback hit Roser with a first down pass at the 21. Snyder shot through for 11 more to the 10.

A penalty set St. Viator back five yards and after two incomplete passes and a three yard loss Stevens shot a pass to senior Bill Aylward which the 182-pound end gathered in with a spectacular diving grab in the end zone.

The try for the extra point was no good.

St. Viator penetrated to the Holy Cross two yard line as the first quarter drew to a close but fumbled. The Lions scored their final touchdown with 5:32 extra point fell short as the Lions failed to add the conversion for the seventh straight time this fall. It proved disastrous.

HOLY CROSS went on the scoreboard for the first time at the 2:34 mark of the second period on a 31 yard pass from Best to Wise, the same aerial act that clicked for the decisive score. The payoff pitch terminated a drive of 59 yards.

St. Viator nursed this 12-6 advantage until the closing seconds and appeared to have settled the issue with a stout defensive effort deep in its own territory.

The visitors pushed to the Lion 20 with five minutes left, but an aroused defense highlighted by key tackles by Tim Beck, Laird, Denny Forston and Dave McGee checked the advance.

On a fourth down play at the Lion 21 McGee shot through to set down Best for a three yard loss.

Three plays later Holy Cross had the ball again and a nightmare began for St. Viator.

Lattof Builds Ladies' Lead

Breathing room.

That's what the ladies from Lattof of Chevrolet won for themselves on the fifth Saturday of the Paddock Women's Classic Traveling League season.

The Lattof ladies made it a perfect count against River Rand Bowl in the evening's action at Striking Lanes, winning 4-0 and widening their lead to six points.

Steve's Restaurant stayed in second, but had to make room there for Morton Pontiac, 3-1 victor over Steve's. Rolling Meadows Bowl pulled into fourth, passing River Rand by taking a 3-1 decision from Striking Lanes.

JOANNE CHRISTENSEN

Lattof's did not have the hottest night on the Striking alleys, but did have just enough in the right portions to take care of River Rand. Joanne Christensen made most of its possible, leading the Chevrolet girls with a 186-193-168—547 series. Next best for Lattof's was Vi Douglas, 46 pins back. River Rand had one girl over 500, Ethel Juenger at 529.

IN THE NIGHT'S highest-scoring match, Morton Pontiac challenged Steve's for second and proved equal to the challenge. Morton took the first and third games and the point for total pins, 2647-2609.

Nancy Dietz, high for the night in the PWCTL, just missed a 600 series for the winners. She had 222-185-191—598. The 222 was second only to Delores Harris' 224 as best game of the night. Delores, bowling for Steve's, had a 568 series. Her teammate Bonnie Kuhn led the losing effort with 592. Ruth Baurhyte ahd 562 for Morton.

In a low-scoring match that saw only three ladies over 500, Rolling Meadows Bowl took a key decision and three points from Striking Lanes. Jean Ladd with 507 and Betty Sutterfield with 502 led Rolling Meadows, while Judy Anderson had 505 for Striking. The first two games were close, Striking winning the first by four pins and Rolling Meadows the second by seven.

The league's high and low teams—Lattof and Striking—will meet this Saturday night in the action at Jeffery Lanes. Steve's will try to get back on the track against Rolling Meadows Bowl, while Morton will seek to continue its surge against River Rand Bowl.

FV Gridders Whip Conant

Lynch raced 20 yards off tackle in the second quarter for one score. Ray Livi added the extra point. The other TD by Lynch came in the final period when he grabbed an errant Cougar pass and raced 50 yards.

Other tallies for FV on a 40 yard end sweep by Jeff Jacoby and a four yard lunge by fullback Hank Tasche. Livi booted two other PAT's, missing only the last attempt.

WINNING COACH Paul Jordan tabbed Bob Savage and Phil Redder for their defensive work. He also mentioned Helm and Traficano for their line blocking.

Next contest for the Falcons is Saturday when they host Wheeling at noon. Forest View is now 2-1-1 on the JV level.

Conant's next football action is also Saturday. The Cougars travel to meet rival Palatine, also at noon.

High Scores Abound; Pioneer, Buick Soar

The game of hot pursuit between Brim's Pioneer Lanes and Bill Cook Buick cntinued last Saturday night in Paddock Classic Traveling League action, as the two bolted away from the pack but not each other.

Pioneer scored its second straight shutout, running the 7-0 count against Jeffery Lanes and building its point total after five Saturdays of play to 26. The Buick men rolled a shutout of their own against The Brass Rail, and stayed two points back.

Karlsen Pharmacy stayed abreast of the rest by rolling a staggering series on a night when staggering scores were flashed all around the league. It meant a 5-2 triumph over Morton Pontiac. And City Welding Sales and Service came close to its first PCTL victory, but just missed in a 4-3 loss to Concourse Sports Chalet.

The latest action left three teams tied for third behind Brim's and Buick, and only three points separating the five teams behind the leaders.

Pioneer kept its thin edge over Bill Cook by being no respecter of the home alley advantage. Bowling Jeffery at Jeffery, Pioneer ran up an impressive 3050 pin total, second best in the PCTL this season. Jeffery had 2670.

BOB KRISCH spearheaded the rout, rolling 246-214-191 — 651. But not far behind, and back on his game, was George Schmidt. He had 194-196-255 — 645. The powerful team effort saw a third man over 600 for the victors, Pat Peterson coming in with 187-220-220—627. And Larry Thon just missed with 597. The best for Jeffery—on an abnormally cool night for them—was John Kmety with 569.

Bill Cook Buick had two men over 600 and two others close to the figure in running a count of 2905 against The Brass Rail. Al Haase was tops with 208-223-171—602 and Ted Geiersbach was just a pin back. Norb Leja had 587 in the match at Rolling Meadows Bowl, and Paul Borvig had 580.

The Brass Rail got only one big series, that by Don Oberg. He combined for 201-207-235—643. The other scores dipped as low as 471.

THE EVENING'S most spectacular bowling came in the series between Karlsen's and Morton Pontiac. The pin-crashing was so effective that Morton could get 1048 pins in the second game and still lose. Karlsen had 1074, second best team game of the season, as each team had four men over 200 in the game.

In that second game, Morton's Glenn Westman had a 270 on the way to a 632 series. It's the best game rolled in the PCTL this season, though it came on Westman's home Beverly Lanes.

There were six 600 series in the match, as Karlsen took the top honors 3064-2951. The Karlsen total is the league's best so far.

Karlsen's awesome balance saw Jim Runkle with 610, Ed Freihage with 620 and Warren Karlsen with 639. The other two team members—Joe and Herm Simonis—just missed with 598 and 597.

BESIDES Westman's 632, Morton received a 622 series from Bill Radunz and a 617 from George White.

By contrast, there was only one 600 series as Sports Chalet slipped by City Welding. It came from City Welding's Bob Hurwitz who rolled 261-162-202—625 on Chalet's home Gunnell's Lanes. The best for Sports Chalet was Ray Neumann, who finished with 564.

Award of Contract

It is the intention of the Wheeling Park District to award a contract either on the basis of receiving a single bid and awarding a single contract for the entire work hereunder, or receiving separate bids for General Construction Work, Electrical Work, Plumbing Work, and Heating and Ventilating Work, and awarding a single contract to the low bidder for General Construction Work, with the low bidders for Electrical, Plumbing and Heating and Ventilating Work as subcontractors, whichever method of award is deemed to be in the best interest of the Owner.

Examination of Bid Documents

Plans and specifications are on file in and may be examined at the office of Ralph H. Burke, Inc., Engineers-Architects, 506 Higgins Road, Park Ridge, Illinois.

Plan Deposit

Plans and specifications may be obtained at the office of Ralph H. Burke, Inc., Engineers-Architects, 506 Higgins Road, Park Ridge, Illinois, by depositing cash or a certified check payable to the Wheeling Park District in the amount of Twenty Dollars ($20.00) each for the first two sets which deposit will be refunded upon return of the documents in good condition within thirty (30) days after the opening of bids.

Any additional sets of contract documents desired by the Bidder may be obtained by payment of Fifteen Dollars (15.00) for each set, which amount will not be refunded. All bid documents, whether obtained on a refundable or non-refundable basis, must be returned to the Architect within thirty (30) days after the opening of bids. The Bidder shall submit one check for the bid documents obtained on a refundable basis and a separate check for subsequent sets obtained on a non-refundable basis.

All bids must be accompanied by cashier's check or check certified by a responsible bank currently doing business in the United States, made payable to the order of the Wheeling Park District, for a sum not less than five per cent (5 per cent) of the aggregate of the proposal. Any proposal submitted without being accompanied by such check may be considered informal and may be cause for rejection. A bid bond will not be accepted.

Performance and Payment Bond

The successful bidder will be required to furnish a Performance Bond in an amount equal to the full contract price, executed by a surety company satisfactory to the Wheeling Park District.

Acceptance or Rejection of Bids

Huge School Bond Issue Rides to Easy 3-1 Victory

The largest bond issue referendum in Elk Grove School District 59's history received a resounding 3 to 1 approval in voting Saturday.

It was approved in all precincts including those in Des Plaines which have voted against recent referenda.

The vote was 1,769 yes to 486 no votes on the $5,450,000 bond issue covering three years of building.

The largest number of voters turned out in Clearmont School in Elk Grove Village and High Ridge Knolls School in Des Plaines.

"THIS IS an affirmation and vote of confidence for the school system and administration," said School Board Pres. A. M. (Bud) Bernstein. Voters recognized the needs of the district, he added. "They responded to the information we presented fairly and honestly."

School board and administration officials had worried before the voting that they might face sizable opposition. Many privately predicted a close vote.

Bob Brower, District 59 director of curriculum and special projects, said he believed the school board and administration successfully proved to voters the bond issue approval would not raise taxes. "We also like to think this is support of our teachers and quality program," he said.

Brower coordinated efforts for the bond issue.

A COMPARISON of this voting behavior with that in the tax rate increase referendum in February showed a larger proportion of the yes vote came out; fewer of the no's. Saturday 1,769 positive votes were registered in contrast to February's 1,670; 486 no's compared to 962 no's in February.

At 4 p.m. Saturday 900 had voted; by 6 p.m. 1,800 had voted; and by closing poll time at 7 p.m. the 2,273 people had voted. The telephone campaign to get out the vote started about 4 p.m.

The Brentwood area of Des Plaines did not deliver the no vote feared. A Brentwood Civic Association letter opposed the bond issue, suggesting the building program proposal should be for a shorter term. Some voters in that area also indicated they would have preferred a package referendum on the tax rate increase and the building bond issue.

The civic association's opposition aroused some people who did not believe the association should have advised against the vote. One man, for example, voted absentee ballot and commented to a school official "no small group of men is going to dictate my vote."

IN THE FEBRUARY vote on the tax rate increase the total vote cast was 2,653 votes with 1,670 yes and 962 no votes. In that vote the Elk Grove Village and Arlington Heights precincts supported the referendum almost 3 to 1 while in Des Plaines High Ridge Knolls rejected it and Devonshire barely passed it.

The breakdown of the vote by precinct was:

Precinct 1, Clearmont School, 434 yes; 66 no, 5 objected to as defective; precinct 2, Rupley School, 271 yes, 68 no, one defective; precinct 3, High Ridge Knolls, 291 yes, 179 no, 5 defective; precinct 4, Ridge, 224 yes, 47 no, 1 defective; precinct 5, Devonshire, 107 yes, 30 no, 1 defective; precinct 6, Forest View Elementary, 110 yes, 44 no, 4 defective; precinct 7, Forest View High School, 66 yes, 20 no; precinct 8, Salt Creek, 116 yes, 7 no; precinct 9, Frost, 150 yes, 25 no, 1 defective.

Opposition to the bond issue on the basis of some of District 59's controversial steps such as initiation of a dual enrollment program and hiring of two Negro teachers did not materialize. One mother said she believes the school district gets support from parents because of District 59's policy of tailoring its programs to children's individual needs.

THE SCHOOL board and administration waged a month informational campaign. They explained the bond issue to PTA's and most civic groups.

The bond issue will provide for two new junior high schools and two new elementary schools as well as additions to many schools, library study improvement, site improvement, and administration building expansion.

Feelings Aired On Sewer Question

Representing Crossroads property owners, Bob McNitt, chairman of the Village Merchants' Assn. sewer committee, stated at the Oct. 5 public meeting that Long Grove's business men want to cooperate on a mutually satisfactory sewerage plan.

A letter signed by all but three Crossroads property owners and read by President Coffin stated that merchants will accept the cooperative method on condition that Kildeer School bear 50 per cent of the cost. This stipulation was based on the fact that the school's total 10,000 gallon usage per day was equal to the total usage of all the Crossroads property owners. Those involved also want a complete analysis of land, easements and costs involved. The letter as presented was the result of the property owners' meeting held Sept. 29, during which all possible alternatives were studied.

At the meeting, called jointly by the village board and plan commission, the 30 some residents attending were given the opportunity to ask questions and air their feelings. Legal Counsel Conzelman, who is recommending that merchants enter into a cooperative type plan, was present, also a Lake County Health Dept. official and Engineer Bleck. At the Sept. 14 village board session, Bleck's estimate on the system was given as $63,721. Also attending was Ray Miller who represented the Kildeer board of education.

AS ENVISIONED, the plan calls for the cooperative agreement of all affected property owners, the cooperating owners agreeing to pay the additional expense of the system in front of the property of those who do not cooperate and immediately pay. The non-cooperators would be charged a connection charge by the village, the amount then rebated among the paying cooperative users.

A suggestion was made that Engineer Bleck be hired to make a comprehensive cross analysis of each property owner's sewage needs and the amount it would cost him.

At the Sept. 20 plan commission meeting, when Aribert Wild presented the 363.3 acre development proposal to Long Grove, he said the plan would provide the village with an economically operated municipal sewer and water system. At that time the system as proposed would include an oxidation pond with lines running up the central area to the school with feeder lines connected to it. Under such a set-up, the initial lines would be installed by the developer with tax-free bonds.

Crossroads consensus seems to be that it wants to solve its own needs, the sooner the better, and let the land developers tackle theirs, sewerage included, when their problems arise.

PARENTS WILL have the opportunity to meet their children's teachers and receive a general summary of what goes on in the classroom at the Parents' Nights set for Oct. 19 and 21, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 19 is for parents of kindergartners through third grade and Oct. 21 for the four upper grades.

From Community Club publicity chairman, Mrs. Robert Anderson, comes the reminder that Kildeer directories are still available and may be secured from Mrs. Glenn Miller or Mrs. Marshall Green.

The Community Club has given Stevenson High School a gift of $250 to be used to purchase one French horn and one baritone horn for its band department.

A ONE-HOUR flying trip from Boise, Idaho, to Moscow was one of the special treats of the George Meyers' vacation from which they returned Oct. 5. At Moscow, Idaho, they and Mrs. Meyer's aunt, Mrs. Emma Johnstone of Marsing, visited with the Meyers' nephew, Stowell Johnstone and family. He is a high school superintendent in Moscow. After their visit, the Meyers visited with an aunt, Mrs. Carrie Frank in Parma, and with other relatives in Caldwell.

Though they report having gone through snow in Wyoming, Idaho was enjoying 85 degree temperatures after its first frost. Farmers were reporting good crops of potatoes, sugar beets, corn and alfalfa and were busy storing cattle feed into pits, the pits taking the place of what we call silos.

The vacationers were late on arriving in Idaho, because their train was blocked by an oncoming freighter that had been derailed.

When the senior Robert Loudons speak of rock collecting, they're not really referring to a hobby. Driving along Route 45 to Wilmot on Friday, they went in search of large and interesting shaped boulders which farmers, having plowed up from their fields, have left lying along fence lines. On "spotting" something interesting during such trips as this, the Loudons contact the owners, make the purchase and arrange to have the rocks picked up via truck the following day. The stones are used for decorative purposes in their nursery work.

On their eight-day trip, which included driving Julie to the University of Montana, where she has pledged Kappa Kappa Gamma, the Loudons drove through snow in Yellowstone, saw no end of bear, elk and buffalo, came out through the Grand Tetons and totaled 4,000 miles before reaching home.

CALIFORNIA'S Sacramento Valley is oozing with grapes, according to the Robert Rileys who are home from a week's flying trip to the San Francisco area. Renting a car, in addition to taking in some of the city's life, they took short trips toward Marysville and Stockton.

The Rileys expect Chris and Nan to leave Korea and return to the United States by Oct. 29. Chris will report to Ft. Lewis, Wash., where he is to fill an eight month assignment before completing his period of enlistment. Nan is expected back in Long Grove.

The sassafras trees at Saugatuck, Mich., aren't wearing their usual vibrant reds and yellows, according to Artist Charlotte Wachs, who returned Friday from a five-day house party she attends annually each fall at the home of a friend, Mrs. Webster Corlett. During their stay, a group of guests and long time friends do nothing but paint to their hearts' content.

'Twas well past midnight when the Vernon Opsals returned home Monday from their 150 mile drive to Mount Horeb, Wis., to attend the golden wedding anniversary of Vern's aunt and uncle, the Howard Opsals. Surprising the Opsals here a week ago were Vern's brother, Boyd and family, and a cousin, Donald and family, of Oregon.

ART SHOWS and bazaars, hinting of Christmas gift possibilities, are filling up women's calendars, with many a hubby quiring, "Must you be gone every day?"

Attending a hand crafts session and luncheon in Mount Prospect recently, Mrs. William Salzman helped make items for the Mary Thompson Hospital bazaar to be held Nov. 10 in Mount Prospect.

Mrs. Guy Reed and Mrs. Harold Turner invited a group to the annual Elizabeth Arden Style Show and Luncheon held at the Conrad Hilton on Thursday. Making it a party were Mrs. Tom Hoyne, Mrs. Heinz Loeffler, Mrs. Joseph Lanterman, Mrs. Lee Hickox, Mrs. Jack Deagan, Mrs. John Clemetsen and Mrs. Jon Henricks.

The Riverwoods Art Show, in which participants tour six homes in the area south of Lincolnshire, was Saturday's adventure for Mrs. Charlotte Wachs, Mrs. Heinz Loeffler, Mrs. Roy Anderson and Mrs. Charles Schaefer.

"The King and I," the miniature operatic treat at the Kungsholm, delighted Mrs. Emil Geest recently. Her daughter and husband, the Cecil Hansens of Lake Forest, asked her to share the luncheon, attended by fellow telephone company workers who are members of the Pioneers organization.

MRS. WILLIAM Ernsting and Mrs. Leonora Stoerp were among 10 members of Willard Camp 507 who attended the Sept. 27 Royal Neighbors County Convention at the North Chicago public library. Leonora served as county chancellor at the ceremonies. Others from here who attended were Mrs. William Hahnfeldt and Mrs. James Mattson.

European travel pictures were enjoyed by the John Kruegers on Oct. 5 at the regional Men's Fellowship of Carpentersville United Church of Christ.

Among weekend sociability was the dinner occasion the George Massons hosted Saturday and the cocktail party on Sunday at which the Vincent Allens were hosts.

Congratulations go to Stevenson High Schoolers Arlene Opsal, Susie Loeffler, Pam French and Sandy Tillman of this area who have been chosen cheerleaders.

"What's New, Pussycat" was fun to watch for the Ken Bluetts and the Del Whitneys recently, followed by dinner at The Patio to celebrate Nancy's birthday.

Twin cakes, provided by their grandmother, Mrs. William Ernsting, on their third birthdays provided a happy glow to Kathy and Kevin Hahnfeldt's birthday party on Sunday.

BIRTHDAY gretings also go to Harold Bauer and Lisa Binkley, Oct. 15; Ruth Gosswiller, 16th; Bessie Dickinson and Jimmy Byrne, 17th; Barbara Miller and Tripp Parson, 19th.

Anniversary wishes go to the Charles Parsons, Oct. 15; to the Richard Byrnes, 18th.

Get well wishes go to Annette Byrne, Stevenson High junior, who has been reciving her lessons via telephone hook-up.

We're told Mel Towner gave Kildeer pupils a jolt from their seats when he suddenly sounded a fire alarm that sent them through a drill. It was to remind them it was Fire Prevention Week.

While working on holiday decorations for the Dec. 6 Holiday Belles Lunch and Style Show, Bonny Henricks became so awed by the colors of the leaves in the Turner woods that she returned hours later, brush in hand, to capture the beauty.

To Honor Legion Team On Nov. 27

Arlington's American Legion baseball team, fifth in the Legion World Series and champs of Cook County, state, and regional tournaments, will be honored Saturday evening, Nov. 27, at a "Meet The Champs" banquet at the Arlington Legion Hall, Douglas and Miner streets.

The dinner will be held at 7 p.m. with a program following honoring the first Illinois Legion baseball team in 12 years to advance to the World Series.

Dick Ellsworth, 25-yard-old pitcher with the Chicago Cubs, will be a special guest at the banquet.

Arlington Heights, coached by Lloyd Meyer, won the Ninth District championship and earned a berth in the state finals with a victory at the Cook County tourney in Chicago Heights.

Arlington won the state playoffs in Carmi, Ill., the Fifth Regional tourney in East Chicago, Ind., and then captured one game in the World Series in Aberdeen, S.D.

Anyone interested in purchasing tickets to the legion banquet may contact Lloyd Meyer at CLearbrook 5-2426.

New Law Bars Pre-Fab Pools

Plan on keeping up with the Joneses by installing a swimming pool in your back yard next summer?

Before you make your plans, check the Mount Prospect village code.

Trustees Tuesday night passed an ordinance which, in effect, prohibits prefabricated pools. The vote was unanimous, on second reading of the ordinance.

THE NEW ordinance provides that no private pool exceeding two feet in depth may project more than six inches above ground level. A specific provision includes prefab or portable pools, which technically were allowed under the previous ordinance.

Residents owning pools which do not conform with the new ruling have a maximum of five years to remove the pools or comply with the ordinance.

Fine for violations is not less than $25 nor more than $100.

Pastor Schlecht will serve as guest missioner for the "families for Christ" open house services beginning Sunday. There will also be services on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings. Sections from the gospel according to Saint John will form the bases of the discussions led by Reverend Schlecht.

The choirs of Faith Church will sing on several evenings. The worship hour will last for approximately 45 minutes. Each service will include a hymn singing, "family Bible study," and a closing devotional service. Auxiliary organizations of the congregation will serve refreshments after the services. (A

Patricia Roig Finalist in Teen Contest

Patricia Roig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Roig of Arlington Heights, was one of 10 finalists in the Miss Teenage Chicagoland contest held Oct. 10 at the Sheraton-Blackstone Hotel.

Miss Roig, 17, is a student at Wheeling High School. For her talent performance she presented an original monologue on "Eloise."

The winner of the contest, Jan Gjovik of Oak Brook, received a $1,000 scholarship and will compete in the Miss Teenage America pageant in Dallas, Texas, Oct. 23 to 29.

Drink Up and Go— That's the Law Now

Drink up and get out — on the hour of closing.

That's the meaning of an amendment to the Mount Prospect liquor ordinance heard in first reading by the village board Tuesday night.

The current ordinance prohibits sale of liquor in the village from 1 a.m. to 6 a.m. week days and from 2 a.m. to noon on Sundays. However, it does not prohibit consumption of liquor during those hours in the places where it is sold.

Hence, if someone were so inclined, he legally could order as many drinks as he wanted just prior to closing and drink at his leisure, attorney Marlin Smith told the trustees.

The amendment will, in effect, force tavern owners to close their doors at the closing hour — with the customers outside. (M

School District Is Praised for Audit

Accountants have given the Arlington Heights School District 25 business office an A-plus in an annual audit report presented to the board of education last Thursday.

R. E. Schultheis, certified public accountant for the firm of Laurin, Schultheis & Givens, told the board Arlington's schools have rated high among elementary schools "for years."

Records, he said, "are readily available, and close cooperation exists between the township school treasurer and school personnel."

CHIEF CRITICISM of the district, the auditor noted, was that fixed asset control cards — used for keeping track of equipment —need more detailed information. But he softened that by adding most districts don't even have such inventory cards.

District 25 records are "more sophisticated than those of 90 per cent of the districts in Illinois," Schultheis said, and criticism is aimed at more sophisticated subjects.

Business Mgr. Peter R. Bakas, agreeing with the criticism, said the position responsible for maintaining the cards has frequent turnover because it is a springboard for promotion to other jobs. He termed the inventory cards a "natural" for data processing machines and said the district "inevitably" will make some use of data processing equipment. (A

Leagues Forming For Park District

The Arlington Heights Park District has announced that volleyball and basketball teams should be formed in the near future, as league play will soon begin.

The volleyball teams are made up of six men, primarily all of whom should reside in Arlington Heights or are employed in this area.

Basketball teams should also be composed primarily of Arlington Heights residents or employed locally, and have no more than 15 persons on the roster.

TO GAIN A playing time, a team representative should contact Bill Appleby at the park district office, CL 3-0620 by Friday, Oct. 22, to reserve a place in the league. Team practices begin Nov. 3 and 4 and league play begins Dec. 1 and 2 for volleyball. Basketball games begin on Nov. 16 and 18.

Volleyball leagues are scheduled for three time periods at Recreation Park fieldhouse on Wednesday and Thursday evenings. Basketball leagues will play in the Arlington High School gym on Tuesdays and Thursday evenings. (A

Price of Beauty

Rhodesian Missionary Church Guest Oct. 22

The Rev. John C. Heinrich, a United Church of Christ missionary who has served in Southern Rhodesia since 1951, will be a guest in St. John United Church of Christ, 310 N. Evergreen Ave., Arlington Heights, at 8 p.m. Oct. 22.

Since many questions, both political and about the social climate of Southern Rhodesia cannot be covered in a prepared message, The Rev. Mr. Heinrich will spend a majority of the time in an informal atmosphere in which individuals can personally ask him questions that are pertinent to them. All those in the community who are interested may attend. The reception will be held in the Educational Building at 308 N. Evergreen Ave.

The Rev. Mr. Heinrich, now on furlough in the United States, is a language teacher for new missionaries at Chikore mission station in Southern Rhodesia. He also serves as minister of the mission church and as an editorial secretary for an interdenominational committee translating a 15 volume African Sunday school curriculum into Shona, a South Rhodesian tribal language.

CHIKORE MISSION station is on an 18,000-acre farm in the mid-eastern part of Southern Rhodesia. It consists of a church, an upper primary school, a secondary school, a cottage hospital, a dispensary and homes.

Born in Pittsburgh, Pa., Pastor Heinrich grew up in the Punjab Province of India where his missionary parents served under the United Presbyterian Board. He attended Oberlin College, Oberlin, Ohio, (B.A. degree, 1943) and Yale Divinity School (B.D. degree, 1950).

During World War II, The Rev. Mr. Heinrich served as a 1st Lt. in the U.S. Army. From 1948 to 1950 he was a youth work assistant at First Congregational Church, Meriden, Conn.

The United Church Board for World Ministries, under which he serves, is the overseas agency of the United Church of Christ, a union of Congregational Christ churches and the Evangelical and Reformed Church. (A

Since the Wheeling Club is affiliated with The General Federation of Woman's Clubs, an international body, the new member is actually joining a world-wide body of women dedicated to "live every day trying to accomplish something, not merely to exist." Hostess for the evening will be Mrs. Linda Tyser. (S

Entering Contests Varies Her Routine

by JOAN LORENSON
Staff Writer

The first cookies she ever baked were so hard her father used them for a throwing game.

That was as a 12-year-old. Today Mrs. Stephen Vetter, 314 N. Ash St., Wood Dale, strings a list of baking and cooking credits to her name.

The vivacious mother of four got started in cooking and baking contests when she won a finalist place in the 1960 Pillsbury Flour Co. bake-off, considered the elite of baking contests.

"People are scared of the Pillsbury contest," claims Dorothy. "If I got into the finals, anyone can."

She tended to underplay her achievements as she sat and talked over coffee and her winning peanut polka cake.

FOR TWO YEARS she was chosen state champion in the Delmarva Poultry Industry contest. She placed fourth in the National Egg Cooking Contest in 1963 after being the first place winner in the senior division of the Illinois contest. She has placed in a variety of contests promoted by such diverse sponsors as a Chinese food company, the Poultry and Egg National Board and the New Jersey Asparagus Industry Council.

Since 1961 Mrs. Vetter has been a Pillsbury national adviser, her most coveted position and one for which she has qualified annually.

In this role Mrs. Vetter can advise women who want to submit recipes in the contest.

"I can do everything but give them a recipe," she explains.

AS AN ADVISER, she also is responsible for encouraging women in the area to submit recipes in the baking contest. A newcomer to Wood Dale from Round Lake Beach just this summer, she hasn't yet built up a reputation for being a help to baking enthusiasts in the area.

"I used to have little old ladies come to the house to have me taste and advise them on recipe results," she recalls. "A lot of them used old country recipes and were better cooks than I was."

Cooking is not only the forte of Mrs. Vetter but also of her husband and 10-year-old son. Her menfolk won a cooking contest at the Illinois State Fair this year, and they made the finals in a Delmarva contest one year when Mrs. Vetter didn't.

"WE DON'T care who in the family wins," she admits.

Her husband leaves the fancy cooking to his wife and takes the more basic recipes, she says.

Vance, "our egghead" as Dorothy affectionately calls her son who has a book or cookbook in his hands most of the time, is a better cook than his mother was when she married. As the only child of a mother who had her own radio show, Dorothy never learned to cook. She recalls a party where she and a friend confused cabbage with lettuce.

MRS. VETTER and her son are experimenting currently with a peanut butter crust for a pie recipe they'd like to enter in the Pillsbury contest this year.

"We made three in a night but we haven't mastered it," she laughs.

No matter who is cooking, this admitted extrovert gets to clean up. She admits readily that she dislikes housework and goes in for "spells of cleaning."

The Vetter family with four children ranging from ten to one-year-old are inveterate experimenters. They'll try anything. Mrs. Vetter usually follows an original recipe carefully and thereafter adapts it to her family's tastes.

SHE HAS TO watch her weight, a problem not shared by the rest of her family. Her husband, a signal maintainer at Chicago's Union Station, has gained 40 pounds since his bachelorhood days when little hung on his tall frame. Mrs. Vetter has done some experimenting with calorie savers.

She has to cook around her husband's aversion to green vegetables and usually serves these vegetables to the children at the meal where her husband is not present.

Mrs. Vetter sometimes plans her buying along with menu planning but not as a rule.

"We're impulsive bakers," she noted. "We always seem to be out of vanilla, peanut butter and cinnamon."

MRS. VETTER shows a flair of creativity in naming some of her concoctions and thinking of novel ingredients. She believes a catchy recipe name gets the judges' attention, citing as an example her winning "Eggstacy Fluff in Chocolate Cradle Pie."

A homebody who never uses a babysitter, Mrs. Vetter found entering cooking and baking contests varied her routine. She is an old hand at winning contests of all kinds, and many of the appliances in her house are prizes.

"If I hadn't entered the cooking contests, I'd be just another dull housewife," declares Mrs. Vetter. "You have to eat anyway."

AS A 10-YEAR-OLD, she sang on a Chicago radio station program. Her childhood voice was good enough to enter her in singing contests and place in finals. When nylons were scarce during the war, she won them in dancing contests where the tango was her specialty.

"I know cooking contests are not a put up job because I win," Mrs. Vetter said.

Her enthusiasm has been contagious enough to encourage her 68-year-old father and 87-year-old grandmother to enter a baking contest this year.

BAKING COMES naturally it seems for Dorothy Vetter, 314 N. Ash St., Wood Dale. Throughout the year she formulates recipes she can enter in various baking and cooking contests. Cooking in a contest does not make her nervous though she confesses she gets a "tingly feeling" when the winners are announced. She is an advisor for Pillsbury, helping women with cooking and baking problems. (Staff photo

Geography a la Carte

She Learns from Neighbors

By BERNADINE M. RECHNER

Little did I know when I moved from Chicago to Greater Chicago, namely Prospect Heights, that there would be anything more than just a move involved. Oh, I had anticipated the newness of the change, the adjusting to different surroundings and the challenge of making new friends. But I certainly didn't suspect that the impact of my new neighbors would be quite so intriguing or that I would be resuming my geography lessons!

After the initial attempt at that utopian state called "getting settled," I paused in the inside work long enough to look around outside the house.

I remember scanning the dust-laden earth in obvious dismay at the landscaping chores ahead.

"It won't look so bad when you get the grass in," said a pleasant voice behind me.

THE LADY, valiantly hanging on to two toddlers and an infant, smiled cheerfully (then laughed because I was also hanging on, not so valiantly, to two toddlers and an infant) and introduced herself.

They came, she told me, from Chicago but when she mentioned the street, I had never heard of it. They were 'North Siders' (said with a small hint of pity) and might well have come from a foreign country, for I was born and bred on the South Side.

We had come from two separate entities of the same whole, knowing of the other's existence but never bothering to investigate how it lived.

Had I ever been to Lincoln Park Zoo? No, I admitted, we always went to Brookfield. Had I ever been to Wrigley Field? No, I answered, our loyalties were vested in the White Sox. Had I ever been to Six Corners? Oh sure, said I, suddenly feeling kinship, but she was referring to Milwaukee, Cicero and Irving and I meant 79th, South Chicago and Stony Island!

THE FRIENDSHIP flourished, each of us learning much about the 'other Chicago' and finding our common bond in Prospect Heights. My new compatroit was the first and last Chicago neighbor I was to have and even she had come from the 'other city.'

As I had once considered all Chicagoans alike and been made aware of the small differences, so I had considered all Americans alike, having known few 'outsiders.'

I was about to learn, however, that people have a slightly different manner of speaking native to their own particular area and that other cities have many interesting facets of which I was completely unaware of. My education was beginning, although I really didn't suspect it until the next of my neighbors moved in.

That family hails from New Orleans, by way of Dallas, Texas. Since my ear has become attuned to the Southern drawl, I have learned many things about Louisiana's former capital city.

PERHAPS THE most interesting item is the system of earthen levees protecting the Crescent City because it is lower than its surrounding waters, the Gulf of Mexico, the Mississippi River and Lake Ponchartrain.

My new friend raved about some kind of gumbo that's a favorite in New Orleans, and she wondered if I had ever eaten another of their specialties, red beans and rice. I admitted not having had the pleasure.

I was aware of the famous restaurants and the French Quarter but I had forgotten the famous Frenchman, the Duc d' Orleans, for whom the ciy was named.

She told me that Dallas, too, acquired its identity from a name I had probably forgotten — that of George Mifflin Dallas, American statesman and diplomat, vice president of the United States under James K. Polk. She was right. If I had ever heard of him, I had indeed forgotten him.

SHE DESCRIBED the snowy beauty of cotton growing, the wonders of Nieman-Marcus, the tragedy of the assassination, the conditions leading to the demonstrations against Adlai Stevenson.

But Dallas seemed closest to heaven when she mentioned, one warm, humid evening, that there are no mosquitoes in that fair city!

However, just as I was becoming enamored over Texas, the family across the street arrived from Brooklyn, and suddenly the fantasies of New York City were open to me.

I readjusted my ear to the Eastern accent although theirs is not the emphatic Brooklynese of the vaudevillians. They speak much the same brand of "American" that Midwesterners do, but their long A's don't match the hard ones of Chicagoans.

BE THAT AS it may, we began comparing cities. I learned that New Yorkers, like Chicagoans, take little advantage of their city's offerings; that New Yorkers see New York only when they are entertaining out-of-town guests who want to see the sights, similar to the habits of Second City natives.

We talked of the theatre, the museums, the art galleries, the department stores, the famous buildings and the Port of New York. I even gained a clear view of the boroughs, a bit of geography that has always eluded me.

And my geography is steadily improving for close on the heels of the New Yorkers came a family from Green Bay, Wis., and I learned that their city is the largest cheese processing center in the United States.

A neighbor from Dearborn, Mich., described Greenfield Village, a collection of historic houses from all over the United States and England and including those of Henry Ford and Thomas A. Edison and the courthouse from Lincoln, Ill., where Abraham Lincoln practiced law.

A REPRESENTATIVE from Omaha, Neb., told me that her city is the central point on the New York to San Francisco air route.

I learned that Trenton, N. J., is the home of the company that built the Brooklyn, Geroge Washington and Golden Gate bridges.

One family comes from Seattle, Wash. (the second ranking Pacific Coast port, having both fresh water and salt water facilities), and another hails from Cleveland, Ohio, a city which boasts of its wide streets and avenues, many of which exceed 130 feet.

Some of these people will inevitably be transferred out of this area. Much as I will miss each of them, there is comfort in knowing that those who come after them will be every bit as pleasant and hail from places every bit as interesting.

Prospect Heights has become my window on the nation, and the geography lessons are fascinating (SF

Bensenville Garden Club Promotes Official Tree

Once again the Garden Club of Bensenville has reminded local residents that the village's official tree is the flowering crab. The club entered a float in the recent Gold Rush Day parade to depict the beauty and usefulness of the tree and earned a blue ribbon for its efforts.

The float, entitled "It's for the Birds," pictured the flowering crab tree as a thing of beauty in spring and also as a source of food for our feathered friends in that small apples form in early fall.

FOR SOME time the garden club has been emphasizing the fact that Bensenville does have an official tree, hoping that residents will try more plantings of the flowering crab. The float stressed the objects of the club, those of conservation of forests, wild flowers and birds and the advancement of gardening, both on the grounds of area homes and in the beautifying of the village scene.

Chairman Mrs. Jack Saracino planned the float, assisted by Mrs. Joseph Nuzzo. The two women, along with Mrs. Walter Olhaber and Susan Miedema, appeared on the float, dressed in appropriate costumes.

THE VEHICLE was provided and driven by Andrew Miedema Jr.

The next event for Bensenville Garden Club is its annual Guest Day, set for Nov. 11 at 1 p.m. in the local Presbyterian Community Church. Mrs. Michael Rotunna of Bensenville will speak on "Holiday Tables and Centerpieces."

Cranberry Pudding Is Favorite Holiday Dish

THEIR MOTHER'S delicious Quick Bars make a mighty appealing afternoon snack in the opinion of Julie, Kathy and John Walsh of Arlington Heights. Mrs. James R. Walsh assembles the ingredients together in a matter of minutes and then bakes them. This recipe and two other of her favorites for a Baked Cranberry Pudding and Chicken Parisienne are featured in the adjoining column.

Likes Quick Bars For Buffet Dessert

By LOIS SEILER

Consider the versatility of the cranberry; this colorful, tart-flavored fruit can be utilized in everything from a relish or a holiday bread to the delightful and unusual pudding being featured today.

It is made from an old family recipe belonging to Mrs. James R. Walsh of Arlington Heights, who received it from her mother.

"The cranberry pudding can be served either as a bridge or dinner dessert," said Mrs. Walsh, who makes it often during the holidays.

Because cranberries keep well, Mrs. Walsh stores a supply in her freezer and can whip the pudding together in a matter of minutes.

It simply consists of flour, sugar and baking powder blended with shortening, milk and egg. A half pound of whole fresh cranberries is folded in, and the pudding is baked in a square tin.

Somewhat heavy and cake-like in texture, this baked pudding is served with a hot butter sauce. The rich and sweet flavor of the sauce complements the tartness of the cranberry pudding and makes it a delectable dessert treat.

Another recipe that is a special favorite of the Walsh family is Jane Walsh's Quick Bars.

The method for preparing these bars is unbelievably quick and easy; there is no mixing but the flavorful ingredients are simply assembled in layers—first graham cracker crumbs, then butterscotch and chocolate chips, coconut flakes and chopped nuts. Sweetened condensed milk is poured over all and the ingredients are baked for 20 minutes.

"Not only are they simple to make," said Mrs. Walsh, "but they can't fail!"

Cut into small bars when cool, these confections are rich, slightly chewy and easy to hold. Adults enjoy them as much as children, and they make an especially nice dessert for buffet dinners.

One of this good cook's dinner specialties which is wonderful for company is a delectable dish called Chicken Parisienne.

"This is a hostess' delight as the casserole can be assembled in advance, popped into the oven and forgotten," said Mrs. Walsh. "Then it can go directly from the oven to the table."

It consists of chicken baked in a sauce composed of cream of mushroom soup, mushrooms, sour cream and sherry. The chicken is tender and tasty and the gravy is delicious served over rice.

The busy mother of three children, Kathy, 12, a seventh grader at Thomas Junior High; John, 8, a third grader at Wilson School, and Julie, 5, a kindergartner at Patton School, Mrs. Walsh also devotes considerable energy to her duties as president of the Thomas Junior High PTA.

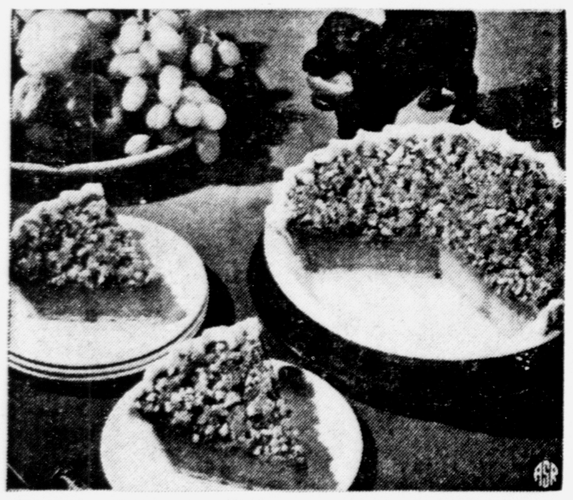
Praline Pumpkin Pie Has Crunchy Topping



When the Indians taught our Pilgrim fathers how to grow "pompions," little did they realize that Pilgrim homemakers would turn this fruit of the gourd family into pumpkin pie!

This all-American favorite is still made in the manner of those early "receipts" — but its preparation is streamlined ease. Modern day pumpkin comes cooked, pureed and neatly packed, ready to use at the twist of a can opener. Equally important for perfect pumpkin pie is the richness that pours from a can of evaporated milk to make the smooth custard-like filling. A noteworthy and festive addition is the crunchy praline topping.

PRALINE PUMPKIN PIE

2 eggs
1 can (1 lb.) pumpkin
¾ cup firmly packed light brown sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons pumpkin pie spice
1 tall can evaporated milk (1 2/3 cups)
9-inch unbaked pastry shell
2 tablespoons butter
½ cup firmly packed light brown sugar
1/3 cup chopped pecans

In a medium size mixing bowl beat eggs slightly. Stir in pumpkin, ¾ cup brown sugar, salt, spice and evaporated milk, blending well. Pour into pastry shell. Bake in preheated hot oven (425 degrees F.) 15 minutes; reduce temperature to moderate (350 degrees F.) and continue baking 45 minutes longer, or until done when tested. Cool on rack. Shortly before serving time melt the butter in a small saucepan. Remove from heat; stir in ½ cup brown sugar and pecans. Sprinkle evenly over pie. Place pie under broiler heat until topping is bubbly, about 1 minute, watching carefully so mixture does not burn. Serve warm. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

We reserve the right to limit quantities. Prices effective till Oct. 16. Guaranteed to please or your money back.

Area Couple Married On Groom's Birthday

It was a special birthday this year for Larry Buske of Wood Dale, for it was on that date that he took a bride, the former Brenda Kokulak of Arlington Heights. The couple received double good wishes that day at their wedding in the First Methodist Church of Arlington Heights and later at the reception in Itasca Country Club.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kokulak, 716 N. Kaspar, Arlington Heights, and the groom's parents are the August Buskes of 434 Elmhurst, Wood Dale.

REV. GERALD Robinson performed the double ring rites at 3 o'clock after the bridal party, all attired in mint green and pink, approached the altar. The maid of honor, Lynn Guamaccia of New York, wore a mint green silk organza floor-length gown and carried a cascade of matching carnations. Miss Guamaccia is a cousin of the bride.

The three bridesmaids were attired in identical dresses, only in pink and their bouquets were of pink carnations.

BRIDESMAIDS WERE Nancy Kokulak, the bride's sister; Carol Guamaccia, her cousin; and Rae Roche of Arlington Heights.

As the bride entered the sanctuary on the arm of her father, she wore a silk organza, floor-length gown embroidered in a floral motif and featuring a chapel train which was attached at the back waistline with a self-fabric flower. Her veil was 3-tiered and held in place by a petal cap.

She carried a cascade of white orchids and carnations.

The bride's mother also chose a pink dress for the day's festivities, and her corsage was composed of pink carnations and tearoses. The groom's mother wore an aqua dress with a matching corsage of carnations and tearoses.

JIM FRAZIER of Palatine served as best man, and seating the guests were Bob Buske, the groom's brother, and Jerry Jonas and Tom Roche, both of Arlington Heights.

The bride is an Arlington High School graduate and works in Des Plaines for General Telephone Directory Co. The groom, a Fenton High School graduate, is employed at the Arlington Heights Post Office. (Jenart

Hoffman Club Seeks Members for Chorus

Hoffman Estates Woman's Club is unusual among federated clubs in that it has maintained, almost since its inception nine years ago, a choral group for the musical enjoyment of members.

To retain this activity among the club's interest groups, more singers are needed, according to chairman Mrs. John Rainey. Voices most needed are soprano and second soprano.

Rehearsals are held the second and fourth Wednesdays of each month, under direction of Mrs. William Cowin. Membership in the Woman's Club is a prerequisite for joining the choral group, but such membership is open to all Hoffman Esates women.

SOME EXPERIENCE in singing is desirable for choral group participation but a wish to sing is the most important qualification.

Dubbed "The Madri-gals," the group has sung at many women's club functions, locally and elsewhere. They have also appeared before other community organizations and joined in concert with the Hoffman Estates 8 Schaumburg Community Band last April.

Inquiries about the club and choral group may be addressed to Mrs. Rainey at TW 4-3192 or Mrs. Cowin, LA 9-7208. (S

Nelson Auer Takes Bride in Missouri

The candlelight wedding of Kristi Ann Wiebe, daughter of the Charles F. Wiebes of Glendale, Mo., and Nelson Auer, son of the Oliver E. Auers of Arlington Heights, was performed Sept. 4 by Rev. Bruce Melton in Glendale Presbyterian Church.

The bride wore a gown of white silk organza and chantilly lace. Motifs encrustred with seed pearls were scattered on the front of the bodice, skirt and edge of the train. Miss Wiebe was attended by her sister, Miss Pam Wiebe, and her college roommate, Miss Patricia Emery, who wore matching full-length sheath gowns of peach silk linen. Bows and matching veils of melon hue completed their attire. Each carried a bouquet of cascading peach tea roses sprinkled with a touch of ivy.

THE GROOM HAD as his best man, Michael O'Connell of Arlington Heights, and Lawrence Jauch, also of Arlington Heights, served as groomsman. Ushers were Alf Johnson of DeKalb, Neil Gladstone, Gerald Sahagian and the bride's brother, Charles Wiebe III, all of St. Louis.

PADDOCK PUBLICATIONS THURS., OCT. 14, 1965

Suburban Living
Especially for Women

GUESTS CAME FROM many area suburbs last Thursday when Rolling Green Country Club opened its new modern facilities for Palatine Infant Welfare's luncheon-fashion show benefit. Mrs. James Hoadly of Arlington Heights, Mrs. Donald Foss of Prospect Heights and Mrs. Jerry Duro, also of Arlington Heights, were among the hundreds who lunched and viewed the show. (S

A real live dolly, wearing an authentic reproduction of Carol Channing's famous red "Dolly" costume, was the surprise guest Thursday when Palatine Center of Infant Welfare Society of Chicago staged its own "Hello Dolly" show in Rolling Green Country Club. Infant Welfare's "Dolly" was Mrs. James Voelz, who the audience claimed was every bit as charming as Miss Channing, star of the musical which is due in Chicago next January.

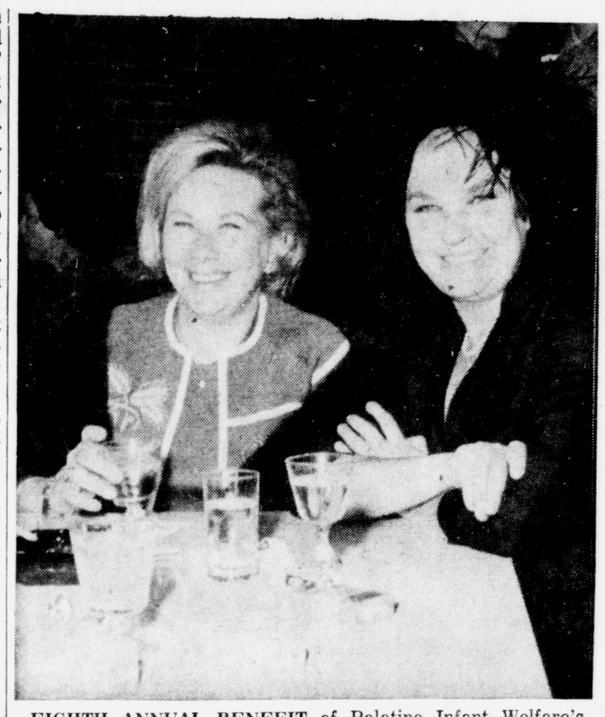
The costume for the Infant Welfare dolly was created especially for her by the New York Costume Company.

After her stroll on the runway to the tune of "Hello Dolly," Mrs. Voelz welcomed a "Dolly of the Day" from the audience, Mrs. Eyvind F. Ericksen who was presented with gifts brought back from Europe by Palatine Infant Welfare members, Mrs. Gerald Fitzgerald, Mrs. Jack Flora and Mrs. Norbert Rosenhauer.

THE "WELCOME Dolly" theme was carried throughout the afternoon, from individual table "Dolly" centerpieces to the show tunes rendered at the piano by Mrs. Alvin Stieger of Inverness.

A showing of fall fashions from Quintero's in Oak Park followed with Mrs. Quintero commentating. Models were Mrs. Robert Abate, Mrs. Herbert Berdan, Mrs. Henry Bischoff, Mrs. Robert Boles, Mrs. Robert Elrich, Mrs. Flora, Mrs. Robert Kodl, Mrs. Albert Mawicke, Mrs. Charles Patten, Mrs. Rosenhauer, Mrs. E. J. Schmutzer and Mrs. Seth Simms, all members of the Center.

Special guests at the luncheon were Mrs. John Brewer, president of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Infant Welfare Society of Chicago, Mrs. Irma McCubbins, personnel director of the Society, Mrs. Theodore Meindl, founder of the Swing Club, and Mrs. John C. Munson of Lake Forest who is chairman of the Nov. 12 benefit performance of the Royal Marines Tattoo. The benefit is a joint effort of all Centers in the Chicago area, including Palatine, Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect. Although the area Centers have sold all their tickets, plans are to have more available by the end of October. (S



EIGHTH ANNUAL BENEFIT of Palatine Infant Welfare's "Welcome Dolly," a welcome to the coming musical, found Mrs. Robert Rogers and Mrs. Edwin Walters of Plum Grove Estates among the guests. Held at Rolling Green Country Club, proceeds will aid the Infant Welfare Society of Chicago. Next project of area Centers is the Nov. 12 presentation of the Royal Marine Tattoo.

THE ULTIMATE IN evening ensembles, a heavily beaded three-quarter coat over a green chiffon gown and an aqua silk peau coat lined with print to match the gown were two of the elegant outfits in one of last week's benefit shows. Presented by Palatine Infant Welfare, fashions were from Quintero's of Oak Park. Models are Mrs. Robert P. Abate and Mrs. Seth Sims Jr.

"DOLLY" ROLE FOR Palatine Infant Welfare's "Welcome Dolly" benefit was portrayed by Mrs. James A. Voelz, whose costume was made especially for her by the New York Costume Company. Miniature dollies in red gowns matching Mrs. Voelz' were used as centerpieces for the luncheon show held last week at Rolling Green Country Club.

FROM ENGLAND came the wool check tweed for this 3-piece ensemble. In tones of palest beige and browns, the model, Mrs. Albert T. Mawicke, complemented the outfit with a lynx fur piece during Palatine Infant Welfare's "Welcome Dolly" luncheon and show. The benefit was held in Rolling Green Country Club last week.

GOP Women Invite Guests to Review

In an attempt to offer a year of variety, Palatine Republican Women's Club will present a different type of program from its usual schedule on Friday, Oct. 15, at 8 p.m. in the First State Bank Building.

A book review will be given by Valerie Kraft on "White Teacher in a Black School." Guests are welcome to this event.

THE BOOK is fictional but based on facts and written by Robert Kendall, who has appeared on TV's "At Random" and "Talk of the Town," Clarence Petersen of the Chicago Tribune devoted half of his space to it in the "Books Today section Oct. 3, and the book has just found its niche on the paperback stands this month.

Mr. Kendall spent three years studying for the ministry, yet he quotes profanity. He spent three years in motion pictures, then turned to the field of education and became shackled by methods upheld in the school system in Los Angeles.

Whether the reader agrees with the message of the book or not, it makes an intriguing review, according to Mrs. Kraft.

Raisins Add Flavor, Texture to Cookies

Back-to-school days call for a delicious variety of raisin cookies for parties, snacks and the lunch box. The taste surprising flavor and tender chewy texture of raisins make them a natural addition to every kind of cooky.

Party raisin meringues are wonderfully light and pretty little tea dainties feathered with flaked coconut. No flour or shortening here— beaten egg whites and sugar make them high and handsome. Raisins and maraschino cherries give them a wonderful fruit flavor. Add quick cooking oats for more crunch. They're perfect to serve with hot spiced tea for club sessions.

A cooky jar full of raisin celebration cookies will delight the family. Serve them for dessert with fresh or canned fruit. These buttery rich cookies have a generous sprinkling of raisins and a delicate flavoring of vanilla and almond.

Toppings Dress Up 'Burgers

No wonder! It can be prepared in so many different ways, ranging from a home-style meat loaf to a gourmet-type patty.

Less tender cuts like shank, flank, round, short plate and brisket are used for grinding. This cuts the fibers and makes ground beef tender enough for broiling, as indicated by this recipe for hamburgers.

BROILING IS A method reserved for tender cuts, just as are pan broiling or roasting (baking) as in meat loaf.

When tangy toppings are used for ground meat, keep the seasoning in the beef 'burger to the minimum. Only salt and pepper are used in most cases. Handle the patties as little as possible when mixing the seasonings with the meat so they remain tender.

HAMBURGERS WITH BROILED TOPPINGS

1½ pounds ground beef
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Combine ground beef, salt and pepper and form into 6 patties ¾-inch thick. Place on rack in broiler pan so that top of patties is about 3 inches from heat. Broil on one side until browned, about 10 minutes. Turn, broil second side about 5 minutes. Spread patties with desired topping and broil an additional 2 minutes. 6 patties.

SPANISH TOPPING

BLUE CHEESE TOPPING

Tempting Casserole Made of Leftovers

It's been said that a resourceful cook can turn out a tempting casserole dish from practically anything, sometimes from practically nothing. Some of the best show up at everyday family meals, the result of foraging in the refrigerator for leftover bits and pieces from past feasts. Such was the origin of the Ham and Noodle Supper Casserole, featured here.

Success of the dish is assured by the deliciously flavored, creamy smooth sauce that binds the ingredients together in moist perfection. The sauce is "self-forming," thanks to powdered creamer.

HAMM AND NOODLE SUPPER CASSEROLE

1 pound cooked ham, diced
½ cup sliced olives
3 eggs, well beaten
¾ cup new non dairy creamer
1½ cups boiling water
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ cup grated Swiss cheese
2 tablespoons melted butter

Cook noodles as directed on package; drain. Combine with diced cooked ham and olives; place in a buttered, shallow 1½-quart casserole. Combine eggs and powdered creamer. Add boiling water, salt and pepper; blend well. Pour over ham and noodles. Sprinkle with grated cheese and melted butter. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F) 25 to 30 minutes. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Roasting Hint: Cook It Slowly

The National Livestock and Meat Board advises that meat cooked at 325 degrees stays tender and doesn't shrink or lose a lot of drippings.

The best results can be obtained where automatic temperature controls, such as those found in new electric ovens, maintain precise, even heat. Some models have temperature probes which, when inserted in the meat, determine the amount of doneness. (SH

No Need to Cool Food In Advance

Many women mistakenly insist on cooling food before putting it into the refrigerator-freezer, even though food keeps best when it is refrigerated promptly.

In the days of iceboxes, warm food in the icebox caused the ice to melt more quickly. Later, when electric refrigeration came onto the scene, women still hesitated storing a hot turkey in the refrigerator, in the belief it would steam up the interior of the appliance and cause frost to form.

Today, with the advent of no-frost refrigerator-freezers, food specialists advise homemakers to refrigerate or freeze food, whether warm or cold, right away for maximum freshness and flavor. Storing warm food is practical because frost cannot form in either the refrigerator or freezer compartment of a fully no-frost unit. (SH

Groom's Father Performs Grove-Winkler Nuptials

The Sept. 11 wedding of a Palatine girl, the former Judy Grove of 256 E. Colfax, and a Wheaton boy, Richard E. Winkler, took place in the "home" church of the groom where his father performed the double ring ceremony by candlelight.

Rev. Richard E. Winkler officiated at the 2 o'clock rites in Trinity Episcopal Church, Wheaton, and then stood in the reception line in the church hall to greet 350 guests who attended his son's wedding.

MRS. WINKLER and the bride's mother, Mrs. Charles E. Grove, also received relatives and friends, both attired in royal blue with white gladioli corsages.

A round bouquet of white roses, edged with green foliage, was carried by the bride for the afternoon festivities.

HER ATTENDANTS were all gowned in A-line empire dresses, the maid of honor in a gold shade and two bridesmaids in olive green. All carried bouquets of gold spider mums.

The bride's sister, Wendy Grove, was her maid of honor, and two Palatine friends, Karen Jarczyk and Pamela Mesha, were bridesmaids.

ALSO IN THE wedding party were the bride's brother, John Grove, and Keith Brown of Wheaton as ushers and Allen Houghland of Wheaton as best man.

The couple's wedding preceded their return to the campus of the University of Illinois. He is a senior there, and his bride has completed her freshman year after graduating from Palatine High School. They are making their home in Urbana. (S

While at the U. of I. their address is 103 E. Healy St.

A RECEPTION IN THE GARDEN of the Martin Loeber home, 2114 S. Meacham Road, followed the marriage of their daughter, Marilyn, to Melvin Thomas Berry Jr., son of the senior M. T. Berrys of 47 S. Ela Road. All are Palatine residents. The late summer wedding took place in Immanuel Lutheran Church, Palatine, and guests were then served dinner under a marquee in the Loebers' garden. The newlyweds went east for their honeymoon and are now living in Champaign while continuing their studies at the University of Illinois.

East Meets West at Pagel Zizlavsky Rites Sept. 11

Guests came from as far west as California and as far east as New Jersey to attend the Sept. 11 wedding of Miss Lynn Alice Pagel and Frank G. Zizlavsky. The wedding was held in Our Lady of Perpetual Help in Glenview where the altar was decorated with white mums and touches of blue and emerald green, picking up the emerald green and peacock blue of the attendants' gowns.

Among the guests was the bride's 91-year-old grandmother, Mrs. Olsen, who flew here from California especially for the wedding. Other guests from California included the groom's aunt, Mrs. J. Altbach. The eastern guest was Lou Barclay, a college friend of the groom.

THE BRIDE, escorted by her father, wore a gown of silk organza with empire bodice and A-line skirt with deep hemline encrusted with appliques of Alencon lace. The appliques were repeated in the chapel train. Her four-tiered elbow-length veil of silk illusion was held in place with a head wreath of stephanotis and she carried white butterfly orchids and stephanotis interwoven with ivy leaves.

The bride's sister, Virginia Lee Pagel, was maid of honor and bridesmaids were the groom's sister, Jeanne Zizlavsky, and Susan Stebbins Harrda of Chicago. Miss Pagel's gown was in emerald green iridescent peau de soie fashioned with empire waist and fringed back panel of peacock blue. The gowns of the bridesmaids' were in peacock with back panels of the emerald. The girls wore shoes and headpieces to match their gowns and carried white glamellias with edges tinted, also to match their gowns.

Walter Farrell, of Arlington Heights, an elementary school chum of the groom, served as best man and ushers were John Hackett and Thomas Pagel, brother of the bride, both of Park Ridge.

Planning Needed In Home Storage

Good home storage doesn't just happen. It takes thinking, planning and rearranging.

Among the basic principles found in good storage are: store things near point of first use, store items at convenient heights, store together things used together, store articles where easy to see, build to fit storage needs and keep storage flexible, and store items where easy to reach.

Each of these basic principles is described and illustrated in a publication of the College of Agriculture Extension Service of The Pennsylvania State University. For a copy send your name and address with 25 cents to STORAGE, Box 6000, University Park, Pa., 16802. (S

Fashion Show to Feature Designed from Old Town

Miss Cynthia Goyette, designer from Old Town, will present 35 of her creations in "Something Different," Elk Grove Junior Woman's Club's annual fashion show. Set for Saturday, Oct. 23, the benefit show will be held at the Ambassador West Hotel in Chicago. Social hour will begin at noon and luncheon will be served at 1 p.m.

Miss Goyette, who designs for the individual rather than the masses, will include in her selections, an evening gown made from an authentic Indian sari, leather pants and a mink sweater.

Eight professional models from her Gallimaufry Shop, 206 W. North, will model. Miss Goyette says her shop is patterned after her favorite shop in Paris, where individuality is highlighted.

THE FEATURED designer has created many ensembles for performers, including Mary of the Peter, Paul and Mary team, Odetta and many of the Gate of Horn entertainers. She has presented fashion showings for Second City and the Women's Club of the University of Chicago.

A designing career began for Miss Goyette when she won first prize in a fashion-design contest in her sophomore year in high school. She earned scholarships to both Massachusetts College of Art and Museum School in Boston. She hoped to realize her dream and to design for individual persons rather than on a large scale, but became very discouraged as a teen design-buyer, and turned to sculpture and design at the Art Institute.

The picture was changed after a year of study at Bozart School in Paris and many visits to her favorite shop. "The fires within the heart were once again stirred," commented Miss Goyette, who then came to Chicago and enthusiastically began designing for outstanding professional persons. Shortly thereafter she realized enough capital to open her own shop.

TICKETS MAY BE obtained for the fashion show until Oct. 18. Table reservations and further information may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Donald Haley, 437-0541.

Proceeds of the benefit will go to Alexian Brothers Hospital, Elk Grove Village Public Library, Park and Recreation Board and Northwest Mental Health Clinic. (SSD

Here's Short Course in Buying Right-Size Bedding

Aren't all beds people size since people sleep in them?

That's true as far as it goes. But people have changed. They've simply gotten bigger. The average height of men reached 5'10" this year, up from an average of about 5'8" during World War II, according to the National Association of Bedding Manufacturers. Increases in weight and body dimensions of both men and women have more than kept up with the growth in stature.

People's attitudes have changed too. The compact car is declining in popularity and the standard-size car is on the upswing. People are demanding bigger bedrooms in new houses.

Yes, people have changed but their bedding hasn't. Untold millions of married couples battle nightly for sleeping space in the so-called "double" bed that gives them only the same space they had in their cribs. And millions more average height Americans have their toes cramped by the too short standard length of 75 inches.

What, then, is people-size bedding in 1965?

It's 39 inches of width per sleeper and a length 9 inches longer than he is.

What bedding arrangement gives this for one sleeper?

A regular twin bed if he's not over 5'6". If he is, a long twin —80 or 84 inches—should be selected to give 9 inches of toe room.

What arrangement gives people-size sleeping for two?

You start with a king-size headboard to which you attach two steel swing-away frames. On these you put two twin box springs. Now you have a choice. To go over the box springs you can buy either a 77"x80" (or 84") king-size innerspring mattress or two twin-size innerspring mattresses (80" or 84" lengths). If you live on the West Coast, you may choose the 72"x84" California king.

How big a room do I need to go king size?

Anything 12'x14' (if windows and doors are reasonably well arranged) or bigger will do fine.

What's my choice if my room is smaller?

Don't despair. A 60"x80" queen-size bed will give you 5 square feet more space and it will fit in any room holding an old "double" bed. Your dealer can show you how your present "double" bedstead can be arranged to accommodate queen size.

Do I need new bedroom furniture to go people size?

Not necessarily. To go king size all you really need is a king-size headboard. This can give a lift to your whole room since it's the smart thing for the headboard not to match the furniture now.

What are my choices in headboards?

Traditional wood still predominates, but brass-plated or enameled steel is gaining. A good choice is an inexpensive plastic-upholstered headboard which you can cover to match your drapes or bedspread.

Will long mattresses fit my twin beds?

Yes. Extenders will let you use the 80- and 84-inch innerspring mattresses.

What should I look for in new people-size bedding?

Any bedding is only as good as the support it provides. Ideally, the body should be supported so that the spine is always perfectly aligned. Since your hips and shoulders are the heaviest parts of your body, good bedding compensates with buoyancy and body conformability which keeps the spine straight. Only the coiled springs of an innerspring mattress can provide this kind of support.

Will I have to replace all bedcoverings?

Not necessarily. Except for fitted sheets, "double" bed coverings are usable on both twin and queen sizes. Twin-size coverings can be used on long twins.

What about king-size bedcoverings?

These were once a problem, both in availability and price. Now nearly every good-sized store stocks king size, and the price is only double that of twin size. King-size sheets and pillow cases come in colors and patterns.

What size sheets do I need for people-size beds?

Fitted sheets are ordered to same size as the mattress. If you're not sure, measure your mattress.

What pillows do I need for a king-size bed?

The king size, about 36 inches long, comes in the traditional shape and the bolster type with rounded corners.

What about people-size mattress covers and pads?

These are readily available at reasonable prices.

What about people-size blankets?

You have a choice of regular and automatic blankets. The electric blankets usually have dual controls so that he can sleep warm and she can sleep warmer. The new thermal blankets—they look like mesh and are often made of cotton—also come in people sizes.

What sizes in regular blankets are needed?

What about people-size bedspreads?

No longer do these have to be custom made at custom prices. You can buy them in stores in a wide choice of fabrics and colors. If you use twin-size mattresses with a king-size headboard, you can use two twin-size spreads or cover both with a king-size one.

What size bedspreads do people-size beds need?

Long twin 82"x115"; queen 105"x120"; king 120"x120".

Why are the box springs important?

The box springs are paired in construction features with the innerspring mattress. They are important because they are the foundation that supports the mattress which supports you. A cautionary word: never try to economize by using old box springs with a new mattress.

How much should I spend for people-size bedding?

Considering that you spend about one-third of your life on it, and that it lasts many years, even the most expensive bedding is a bargain. Like almost everything else, the quality of mattresses and box springs is commensurate with price. Buy the best you can afford. The most expensive bedding you can buy will cost you only a penny or so more per night over its useful life than the cheapest kind. And you'll enjoy the benefit of top-quality bedding through the years.

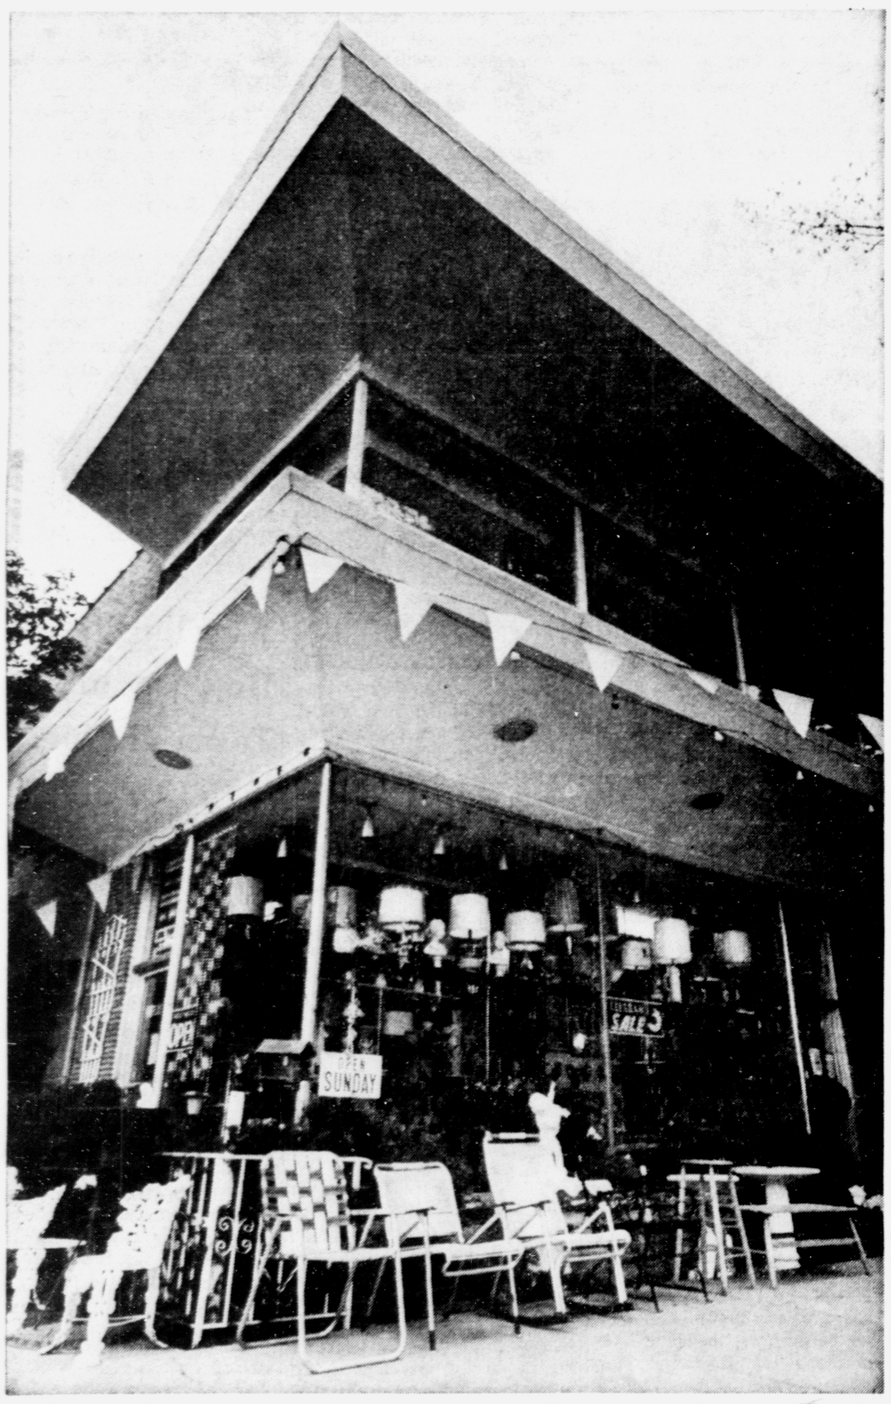
For Unusual Items: Northwest Metalcraft



THIS SHOT OF Northwest Metalcraft Building, 412 S. State Road, Arlington Heights, shows the expansion program in progress. A new second floor is nearly completed at the firm which has been selling wrought iron railings, columns, furniture, and imported gifts, to northwest suburbanites for the past 10 years. (Staff photo

Where do you go to purchase unusual items, such as custom made fireplace screens? Wrought iron railings and columns?

Or unusual gifts from throughout the world? Or casual furniture for living rooms, dens, patios, porches, basement recreation rooms, etc?

Northwest suburban residents have been purchasing these items the past 10 years from Irene and Ed Mayer at Northwest Metalcraft, 413 S. State Road, Arlington Heights.

Before that time, John Mayer, Ed's father, fabricated and sold wrought iron columns and railings, in a room off his home behind the present 10-year-old store.

THE FIRM handles rattan furniture, redwood, wrought iron and "a very new type of furnishing in the Witco Furniture," Mrs. Mayer said.

She explained, "It is sort of a heavy, sandblasted wood. Something very different in modern, Spanish and Polynesian decor."

Some of the brands available at the shop are Metalcraft, Woodard Furniture, Clark Casual in rattan, Arlington House Furnituer, Vandycraft, and Ames Aire Corded Furniture.

"Also," said Mrs. Mayer, "there is our very large fireplace department with a complete line of accessories for the fireplace including custom made screens. And, we install Glass Fyre screns."

OPEN SEVEN days a week, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily, and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday, the firm also handles bars and bar stools.

The Mayers have three children, Joanne, 17; Don, 14, and Daniel, 7. (SS

These Kitchens Combine Craftsmanship, Efficiency

Old world craftsmanship . . . new world efficiency. This ideal combination is the keynote in the success of Quaker Maid Kitchens, whose home is in the heart of the Pennsylvania Dutch Country.

The pride of fine workmanship fortunately still exists having been handed down through generations from father to son. Adding to this skill the finest manufacturing equipment, pressurized finishing rooms and their own huge padded furniture vans for delivery adds to the Century efficiency and combines to produce the finest in kitchen cabintry.

Key Plumbing and Kitchens is the local istributor for Quaker Maid Kitchens whose factory trains designers and installers. An idea of what Quaker Maid Kitchens look like may be seen at Key Plumbing and Kitchens' show room. You will note the attention to details, both in construction and decor, which make Quaker Maid Kitchens so attractive to both the husband and wife.

SURPRISINGLY enough, while the quality is superb, the price is sensible. This results from the manufacturer avoiding any unnecessary expenses such as shipping damages, errors in planning or defects in materials.

Arthur Wenger, president of Quaker Maid Kitchens, recently complemented Edward Keegan of Key Plumbing and Kitchens for the fine kitchens he has been installing, as well as for having one of the best, if not one of the biggest, displays of Quaker Maid Kitchens.

Keegan extends his personal invitation to stop in at Key Plumbing and Kitchens, 1620 W. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights, and browse at your leisure. (SS

Combination Washer-Dryer Helps Lick Space Problems

Consider the combination if you have a space problem!

It measures 27 to 36 inches as compared with at least 54 inches for separate appliances. For apartment dwellers this often makes the difference between having a private washer-dryer or not. For the woman with more space a combo may allow installation in the place of primary convenience.

Consider the combination if you're a career woman!

You may be able to install it in your apartment.

This may mean that instead of coming home at night and busying yourself for 30 minutes while the washer works, then running down to the basement and transferring clothes to the dryer, then running down again to pick them up—well, instead of all this, you can just put clothes in before you leave for work and take them out whenever you get home.

CONSIDER THE combination if you're in the habit of laundering heavy articles—such as slip covers, blankets, scatter rugs, chenille spreads — for transferring these from washer to dryer is still a heavy task.

Consider the combination if you're a senior citizen—or just feel like one from the strain of other responsibilities.

Once clothes have gone into the combination the detergent added, and the dials set according to size and type of the load, the automatic operation sends the laundry through the washing and drying cycles without further attention.

Consider the combination if you like to do your laundering whenever a load accumulates without its interfering with your other activities.

CONSIDER THE combination if installation of a second laundry area on a floor other than that of your present laundry will save you steps and time every week of the year. This may be in an upstairs closet or bathroom; or it may be in the library, carport, den, family or utility room.

Consider the combination if you're a working mother! The combination will work at home while you work elsewhere.

And, if you're pregnant, remember — the combination is considerate of you. (SS

Protein Booster

Vary your favorite macaroni and cheese dinner by adding some shredded dried beef to it Not only will this be colorful but it's a protein booster as well.

Other foods which may also be added to this old - favorite casserole include Vienna-style sausage, chopped green pepper or pimiento or chopped ripe olives.

WHAT A COMBINATION! Only 29 inches wide, this washer-gas dryer offers six automatic washing-drying programs and has a built-in water heater.

THERE'S A DECIDED Spanish influence in this attractive laundry center that has been created in a hallway next to the dining-kitchen area. This can be worked out when remodeling an old house or designing a new one. A see-through wall of stamped Masonite makes an unusual and inexpensive room divider with the Moorish arches adding a decorative note. The new Custom V-14 Filter-Flo washer and High Speed Dryer by General Electric fit perfectly in this niche, flanked by a handly clothes hamper on one side and a cabinet for clean clothing, laundry soaps and detergents on the other. Here, too, there's ample counter space for sorting or folding clothes. Available at Landwehr TV.

COLOR IS BECOMING more and more important every day in home furnishings and one of the most interesting examples of this is the new American Foliage collection of colors introduced into the Ethan Allen American Traditional line. Heavily distressed and antiqued, these beautiful finishes come in Blue Spruce, Autumn Gold, Sugarbush Red, Holly Green, Pine Cone and the natural Pine color (Old Tavern) . . . exquisitely applied to crafted rustic Pine. Classic Elegance Inspires Designers

The classic elegance and formality of Empire, Regency, Directoire and Biedermeier designs are the inspiration for Drexel's new Consulate collection on display at Schneller Furniture, 32 S. Evergreen, Arlington Heights.

Adapted and interpreted from styles that were the strong design influences of early 19th Century Europe at the time Napoleon became First Consul of France, this group will have strong appeal for the decorator-minded homemaker seeking furniture with an air of quiet elegance and sophistication for her home.

Designed by the well-known father-son team, Henry and David Warren, the collection for living room, dining room and bedroom, captures the best of the original designs. Fashioned in handsome cherry veneers and solids, the finish in a warm fruitwood has the patina of old French cherry found in imports and antiques. Accent pieces in Venetian Red, Empire Black and Antique Gold add distinction and a decorator look.

FROM THE Regency period are a group of tables and an etagere with bamboo legs and cane shelves, a tier and party table with tripod bases, a beautiful occasional arm chair with cane back slightly curved at top with pierced panel . . . a gem for any home in the Empire Black finish touched with gold.

The classic inspiration of Greek and Roman design of the Empire period inspired a magnificent sleigh or boat bed with scrolled ends framed in cane. An escritoire, with posts in black, has a drop front, and inside offers an abundance of small drawers, pigeon holes, and can be used in bedroom, library or living room.

An afternoon table for tea, cards, or many other uses has a pedestal base and is paired with delicately scaled chairs with tufted seats . . . bookcases in a classic architectural design function together, add color to a room and accent accessories used on shelves with its interior in Venetian Red.

THE FINEST OF yesterday's design motifs used in Consulate are combined with well-planned storage, function, interior lighting in china cabinets, handsome hardware and finishes that take wear.

Subtle marquetry, veneer overlays, fine marble, finely chased hardware in anthemions (floral leaf ornamentation), rosettes and star-studded friezes of classic heritage are just a few of the important details of this group.

In Draperies

Renaissance for Traditional Mood

Orin Wellborn of Lisa's Draperies, 17 E. Miner, Arlington Heights reports that, while the Mediterranean look may still be number one on the fashion scene, traditional styles are definitely number two. . . and should be number one before long.

The formal elegance of the traditional look has always been longing for high-fashion luxury is being reawakened by such tastemakers as the Parisian couturiers and Jacqueline Kennedy. Her renovation of the White House made the housewife again aware of the rich elegance of early American furnishings. longing for high-fashionluxu ry

Today's housewife likes the distinction that formal elegance gives.

THE TRADITIONAL look encompasses the formality of Italian Renaissance cut velvet in deep tones, the 18th century French damask in shimmering pales as well as the abundant floral bouquets of 19th century England and Colonial America.

Jacquards are everywhere, not in the heavy, woven fabrics but in satiny blends. In draperies the emphasis is on a combination of overdraperies in a solid color or subdued floral pattern with underdraperies of sheer or silken appearance. Deep valances create the luxuriant traditional look as do woven or printed borders and tassel fringe.

The total effect is of richness, comfort and repose. Traditional designs are good to live with and are adaptable, which is why they have lasted so long. (SS

PACESETTER among the company's array of 12-, 16-, 19- and 21-inch size portables is the Royal 1290 that offers the largest screen size of any battery-powered portable TV receiver. It introduces a new Zenith-developed 12-inch Sunshine picture tube and uses a battery pack that slips onto the bottom of the cabinet to become an integral part of the receiver when in use. The set also operates from the 12 volt DC electrical system of a boat or an automobile at picnics; or on 120-volt AC current available at dockside or throughout the home.

A completely new group of four portables, including one with Zenith's Space Command remote control for VHF channels, is the Award series of 21-inch receivers.

Also highlighted in the line are two 12-inch personal size portables.

THE PORTABLE sets are available in new smooth finishes or covered with colored vinyls. Colors range from white and neutral colors such as beige, sand and light brown to gray and a gleaming ebony color. Come have a cabinet clad in colors of grained fruitwood, walnut, or blond walnut that combine the "look of wood" with the durability of modern plastics.

In 23-inch table models, Zenith has five new receivers—the Winslow, Armitage, Barlow, Cameron and Fulton. Four are equipped with a dipole antenna.

In consoles and combinations, furniture stylings include Early American, Transitional, French Provincial, Italian Provincial, Danish Modern and Contemporary. Cabinets come in veneers of walnut, cherry, maple or mahogany combined with select hardwood solids.

Nine basic models throughout the entire Zenith monochrome TV line—including certain portable, table model, and console sets—offer the added advantage of the company's Space Command remote control system. (SS

Be Daring When You Decorate

A lot of people break out in a cold sweat when it comes to selecting wallpaper, so they end up with a drab, uninteresting selection. That's wrong, according to Mary Davis Gillies, Senior Editor of McCall's, and author of a recent book entitled, "How to Decorate with Wallpaper."

"Select a paper," she says, "that gives you a thrill. Life has changed, living is easier, breezier. Don't be timid or namby-pamby in your choice. Select a wallpaper pattern that will work for you."

SHE ADVISES that you can make a small room seem larger by using light colors and widely spaced motif. To make a large room more intimate, use dark colors, and bold overall patterns. For a cheerful room favor yellow, orange and red. For a cool serene air turn to blues, greens and violets.

The wallpaper you select sets the entire mood of a room making it formal or informal, quaint or daring, whimsical or conservative, elegant or sophisticated. The wallpaper guides and controls a decorating plan.

Copies of Mrs. Gillies' Cook mentioned above is available at many local wallpaper dealers.

Countess Inspires Sterling Pattern

Young brides and hostesses with a taste for renaissance splendor in their homes are enthusiastic about a new sterling pattern from Towle silversmiths inspired by a renaissance countess.

The new pattern, now being featured at Persin and Robbin Jewelers, Dunton Ct., Arlington Heights, is appropriately named Contessina.

As the name suggests, Contessina has a definite Italian touch. In fact, it was inspired by the beautiful young countess who captured Michelangelo's heart when they met in the Medici gardens.

BY COMBINING AN exquisitely sculptured floral pattern with almost starkly classical lines, the Towle designer has eloquently caught the timeless beauty of a renaissance garden.

For this reason, Contessina is elegantly appropriate for both formal and informal occasions.

Although true sterling, this new pattern is so superbly balanced that it gives a feeling of lightness in keeping with the design.

Persin and Robbin also stocks a complete assortment of serving pieces in Contessina.

Wallpaper Sparks Decorative Rooms

A well-publicized line — "It takes wallpaper to bring a room to life" — is more often true than not. Colorful wallpaper patterns give rooms an uplift and a decorative touch.

Since walls are the first area of a room that meets the eye upon entering, they are naturally a good starting point in any fall redecorating plan. Some very basic rule-of-thumb decorating principles can give the home decorator the help she needs when selecting wallpapers.

TO FRESHEN WALL areas, add color and easy maintenance, consider some of the choices in narrow or wide stripes, in either two color, milti-colors or tone-on-tone. These can be found in flocks, in plastic-coated papers for washability, in factory trimmed and pasted papers as well as untrimmed and untreated papers.

If the room already has considerable pattern and color, take a look at the grass cloths, tweeds and shiki silks; however, don't rule out a colorful wallpaper to add vista and spaciousness.

In the same category as murals are individual panels featuring archways, lavabos, topiary trees and trompe l'oeil patterns that can be an excellent solution to a room with broken wall areas.

ALMOST ALL OF these papers come with a coordinated background paper in either a texture or a marbelized pattern for the balance of the room.

For starting an entirely new color scheme in a room, there are many lovely patterns to go with both modern and traditional furnishings. Many are available with matching fabrics for slipcovers and draperies.

Today's Furniture Going Soft, Subtle

Contemporary furniture these days has taken on new directions. Whereas modern was once strictly functional with square lines and tight seating, and often reflecting a sameness of design from group to group, it has now arrived at an age of refinement. "Contemporary furniture is more human," says Arthur E. Petersen Jr., of The Designer's Shop, Arlington Heights. "The new 'emotional' modern is extremely comfortable and frequently extremely elegant."

A dramatic illustration of one of the many directions modern is taking can be demonstrated with the elegant new collection, called Patterns Fourteen, designed by Dave Parmelee for Founders Furniture.

Strongly architectural in concept, the collection is crafted of aged appalachian oak in two finishes, a dark hand-rubbed one called "Vintage" and "Desert," scrubbed and pale with a close-to-the wood look. Within the group, which includes occasional, dining room and bedroom furniture and architectural components, is an enormous variety of design yet all controlled by a total unified concept.

HEAVY "CHOPPING block" tables, for example, contrast with crisp designs with light frames supporting shelves of cane and glass. Versatility as well as beauty characterize all the pieces. A hutch placed on a six-drawer deck is ideal for clothing in the bedroom but is just as well suited for china and linens in the dining room.

Design accents found in the group are touches of cane, parquet patterns, oxidized brasses, burnt umber and exciting lacquer colors.

Even Scandinavian modern is displaying new directions. The current American predilection for plush, deep seated comfort can be observed in new offerings by Dux, Incorporated, manufacturer of Swedish furniture. Upholstering incorporates thicker foam rubber and the addition of dacron to the backs. Seating units look plumper and provide a touch of old fashioned sink-down comfort.

A new sofa, for instance, has plump loose cushions and soft padded, rolled arms. The sculptured look and obvious craftsmanship that are so much a part of quality Scandinavian furniture is seen in the cradle base of solid walnut or teak.

IN CONTRAST TO plush modern is sleek modern — contemporary furniture which is slim and almost aerial in appearance. An example of this "direction" is a pair of lounge chairs, Swedish imports by Scandiline Furniture. As the names of the chairs indicate — Antelope and Gazelle — the designs are graceful with soft curves and slim frames (teak, and in the case of Gazelle, also walnut.)

Unusual thin look of the chairs is also achieved by the ingenious sling seat and back with separate loose seat cushion. Slings are made of reverse calf leather, which has a suede look and feel but is also a weightier type of leather and thus self supporting. A clever system of dowels and straps complete the method of support.

All of this furniture is on view at The Designer's Shop which is currently featuring recently arrived imports as well as new merchandise purchased at the recent summer furniture markets. (SS

THAT CONTEMPORARY furniture has reached an age of refinement is expressed in a new collection called Patterns Fourteen by Founders Furniture. The group features an interplay of modern architectural forms and the mellowness of aged Appalachian oak in a light and a dark finish. Group has many accent pieces such as the octagonal table with glass top and cane shelf shown. (SS

CLARK CASUAL RATTAN is perfectly suited for casual living. Colorful and comfortable pieces can be used for family rooms, rec rooms and porches or as accent pieces with more formal furniture. Available at Northwest Metalcraft, Arlington Heights.

Use of Carpeting Spreads—Even to Schools

Carpet is no longer an exclusive furnishing for homes, hotels, clubs and restaurants.

Throughout the country, carpet is being installed in every type of institution and commercial establishment from hospitals to auto showrooms to schools.

The technological advances in carpet manufacture, and the changes in uses of space within schools has created a greater awareness by school boards and their architects of the practicality of carpets in schools.

The new Elk Grove High School, to be opened in early 1966, is one of many public schools across the country installing carpet in all or part of the facility.

According to John Janszen of Arlington Furniture Co., Arlington Heights, the new Elk Grove school will have the entire library complex area carpeted. This will include the library, librarian's office, and adjacent classrooms.

THE SCHOOL officials have chosen Ozite Town 'n' Terrace Outdoor-Indoor carpet for the school because it is hard wearing.

This Ozite carpet is made of 100 per cent polypropylene olefin fiber that resists stains and spots, doesn''t rot or mildew nor absorb moisture. The carpet does not lose its color and it will not shrink.

Installation of this carpet in schools is possible due to the unique manufacturing method which enables the use of staple fiber of higher tensile strength than is normally used in regular carpeting.

There are special stabilizing chemicals used in the solution-dyed fiber enabling the fiber to resist ultra-violet rays. This stabilizing permits Ozite to guarantee the carpet to withstand a 500-hour fadeometer test without discoloration.

CONSTANT FOOT traffic from students will not affect the carpet since Ozite's fiber has a built-in durability not found in other carpets of man-made fibers. The dye used is introduced and chemically stabilized before the fiber is extruded. Thus the fiber resists virtually all external elements once it has undergone its process of production.

In actual installation in a school, the carpet provides for better acoustics and easier and more economical maintenance. Maintenance for this soft floor is easier and more economical than other floorings.

Normal vacuuming and carpet sweeping are sufficient for daily care. Food and drink spills can be picked up with a paper towel or sponge and most spots can be removed with a solution of water and synthetic detergent and then blotted with a damp rag and sponge and clear water.

Ozite Outdoor-Indoor carpet is not restricted to use in under-roof installations: it is used for patios, porches, swimming pool aprons, boat decks, boat docks, sidewalks and other under-the-sky areas. (SS

MOTEL ROOM FLOORS that need the durability of hard surface but require the appearance and comfort of a soft surface now can have both with Ozite Town 'n' Terrace carpet. This outdoor-indoor carpet made of polypropylene olefin fiber retains its shape and color day after day. It won't shrink, rot or mildew. It resists spots, stains and fading—since the color is locked in—giving a hard-wearing, luxurious looking floor anywhere, outdoors or indoors.

How to Make All Laundry Days Sunny

To care for the complexities in your laundry hamper — with its variety of fabrics and finishes and the degrees and types of soils your family picks up—takes science. To care for the fabulous new fabrics properly, it is necessary to apply various sciences and to develop skill in problem solving. Fortunately for the American homemaker the manufacturers of home laundry appliances have built the science and problem-solving ability right into their new automatic washers and dryers.

It is to bring home to more homemakers the wonders of modern home laundering that during October manufacturers, retailers, utilities, trade associations and U.S. Steel are joining in a Waltz Through Washday promotion.

WHILE HOME laundering is one of the most demanding tasks in time and effort, only about 23 per cent of homes are equipped to handle it by modern standards. These standards require an automatic washer and dryer. About 40 per cent of our homes have automatic washers, but only about 23 per cent have clothes dryers.

Years ago there was only one kind of washable clothes and only one way to wash them—the scrubbing board and the wash boiler. And only one way to dry them — out in the fading sun or freezing cold, or in a drippy mess indoors when it rained.

While a few women are satisfied with a washer that will get the dirt out of the family clothes with a minimum of labor, surveys show that most homemakers now want appliances that will deliver clothes that need a minimum of further processing, such as ironing. and at the same time preserve the special qualities the clothes had when new. This means a modern automatic washer and a dryer.

YOU CAN SHOP for your new home laundry appliances at the stores of merchants advertising in these pages with confidence. You have never before gotten more for your money in durability and reliability. Over a period of four years, service calls during the appliances' first year in service went down about 66 per cent for washers and 50 per cent for dryers.

Electric Dryer Real Necessity

If you can't count up to two on wash day, you are letting yourself in for a lot of back-breaking labor, the Live Better Electrically Program of Edison Electric Insitute cautions. Drying clothes is as much a part of the wash day chore as washing them — yet too many women still cling to their clothes lines and the formidable task of "hanging out the wash." Your total electric washer can save you half the work of wash day but an electric clothes dryer added to it can completely eliminate household laundering chores.

The beauty of drying electrically is that it eliminates the hazards and the labor attached to drying clothes the old fashioned way. The weather inside your automatic electric clothes dryer is always perfect and flexible to suit the type of fabric you want dried.

WITH A FLAMELESS electric clothes dryer you can do much more than merely care for the family wash. For instance you can dry Junior's play clothes or snow suit, fluff a pillow or take moisture out of clothes you have dampened too much and want to iron.

An Ohio State University study found that an automatic clothes dryer could save three hours each week in the average household schedule. It takes 28 times as long to hang up an eight pound load of clothes than it does to simply transfer them from your washer to your dryer. It also takes ten times more energy to hang a load of clothes than it does to put them into a clothes dryer.

Good laundering methods come in twos. So for waltzing through wash day make sure you know the two step that will get the job done — wash and dry electrically.

Let's Take a Look at Contemporary Tables

Is the selecting of tables for your home a trial and tribulation? It shouldn't be because there are so many shapes, sizes and functions performed by the many well designed contemporary tables being offered today.

From the small snack and stack tables to the large storage cocktail tables, and from dinettes to large dining varieties with leaves, there's a table for every need and design taste.

A wide selection of contemporary tables, both American productions and newly arrived Scandinavian imports, can be seen at The Designer's Shop in Arlington Heights.

FOR SMALL homes or apartments, consider the tables that do double or triple duty. There are those on casters for guest snacking or, with cushions added, for extra seats. Or end tables with "hidden" smaller tables that pull out when needed. . . or versatile play boxes by Raymor with colorful decorative designs. And there are delightful Danish stacking designs, some with drop leaf ends that snap in place to hold a dinner tray.

For those rooms that call for large decorative pieces, there are many "important" contemporary tables to choose from, too. Patterns Fourteen, a new collection by Founders Furniture in two elegant shades of Appalachian oak, offer two dramatic examples of the "conversation piece" type of occasional table.

A 42-by-30 inch library table contains drawers and cabinet storage on one side and two open shelves for magazines and books on the other. It rests on a base which has hidden casters for convenient mobility. The other is a 42-inch octagonal cocktail table with glass top and a cane shelf which displays magazines and valued accessories yet keeps them out of the way.

IF YOUR PROBLEM is finding the right dining table, contemporary designs in oval, round and rectangular shapes are available which unfold to seat a dinner party, then fold up compactly, or come with extra leaves and thereby solve limited space restrictions. Designed for the small home or apartment without a dining room is an ingenious cocktail-diner by Lawrence Peabody for Richardson Nemschoff.

A versatile table which can be used in six different ways, its very special feature is an elevator mechanism that gives it two additional heights for dining, serving or party games. Thus depending on height and whether fliptop is opened or closed, this hostess' "darling" can function as a buffet, compact bar for home entertaining, for use for casual continental height dining in the living room, or for more formal dining in the dining area. (SS

Kitchen ceiling too high? Wall areas broken by beams and soffits? It's time to remodel!

If the family budget doesn't call for a major remodeling job just now, there still is a solution. Try remodeling tricks with wallpaper.

The many new border patterns now available in wallpapers are designed just for such problems areas, in the kitchen or elsewhere. To meet all decorative needs, there are border patterns of various depths, from two-inch widths to use as moldings or trim to as deep as 18 to 20 inches.

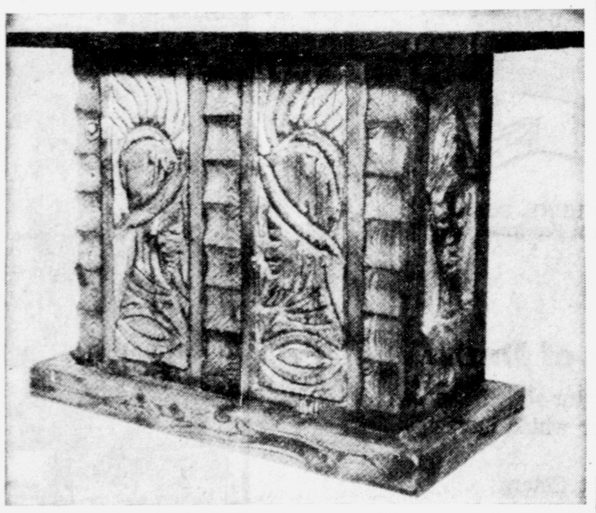
TWO-INCH MOLDINGS are available in four-yard rolls, prepasted for easy handling and immediate use. Other patterns, up to 20 inches in depth, are particularly useful in modernizing the out-dated kitchen, or the kitchen with too high a ceiling.

Several of the deeper patterns are ideal for disguising and dressing up broken wall areas. One manufacturer has just presented a collection of 51 different wallpaper borders, plasticized for greater washability and pre-pasted for easy handling.

These borders range from eight to 18 inches deep and each pattern is designed so that it can be trimmed to fit specific areas.

Still another group of borders highlights bright primary colors, as well as black and white. These have been specially designed to contrast with a ticking stripe for walls.

New papers for kitchens feature such design themes as potted plants, fruits, vegetables, copper pots, antiques, bottles, mugs or herbs.



THIS HAND CARVED five foot bar with poppy red accent fits in with the popular Spanish styles. This piece is sculptured from a special red cedar and the surface burnt and waxed to complement the grain of the wood. Bar stools, benches, lamps, cocktail tables and other furniture are available in most unusual carved finishes. From Northwest Metalcraft, Arlington Heights.

You, Too, Can Become an Expert Homemaker

No matter how you look at it, being a homemaker is a career one must learn. It may be be trial and error or applied study, for full time or part time practice, but the goal is the same. You want to be a successful homemaker!

Since "learn" you must, it's easier and less costly to do so by spending some time on the subject. The first rule is a classic answer to every problem or project and a guidepost for all brides old and new—be prepared.

Happy is the bride the sun shines on any day — true enough. Unfortunately, the bride-to-be doesn't become an expert overnight on everything she'll need to set up housekeeping. "Something old and something new . . . something borrowed and something blue" isn't quite enough to decorate the living room, or outfit the kitchen cupboards and the linen closet. And the happy bride may find herself a confused and disorganized first-year homemaker unless she does some practical planning ahead.

THAT WORD "practical" is the key. Along with another word, "pretty," it makes two criteria that will carry you through almost any decision.

There's no getting around it — if the new bride knows what she wants, everything will be coming up "special" for her and the man of the house. New products and designs in the home furnishings field offer a wide variety of choices that enable newly weds to decorate the first home exactly to taste.

Furniture shopping is one thing you and he want to do together. But, remember, decorators aren't born. They're made — by reading as much as possible on the subject.

You can select your furniture from the four major classifications: Traditional (or re-productions of actual court furniture), Provincial, Early American and Contemporary. Choice of woods is determined by the atmosphere you want to create.

THERE IS ONE purchase you must make which no one can direct. It's the way you want to sleep. The arrangement must be your personal choice, but there are valuable tips that can help toward making the best possible decisions.

The first decision must be whether our want to sleep in a king-size bed, twin beds hinged to a king-sized headboard, or separated twin beds. Each of these arrangements gives each sleeper the minimum of 39 inches of width necessary for restful sleep. The one thing to avoid is the outmoded "double" bed that gives each sleeper only 27 inches of space — exactly the amount he had in his crib.

As well as being too narrow for two sleepers, the old "double" bed is too short for anyone over 5'6". King-size and long-twin beds come in 80- and 84-inch lengths to solve this problem. Select a length that is at least 9 inches longer than the taller sleeper.

You need to select mattresses and box springs for the beds you have picked out. The degree of firmness must be your personal choice. Test different firmnesses by reclining on each mattress for a moment or two. There is no substitute for this action to determine which gives you the most comfort.

WHEN ONE considers the fact that 3,000 hours of each year are spent in bed, there can be no question as to the importance of this purchase. Buy your sleep equipment from a store in which you have confidence. Your salesman will help you analyze your individual needs [illegible] for these qualities which should be present.

[illegible]ance — Ticking should look and feel good, and the workmanship should be neat.

Construction — Ask to see a cross section of the mattress to check its inner construction. Look for prebuilt or reinforced borders to prevent sagging. Some quality mattresses are bordered with steel spring wire.

Accessories — Handles should be strong for easy mattress turning.

Ventilators are necessary to air the inside of the mattress.

A last word on bedding, to remember for all time: never put a new mattress on old box springs. The proper benefit cannot be realized unless new box springs match the mattress in construction and quality. (SS

DAZZLING DRAMATIC effect of this area rug by Cabin Crafts takes any room out of the ordinary. Called "Brave New World," the rug is custom made, available in any size and color combinations can be selected from the basic color palette of 33 yarns. Offered at The Designer's Shop, it is part of the store's special custom carpeting service.

Match Colors with Custom Carpeting

Looking for carpeting that will match exactly what you saw in the window or which will pick up precisely the colors in your new living room draperies? The answer — Custom carpeting. Is it expensive? you ask. No, not necessarily.

Custom carpeting is a featured service of the newly remodeled carpet section of The Designer's Shop in Arlington Heights. By choosing from one of four lines, offering a variety of texture and fiber content, the homemaker can select carpeting for one room or her entire home in any color she desires and cut to exact "L," "T" and "U" shapes.

This method of cutting to specifications can save on waste yardage, a savings, for example, which is passed on down to the customer. Once the color and type of carpet is selected, the store's procedure is to send a measureman from a professional carpet service to the home to measure and verify the yardage. An installed price is then quoted.

IN ADDITION TO this custom service, the store's carpet section displays hundreds of stock color samples to aid the homemaker in her selection. All arrangements of carpet samples are by color with as many as 60 variations of white shown, for example.

In the newly remodeled section, a wide choice of accent and area rugs are on display, shown on swing-out arms for ease of viewing.

Many colorful new designs in area rugs reflect such current trends as the emphasis on abstract and "op art," also the influence of the Scandinavian rya rug with its luxurious pile and multi-colored effects. Only top lines are carried at the store in both carpeting and area rugs, including Berven, Cabin Crafts, Callaway, Mohawk and Custom Floor Covering Mills.

One Man's Bed Is Same Man's Sofa

Not in beds alone does modern man sleep. In countless millions he takes his nightly repose on the same piece of furniture he sits on during the day. While these sleek dual-purpose sleep pieces obviously descended from the daybeds of our fathers' time, they bear little resemblance to the crude oldtimers in styling, luxury and comfort.

Modern dual sleep equipment has solved the problem of the guest room. The trend in building now is to eliminate the occasionally-used guest room and put the space saved into larger, more livable bedrooms for the family.

When there is a guest room, dual sleep equipment allows regular use of the space as a study or sewing room. The dual-purpose piece transforms smoothly into a comfortable bed for overnight guests.

JUST ABOUT any upholstered piece of living room furniture may convert into a bed. Sofas transform into beds for two sleepers. Some of them offer the luxury of king size. Chairs and hassocks turn into single beds.

Old-time dual sleep equipment came in one style—bulky. Now convertible sofas come in all styles, and the best - quality pieces are indistinguishable from a regular sofa.

According to the National Cotton Council, most convertible beds are made of cotton and innerspring construction to allow air to circulate freely. Upholstery fabrics stay firmly in place on cotton cushioning, eliminating any ill-fitting look of fabrics after the bed is converted back to a sofa.

Added Rooms

Don't forget to make plans for heating when you decide to expand the living space in your house, advises the Chicago Better Heating-Cooling Council. Nine out of ten remodeling jobs will require some type of heat.

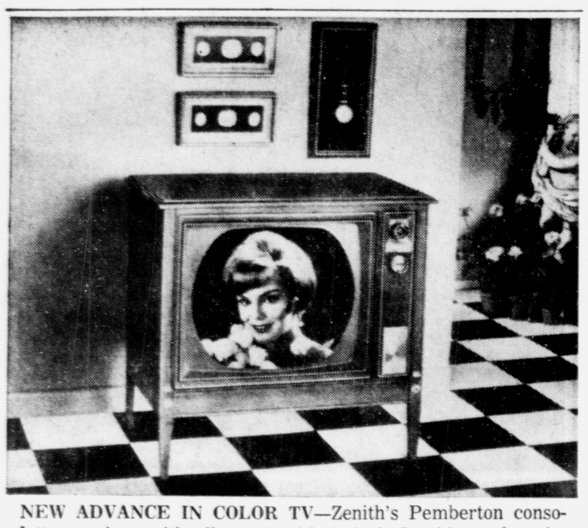
Thin 'n' Trim—That's Television's New Shape



NEW ADVANCE IN COLOR TV—Zenith's Pemberton consolette receiver with all-new Zenith 21-inch Sunshine color picture tube with unique Europium activated rare earth phosphor. Bonded, non-reflective Cinelens picture glass. For outstanding bright, clear pictures and lustrous colors even under daylight viewing conditions. 25,000 volts of picture power. Also, Zenith's handcrafted color TV chassis, Super Gold Video Guard 82-channel tuning system. 5" x 3" twin-cone speaker. Tone control. VHF spotlite dial. Choice of Contemporary or Italian Provincial cabinet stylings. From Landwehr TV, Arlington Heights.

The new shape in color television receivers—thin, trim cabinets made possible by the rectangular picture tube—is offered in a broad selection of fine furniture styles and finishes in Motorola's 1966 product presentation.

Compact cabinets that compliment a variety of room arrangements are offered in popular furniture designs, including Early American, Contempoary, Italian Provincial, French Provincial and Spanish.

Additionally, there is a special collection of cabinets superbly styled by furniture-famous Drexel, with whom Motorola has an exclusive design arrangement in the home entertainment field.

There are 23 smarly styled models in the rectangular picture tube category, all featuring the slim cabinetry that can be obtained through use of the new short-necked picture tube. The line includes a table model, numerous consoles, including one with a swivel base, and combination units with color TV, stereo high fidelity phonograph and built-in FM/AM and FM stereo radio.

GENUINE wood veneers and hardwood solids used by Motorola's design staff include walnut, mahogany, birch, cherry and pecan. A wide variety of wood finishes includes Oil Walnut, Natural Walnut, Mediterranean Mahogany, Traditional Mahogany, French Provincial Fruitwood, California and Midwest Maple and special Drexel cabinet finishes.

Push button UHF channel selectors are included in the "Slim Silhouette" models, Drexel cabinet color sets and designated color TV/stereo phonograph combination units. All rectangular tube color sets have the Motorola developed push button demagnetizer, tint control, color indicator light, hand wired, power transformer chassis and many other Motorola features.

The new "compact cabinet" color series is considered ideal for use in small homes and apartments, where space is a major consideration. The "compact" series starts with a metal cabinet table model, and also includes a swivel base console and two consoles with sliding tambour doors, the latter in Early American styling.

FOR THOSE seeking the long, low look in cabinetry, a wide selection of models is provided in the "Slim Silhouette" and Drexel styled cabinet series. Contemporary, Early American, Italian Provincial and French Provincial cabinets are included in this portion of the line.

Four handsomely styled models resulting from the Motorola-Drexel cabinet design program include a contemporary-styled color set with Declaration styling by Drexel, an Italian Provincial cabinet in Triune styling by Drexel. Completing this collection of color TV consoles is model 23CD350B with Drexel's Esperanto styling, an elegant blending of Mediterranean moods and designs. The cabinet of pecan veneers and pecan solids, has a Moreno Esperanto finish.

Sliding Tambour doors are provided on the Declaration, Touraine and Triune Drexel models, allowing the TV screen to be hidden when not in use.

The beauty of carefully crafted wood veneers and skillfully applied finishes is even more apparent in the 1966 Motorola rectangular color television/stereo high fidelity phonograph combination units. Rounding out the home entertainment center design theme, these combination units also have built-in solid state FM/AM and FM stereo radio, providing an ideal package for the living room.

MODEL 23L412B uses the Motorola compact color television chassis, making possible a cabinet only 18-½ inches deep. The unit has a solid state FM/AM and FM stereo radio; a stereo section with 20 watts EIA Music Power Output or 40 watts peak power output and six speakers; two speakers in the TV section. The contemporary styled cabinet of walnut veneers and hardwood solids has a natural walnut finish.

Model 23LK413B has the same color TV and stereo features as the 23LK412B but has Early American styling and a cabinet of birch veneers and hardwood solids with California Maple finish.

The push button UHF channel selector panel is employed on model 23LK414B. The stereo section includes the new Motorola-developed high frequency exponential horn tweeters with solid state driver. The contemporary modern furniture styled cabinet is of walnut veneers and hardwood solids with a natural walnut finish. Sliding doors accent vertical paneling and turn the cabinet into a handsome credenza.

A FRENCH Provincial styled credenza is offered in Model 23LK415B, which has color TV and stereo features identical to the 23LK414B. The cabinet of cherry veneers and hardwood solids has a typical curved French look in the paneled sliding doors that is repeated in the framing of the side speaker compartments. The finish is French Provincial Fruitwood.

A Mediterranean styled credenza, model 23L416B blends the sturdy cabinetry of Spain with the delicate detailing of Italy. The cabinet of mahogany veneers and hardwood solids has a Mediterranean Mahogany finish whose soft highlights and careful distressing imparts the feeling of a cared-for antique.

Available at Landwehr TV, Arlington Heights.

Right Wall Color Can Be Flattering

When it's tooth-brushing time in the morning, will the face in the bathroom mirror look cheery and bright or haggard and wan?

A lot depends on the color of the bathroom walls and trim. The right choice of hues in repainting the bathroom can make a big difference.

Walls painted in some yellows and greens reflect a most unflattering light. Pink, rose, coral and peach tones reflect a warm, healthful glow that starts the day off right. Pure green and gold are good choices. Blues with a touch of red are warmer and more flattering than pure or greenish blues.

Experts recommend semi-gloss or gloss enamel when painting bathroom walls for many reason. Enamels keep moisture vapor from entering walls and damaging plaster. Enamels are also easy to keep clean, can be scrubbed often and are more mildew-resistant.

Before applying enamel, dirt should be washed away to insure adhesion of the paint and to prevent peeling. Glossy areas should be dulled with sandpaper or steel wool.

To make a bathroom look larger, walls and wood trim should be painted the same color. More than two accent colors in an average sized bathroom are distracting—accents should be picked up in towels or curtains. (SS

Dryer Space a Problem?

Surely you find space to store your soiled clothes.

Most dryer owners find they do laundering so easily and frequently that they need less space for storage of soiled clothes. Many who own combination washer-gas dryers store the soiled clothes right in the machine.

The average gas dryer requires only about 30 inches or less of wall space, has a depth a few inches over two feet and costs only pennies per load to run. Moisture exhaust is easily achieved through venting.

AUTOMATIC DRYERS are generally similar in size and capacity. The exterior surface is either porcelain or baked enamel. All dryers open from the front, with the door pulling down or opening from the left of the right. All are tumbler type, with a large rotating drum or cylinder inside a counter-height cabinet. Clothes placed inside the drum tumbles as it revolves.

In gas dryers, incoming air is heated then circulated through the drum by a fan or blower. The warm, moisture-laden air then passes through a lint trap and out of the dryer. All gas units have smooth, easy-to-clean drum interiors which will not snag garments, rust or corrode. Clothes placed inside the drum tumble as it revolves.

WALTER AND DAVID Vartanian look over plans for their store, which will triple the size of their facilities. Groundbreaking for the new store is planned to take place next March.

Vartanians Planning Bigger Carpet Store

Vartanian Carpet will break ground in March, 1966, for their new showroom and warehouse which will triple the size of their present retail carpet operation at 124 S. Northwest Hwy. in Palatine.

The new store will be located near Quentin Road on Northwest Highway.

The spacious showroom alone will be equivalent in size to their entire present operation.

According to Walter and David Vartanian, owners, the selection at the new store will be by far the most extensive and complete to be found in the Northwest suburbs.

In addition to nearly 5,000 samples of broadloom, Vartanian Carpet will carry a complete line of custom-made carpeting, area rugs, both hand and machine made, commercial colonial braids and blocks.

THE WAREHOUSE section will be able to stock over 200 rolls of broadloom plus hundreds of remnant pieces.

Walter Vartanian said, "With our new store our customers will be able to see, touch, and step on the actual carpet which will be installed in their homes. We plan to continue our present system of marking all samples and rolls with fabric content, type and price. Because of the amount of carpeting we will have on hand, we can offer to carpet a home within 48 hours from the time our customer makes a selection."

At the new location parking facilities for 30 cars will be provided. The modern store will have a 70-foot frontage on Northwest Highway. The entire front will be stone and glass.

Hi-Fi Tuning Easy With New Lift-Top

Lift-top tuning, which places the controls up where they can be easily seen and operated, makes exciting design news in the 1966 Motorola stereo high fidelity phonograph line.

This tuning convenience is provided by the "Audio Master Control Center" which is attached to the inner side of the cabinet lid on designated models. It concentrates the radio chassis and many radio phonograph controls in a single compact unit.

Some 15 tuning options are available on the Audio Master Control Center, which makes possible stand-up rather than stoop tuning when the lid is raised but is out of sight when the lid is closed.

OTHER NOTABLE features of the 1966 line include: a group of consoles using exponential horn tweeters with solid state driver; a solid state "see-through" cartridge on designated models; Motorola's first tape recorder product in one phonograph combination unit; a 10 year diamond stylus replacement guarantee (described below) covering all 1966 consoles plus three portables and three series of consoles with the "Acoustinaire" sealed sound chamber.

Styling stress continues on the "fine furniture look" in console cabinets, with Contemporary, Early American, Mediterranean, French Provincial, Italian Provincial, Far East and Spanish designs well represented in the collection. Cabinets follow the long, low trend, starting at 42 inches wide and moving in several size-steps to 72 inches wide.

The 1966 portable phonograph assortment features a group of durable, lightweight slim styled units made of high impact polystyrene cabinets. Designed with the Teen crowd in mind, units in this group have handles and easy-carry convenience yet are constructed to take the hard knocks to which the Younger Set may expose them.

TOP-OF-THE-LINE portable models also have the luggage look, complete with handles. These units have speaker wings which swings down to a horiwhichs wings down to a horizontal position from a pivot on a pedestal-type base. A protective cover over the record changer is lifted and the units are ready for operation. Two of these top portables have the furniture finish appearance of grained walnut on the vinyl clad metal and polystyrene cabinets.

Included in the Motorola line are four consoles with cabinets designed by Drexel, a Motorola exclusive in the home entertainment field. Massive credenzas with doors and considerable record storage space are included in the Motorola-Drexel offerings for 1966.

Aside from two non-tuner phonographs in Series 1, each new Motorola phonograph console has built-in FM/AM and FM stereo radio. The power range in the consoles runs from (5 watts EIA Music Power Output or) 10 watts peak power output to (150 watts EIA Music Power Output or) 300 watts peak power.

MOTOROLA'S Advanced Engineered Audio Master Control Center contains the FM tuner, the AM tuner, the audio preamplifiers and the multiplex detector. Demonstrating the dramatic design and engineering advances made possible by the transition from vacuum tubes to solid state devices, this Center on the inner side of the lid contains 22 Motorola transistors and 10 diodes.

Low weight, low power consumption and small size made possible this Control Center with the instrument dashboard look. Its development resulted from the blending of skills of Motorola stereo engineers, Motorola stylists and Motorola solid state physicists.

By moving the tuner and various controls out of the deep cabinet well and packaging them into the Audio Master Control Center on the inner side of the lid, Motorola has placed this unit up where the user can operate the stereo without stooping. The unit also is easily removable should the serviceman have reason to work on the Center.

These are the use-features of Motorola's Audio Master Control Center: Seven push button selectors are employed for off, phono, tape, FM radio, FM AFC radio, AM radio and stereo/monaural records. There are separate loudness, balance, bass and treble controls. A color-coded tonal blending system is provided with the bass and treble controls. For Mood Music, the bass and treble controls are set on the red symbols and the sound reproduction becomes soft and silky; for Orchestra, the controls are set on the blue symbols and the full response of the instruments comes through; for Vocals, the bass and treble are set on green symbols and the singer stands out from the instrumental background.

ADDITIONAL tuning options provided on the Control Center includes separate FM and AM radio controls which tune the sliderule dial and the individual FM log scale and AM log scale where fast station-spotting is accomplished.

An FM stereo indicator light flashes on when a radio station is broadcasting in FM Stereo and a tuning meter indicates when a station has been "brought in" for sharp reception.

There are additional consumer benefits resulting from the new Audio Master Control Center. A larger portion of the phonograph top is usable since the lid is smaller than on many previous phonographs. The SM-1000 changer has been reoriented 90 degrees for maximum consumer ease in reaching the changer controls. Too, total space under the lid may be used for the changer and expanded record storage area.

SOMETHING DIFFERENT in speaker systems is offered by Motorola for designated 1966 products with its high frequency exponential horn tweeters with solid state driver. Patents are pending on this Motorola-developed "driver" or air movkng device located back of the horn. This unusual approach is considered more efficient than comparable conventional magnetic type horn speakers in the treble range of broadcast and recorded music.

Still another feature of the 1966 Motorola phonograph line is the "Acoustinaire" sealed sound chambers, built into specified models. The chambers are two precision matched and balanced speaker systems, each with a 12-inch woofer, an eight-inch or six-inch mid range and a high frequency horn with solid state horn driver. Each chamber is lined with an acoustical blanket to absorb unwanted sound reasonances and assist the system in providing clean, accurate sound reproduction of the full recorded musical range.

Motorola's solid state "see-through" cartridge operates efficiently in combination with the solid state amplifier on specified phonographs. Designed for the company's low mass tubular tone arm, this high compliance, extremely responsive cartridge allows the stylus to accurately reproduce all sound information contained on the record.

THE 10 YEAR diamond stylus replacement guarantee covers all consoles plus the PP301B, PP302B and SP310B portable units. Under its terms, Motorola Inc. agrees to replace for the original owner the diamond stylus (needle) excluding cartridge, for 10 years from date of set purchase if diamond stylus becomes defective in normal use and stylus is returned to Motorola Inc. with $1.50 and a replacement certificate.

The new Motorolas are available from Landwehr TV, Arlington Heights.

Pick Dreamy Colors For Your Bedrooms

After the practical purchase of bed and bedding, you may let your imagination roam, because today you can buy the prettiest and most colorful bed linens ever made.

A bedroom is not only for sleeping. Its usefulness has expanded, although its dimensions in many cases have decreased. Cool colors, such as greens and blues, create the illusion of space and spaciousness. Fundamentally, the colors which are most flattering to you in fashion are the ones you should choose for this important room.

Leading psychologists have taken tests proving colors and designs help us relax and rest. Dressing the bed in these sheets adds to the charming atmosphere you plan to create. "The Look" in your bedroom can be varied with solid-color pillow cases to top sheets for special decorating effects.

THE MOST important thing to consider in buying sheets and pillow cases for your beds is the material. You have your choice of cotton, linen, silk, synthetics, and synthetic blends. Of all of these, cotton leads the field. The yarn used and the thread count per square inch are the factors determining quality.

Muslins, which are usually made of carded cotton yarns, have a thread count of 128 to 140 threads per square inch—are medium weight and sturdy, but, naturally, coarser to the touch.

Percale cotton sheets have a fine combed yarn content and are woven 180 threads to the square inch — which means they're soft to the touch. Light in weight, they're easy to launder.

PIMA COTTON sheets are made of extra-fine combed yarn. Used primarily in luxury sheets, pima cotton counts from 180 to over 200 threads per inch. Perfect example of this quality sheeting is Tiara by Springmaid. This is the first all-pima cotton sheet with a 220 count! It is available in apricot, aqua, pink, blue, yellow, and white.

Good news is that stores stock sheets for king-size beds in many lovely designs. These over-size sheets were once "special" with prices to match. Now prices are comparable to standard-size beds, allowing for the extra material required.

Average requirements for a basic bed linen wardrobe are:

8 top sheets
12 mix-match pillowcases
2 bedspreads
2 winter blankets
2 summer blankets.

Floors Come Into View Again

With the return of the area rug to home decorating popularity, wood floors are coming into view again. As a result, an important home improvement project on the agendy for many households is the refinishing of wood floors.

It makes little difference how old the wood is. When unsightly scuff marks, scars or layers of paint are sanded off, the original personality of the wood will reappear.

EVERY SPECIES of wood takes a stain in a different manner. The finished look depends on the color of the stain, how much is applied, the type of wood, its grain and texture.

Oak is the most popular flooring because of its durability, rich, warm color and countless combinations of grain and texture. However, many people prefer the softer, more uniform texture of maple floors. Older homes will often have pine floors.

Any of the three flooring styles — strip, random-width plank or parquet — can be personalized through the application of liquid wood stains.

You decided to give the living room a "lift"!

What Went Wrong?

After you repainted, bought new draperies and rearranged the furniture, you were still unhappy.

Here's How to Choose Right Ladder for Your Needs

Take advantage of the various new products available on the market to assist you in your work and getting the job done safer.

For above ground maintenance first and foremost is a good sound ladder of proper length designed for your home. Make sure you buy a ladder that is long enough. Add a minimum of 4 extra feet for overlap on all extension ladders, plus a couple of extra feet for the ladder's lean.

Here is how to choose the right size ladder:

1. Measure heights from ground to eaves and add a foot for safety. V—Vertical Height.
2. The correct distance between ladder base and wall is given below for each size ladder under column "H."

"V" Vertical Height	"H" Horizontal Distance	Extension Ladder Recommended
13-½ ft.	4 ft.	16 ft.
16-½ ft.	5 ft.	20 ft.
24 ft.	7 ft.	28 ft.
28 ft.	8 ft.	32 ft.
31 ft.	9 ft.	36 ft.
35 ft.	10 ft.	40 ft.

Aluminum ladders weight is one half as much as wood. Magnesium ladders are lighter than aluminum. Never compromise on a cheap flimsy ladder—SAFETY is a must around the home. Wooden ladders should be thoroughly inspected especially old ones which have not been in use for some time, or stored outside. Do not paint wooden ladders, it prevents drying of the wood after ladder is wet and paint hides rot which can become dangerous. Always store ladders inside.

CAUTION: Never use aluminum or magnesium ladders where contact may be made with electric circuits.

TEN RECOMMENDED SAFETY RULES

1. Never climb a defective ladder—Never straighten a bent ladder.
2. Metal conducts electricity—keep aluminum ladders away from power lines.
3. Keep ladders within easy reach of work—DON'T OVER REACH.
4. Make certain ladder is positioned on a firm, level surface.
5. Never stand higher than fourth rung from the top of an extension ladder.
6. Never stand on top of a stepladder.
7. Always face ladder when climbing or descending.
8. Do not over load the ladder.
9. Do not use the ladder on a soft or slippery surface or unstable support.
10. Always open the bucket rack after opening a stepladder, and close the bucket rack before closing the stepladder.

Take advantage of ladder accessory items; such as "ladder stabilizer and stand-off bracket." Stand off feature holds ladder 12 inches away from building to permit working behind the ladder all the way to the top (ideal for painting and window trim). Stabilizer easily attaches to wood or aluminum ladder, slips over two top rungs on an extension ladder, spans window up to 40 inches—permits painting trim or cleaning windows without moving ladder. Doubles the stability of your ladder, use it under eaves—under overhanding roofs. Eliminates resting ladder on gutters. Use it to clean out leaves or snow without damaging overhanging gutters caused by leaning ladder against them.

"Ladder Jacks" are ideal to use where a large painting job is done high above the ground. Two alumium ladders are used spaced apart with spanning planks or extension planks, resting on a pair of ladder jacks fastened to the ladders. This assembly eliminates numerous trips up and down the ladder to move it for painting side of house.

"Roof Hooks" fasteneed to top of extension ladders and are used to hook over an object to increase stability of ladder. They are ideal for tree trimming and hook over limbs and into forks of trees providing a safe "ski hook" so to speak.

"Ladder Levelers" are also available which fasten to bottom side rails of an extension ladder. They telescope for uneven ground or use on steps, etc. Positive adjustment easily accomplished by double spring-loaded snap pins on channel members.

"Aluminum Step-Rest" an auxiliary step which hooks over a rung type ladder—provides extra comfort and safety when standing on ladder long periods of time. Step measures 7" x 12" and is equipped with safety chain to snap and lock unit in place.

There is a wide variety of ladders available to suit every application and working condition.

The new 4-way ladders are perfect for ranch home owner. They are the handyman's dream; use as an extension ladder, as a stepladder, as a double duty ladder and as two single ladders.

The lady-of-the-house will like the new tubular aluminum platform ladder which is feather-light, easy to handle, folds compactly for convenient storage. Features a large comfortable work platform and a one-piece tubular frame which forms a convenient safety knee and handrail. Climb, stand, turn and reach without fear of tipping, outstandingly attractive, with a slip-resistant black and silver platform and red-vinyl safety hand-grip, black rubber non-slip safety shoes. Unit won't rust, rot or splinter.

Utility platforms and decorators planks are widely used to paint and wall paper ceilings, walls, etc. Cover large expanse at one time without moving plank.

Non-Conductive reinforced fiberglass ladders are essential for use around electric current. Electric light and power companies as well as tree pruning services along power lines know the value of the fiberglass ladders, which will not absorb moisture, no dry rot or splintering—no protective coating required. Ladders are maintenance free.

Hydronic Heat Can Outlive Mortgage

It should last the length of your mortgage. That's what the Chicago Better Heating-Cooling Council has to say about the life expectancy of your home heating system.

Major repairs on a professionally installed heating plant should be rare, say heating engineers, since most systems are designed to provide trouble-free service for a good many years.

A HYDRONIC (modern hot water) heating plant, for instance, can be expected to operate continuously for 20 to 40 years, or even longer, without needing major repairs. That's quite an achievement — especially when your boiler operates for 3,000 hours during an average winter season, as Chicago-area boilers do.

All that is really required is a cleaning of the boiler, and a check of the controls, before the start of each season. This can be done by your local heating contractor at a very nominal cost. But a word of caution — call him before the season starts, not after the cold comes. (SS

Schneller Sales Persons Given Intensive Training

CORINNE BREMES

PAT SPARKS

GLENDA CHAMBLISS

A staff that "has no equal anywhere" is the object of Joseph Schneller, owner of Schneller's Furniture at 32 S. Evergreen Ave. and the back-to-back Colonial Shoppe at 31 S. Dunton Ave., Arlington Heights.

Schneller has added six people to his service staff since moving his contemporary furniture store to Evergreen Avenue in April. And he has begun a series of biweekly classes for all employes, calling in experts on all aspects of furniture from manufacture, display and sales.

Included will be a slide lecture prepared by Schneller after a week's tour of the Ethan Allen plant in Vermont. Although attendance is voluntary, even warehouse personnel are encouraged to attend.

"I'm trying to get together an organization that is unmatched," said Schneller. "I want people who are not just order takers but people who will put the customer's personality into the home."

AS AN EXAMPLE of the expertise Schneller plans for his staff, he wants them to be able to describe the elements in a piece of furniture — like pointing out whether the leg on a piece of American traditional reflects colonial, revolutionary or Federal period influence.

Three of the new Schneller employes were hired from the staffs of large, quality furniture retailers. They are Rolf Muellegger, who will manage the carpeting department, Mrs. Glenda Chambliss and Mrs. Corinne Bremes, interior designers.

Muellegger has been in home furnishings retailing for 10 years in the U.S. and Germany. Mrs. Bremes, in furniture for 40 years, is also a native German. Mrs. Chambliss worked in Indianapolis and recently completed a refresher course at Harrington School of Interior Design, Chicago.

SCHNELLER ALSO has on staff two design trainees, Miss Kathy Kanne and Miss Patricia Sparks. Miss Kanne is an Arlington High School graduate who became interested in interior design in a high school course where Schneller spoke several times. Miss Sparks, a recent college graduate, majored in business.

Hired to manage the shipping and warehousing operation was Ray Schwaller, who worked for a moving firm. Handling and delivery of furniture, said Schneller, will be considered as important as any other phase of the operation with each piece of furniture inspected on delivery "as thoroughly as it was inspected at the factory."

Other service personnel on Schneller's staff are his wife Georgia, who has worked with him for four years, and his brother Frank, who has been with him a year and one-half.

IN THE EARLY American store, each designer will set up one complete room of furniture, from wall coverings to drapes to furniture and accessory pieces. The Colonial Shoppe and the contemporary store each has a number of individual rooms, in addition to the open room groupings.

The idea for having each designer set up one room is "patterned after the way I've seen it done in Switzerland. Most big stores have a specialist in store display who never works in a person's home."

Colonial Shoppe To Reopen Today

The Colonial Shoppe, closed for six months until its new quarters became available, was scheduled to reopen today (Thursday) at 31 S. Dunton Ave. Arlington Heights.

The store was formerly located at 15 N. Hickory Ave.

"I will have to apologize, because the remodeling will not be completely finished," said owner Joseph Schneller. For the past month, Schneller has been renovating the former Lattof garage facing Dunton Avenue. His contemporary furniture store, facing Evergreen Avenue, was similarly remodeled earlier this year.

LIKE THAT STORE, the Colonial Shoppe will have a series of gallery type rooms with all pieces and accessories coordinated. They will give designers a chance to use dramatic combinations people might not normally be willing to try without first seeing.

Besides the 15 rooms, the colonial store will have an open area of room groupings.

"We want people to feel they can come in any time to browse, spending as much time as they want," said Schneller. "We have a television room where they can leave the youngsters."

Exterior of the Dunton building has not been remodeled, except for a new entrance. Schneller is awaiting working plans for a 20,000 square foot Ethan Allen building.

THE PRESENT building has 7,000 square feet. Exterior of the present building will remain until the greatly expanded structure is built.

It will be patterned after approximately 80 Ethan Allen stores built or under construction across the country. Schneller announced the expansion after returning from a week's familiarization seminar and meetings with Ethan Allen officers in New York.

Schneller, who originally proposed a high-rise building in downtown Arlington Heights several years ago, also plans to develop a high-rise into the Dunton-Evergreen site. Foundations will be provided to accommodate the tower in the event the structure is built in stages.

With the opening of the expanded store, its name will be changed to reflect American traditional, a broader concept than colonial.

"MANY PEOPLE felt colonial was something for the kids' room. But it's become very popular and is America's biggest furniture export. You'll find it in some of the finest European department stores."

The Ethan Allan store design is of Williamsburg architecture. The building will have approximately 265 feet of covered walkway for exterior browsing. "We plan to have every piece of Ethan Allen furniture on display."

Experience with the present Ethan Allen stores, said Schneller, is that they serve trading areas up to 40 miles in radius.

Now Is Time for That Furnace Check

Gene Myslo and Chuck Schnackel of Palatine Heating & Cooling Co. suggest that right now is the time to have your heating system checked. Now—not when your furnace groans its last or decides to call it quits in zero weather.

DID YOUR furnace barely wheeze through last winter? It may be time for you to have it replaced with a new modern unit. It makes a lot of sense. Why spend money rejuvenating an old unit that may never reach top performance again. Here are 10 pointers on selecting a good heating system:

1. It should keep you warm no matter how low the temperature outside.
2. It should be the right capacity for your home.
3. It should give you even temperature between rooms.
4. It should give controlled ventilation in all seasons.
5. It should be compact.
6. It should be whisper-quiet in operation.
7. It should have a low operating cost.
8. It should be easy to service.
9. It should be backed by a comfort guarantee.
10. It should give the security of a long term investment.

ON THE OTHER hand, if you are sure your furnace is still in good condition — keep it that way! Have it thoroughly checked and cleaned. A reliable service man will—

1. Vacuum entire furnace.
2. Clean blower compartment.
3. Oil fan motor.
4. Set tension on pulley belt.
5. Clean burners.
6. Check pilot light.
7. Check all controls.
8. Check air filters.
9. Adjust air intake.
10. Check fuel flow.
11. Check and adjust electrodes.
12. Check thermocouples.
13. Check nozzle.
14. Replace any worn out parts.

FINALLY, MAKE sure that you have enough humidity in your home. If your heating system is operating adequately, the air will dry out. Even with today's modern insulation methods and quality home consturction—the human body still has a tendency to chill without proper humidity. In summer—it is not the heat that makes us uncomfortable, it is the excessive humidity. The lack of it in winter creates a reverse action.

Effective humidity control also protects your house and furnishings from drying out, it saves you home maintenance dollars. Some things—like comfort, health, and economy—never go out-of-style. That's why we recommend that every home owner should have a power humidifier for winter humidity control. (SS

For Every Home

Any house with any type of heating system can be air conditioned, reports the Chicago Better Heating-Cooling Council. Recent developments in the air conditioning industry have drastically reduced installation costs and have now made air conditioning available to all homeowners — most recently to those with hydronic (hot water) heated homes.

Bedroom Reveals Status

The living room may be the showcase of your house, but your bedroom reveals status in subtle ways. Actually, beds have been a status symbol through the ages.

Wealthy ancients encrusted their beds with jewels. Later, Europeans counted on the bigness of a bed and the richness of its trappings to show they had arrived.

Kings and lesser nobles received in bed until the past century. This was partly because of the lack of adequate heating, but the horizontal drawing rooms were designed to knock the eyes out of the beholders.

TRUTH IS, old-time beds were all show. Nobody — prince or peasant — slept very comfortably until a little-sung benefactor of mankind invented a practical steel bed spring in the 1870's. In time this led to innerspring mattresses and box springs, the highly refined versions of which are on sale in today's stores.

With modern king-size beds you're a winner three ways — the status of impressive appearance, the space for restful sleep and the comfort that only innersprings can give.

Remember that your guests measure your bed with their eyes. A lower-status symbol that can spoil an otherwise fashion-perfect room is the outmoded "double" bed. It should be the first thing to go in updating your bedroom.

Patterns, Colors, Fibers Make Carpet News for Fall

Fall carpet fashions offer many improvements recently developed through research.

There are more snythetic fibers used in carpets this year, as acrylic fibers gain in popularity and as new fibers enter the field. In addition, improved varieties of older fibers such as nylon and rayon continue to appear.

Another improvement is increased soil resistance, achieved partly through use of synthetic fibers, and partly by use of various dirt resistant finishes.

Pattern Is Important

In colors, decorator tones are gaining on the popular neutral tints such as gold, avocado, and beige. This means that colors such as burnt orange, bright red, and royal blue will be seen more often.

Pattern is extremely important. Manufacturers can now work even floral designs into tufted carpets. Formerly patterns were available only in more expensive woven carpets.

Textures Show Know-How

Surface textures also reflect increased know-how, and rug companies now routinely employ such devices as shearing, carving, varied pile heights, and swirly extra-shaggy piles to create exciting effects.

Fringes, trims, and other decorative embellishments are popular this fall, too, especially in accent rugs.

These accent rugs are often quite expensive in terms of the area they cover, and retailers now suggest that a carpet pad be used as a protection from undue wear on the rug. An underlay of latex foam rubber grips the floor, reducing the danger of skids.

The rise in the use of snythetics has greatly increased the importance of carpet padding, because the synthetic fibers as a group are not as resilient as wool, and latex foam rubber carpet pads can help them feel soft and luxurious underfoot.

Maternal Death Is Decreasing

"One of the outstanding achievements in recent medical history," is the downward trend in maternal deaths associated with pregnancy and childbirth. This is the good news from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. which notes that there has been a 48 per cent decline in such deaths among white women between 1953 and 1963, and a 46 per cent decline among non-white women. The largest relative decrease occurred among mothers under 20.

However, the company notes, "maternal mortality among non-white women is still about four times higher than among white women. Further gains can be achieved by earlier and more adequate prenatal care, better training of physicians and additional hospital facilities in areas which still have inadequate provision for maternity cases." 'Anastasia' Cast Mixes VT Veterans and Newcomers

A mixed group of newcomers and old hands will appear before the footlights when Village Theatre's production of "Anastasia" opens at 8:30 p.m.

Kay Hawley heads the list of Village Theatre's veteran players in her role of Anne, a victim of amnesia and tool of three Russian refugee plotters. She will be remembered for her creation of the role of Regina in "The Little Foxes," Alma in "Summer and Smoke," Miss Higa Jiga in "Teahouse of the August Moon" and the incompetent but kindhearted witch Luella in "Dinny and the Witches" of last season.

John Grayson, another old hand in VT productions, played such roles as Dan Hilliard in "The Desperate Hours" and the tycoon in "Third Best Sport." He will be seen in "Anastasia" as the crafty Prince Bounine, who conceives the plot to gain the inheritance of the Czar.

BOB HAWLEY AND Herb Braden play, respectively, Chernov the banker and Petrovin the artist in "Anastasia," fellow plotters with Bounine. Hawley is known particularly for his hilarious portrayal of Sakini in "Teahouse of the August Moon" as well as Mister Roberts and Brian O'Bannion in "Auntie Mame." Braden played in last season's "Gazebo" as Elliot Nash and as the Wizard in "The Frog Princess and the Witch." Braden has considerable background in theatre with United Air Lines' Mainline Masquers, two seasons of summer stock in Plymouth, Mass., and Youngstown (Ohio) Playhouse.

Newcomers to Village Theatre include Sarah Levin, who plays the Empress Maria Feodorovna in "Anastasia." Mrs. Levin is active in Hoffman Estates Guild Players, co-wrote an original revue last season, played the role of Frances Black in "Light Up the Sky" and designed the set for "The Crucible."

OTHER ROLES IN "Anastasia" include Sergei the butler, played by Arnold Silver, who made his first appearance in "Dinny and the Witches" as Ben the blind man. Nan Prince plays Varya the maid. Mrs. Prince was active in Phoenix, Ariz., civic theatre groups. Hank Vandenboom, the Sleigh Driver, has been a member of Music-On-Stage and played the lead in Dan in last year's "Plain and Fancy." Charles Sayre has been a member of Winston Players and will play the romantic role of Dr. Serensky in "Anastasia."

A cast change has Shirley Freeman, who made history in such roles as Auntie Mame and Mrs. Jacoby in "Majority of One," playing the Charwoman in place of Paula Alvarado. MOUNT EMBLEM
"Illinois' Most Beautiful Cemetery"
Site of the
OLD DUTCH MILL
Built in 1850

The DuPage County Historical Society presented an AWARD OF HONOR to Mount Emblem in 1956 for preserving the Old Dutch Mill as an educational and historic exhibit.

Visitors to the Old Dutch Mill are always welcome.

Autumn brings a glorious burst of color to the superb landscape of Mount Emblem. This is one of Nature's most impressive moments which we invite you to enjoy.

You will see acre upon acre of multi-colored effects from our great variety of trees and shrubs each lending its particular hue to the scene.

For such extensive landscaping you could reasonably expect to pay more. Yet our prices are moderate. It costs no more to own the best.

"It is better to have it and not need it—than to need it and not have it."

Explains Motives Behind Freedom of Residence Meet

As one who welcomed the Freedom of Residence group to Arlington Heights, I feel obliged to reply to Jean Hanlon's letter in last week's Herald. As she is obviously really concerned about social justice, perhaps she will assume honesty of motive behind this letter, too.

Our community is indeed primarily made up of intelligent and educated people of high principles who will act fairly . . .if and when they are truly convinced that justice and the rights of others are in jeopardy. But demonstrations in Chicago and the South, no matter how dramatic or well-reported in press and TV don't necessarily seem important as far as Arlington Heights is concerned.

In order to educate the community in a quiet, rational way, Donald Frey and other members of FOR. This was not a demonstration, nor was it in the least intended to irritate. These people from Evanston had specific suggestions on helping our townsfolk to a greater sense of the "rights of all people" as applied to Arlington Heights.

There can be no question now of externally imposed segregation in Evanston. Its "colored" section follows the pattern of the old neighborhoods in Chicago where some descendants of Irish, Polish, German and other immigrants have maintained a certain amount of group identity from choice. There are also many colored people who have chosen to live in "white" Evanston and have done it without furor.

The suggestions of FOR had to do with the value of dialogue among friends, neighbors, real estate brokers, village trustees, housing developers, apartment managers, mortgage and banking concerns, legislators, church social action groups, and so on. The hope is that such discussion might make clear what we believe to be fact. . .that the prevailing system of segregated housing throughout the Chicago Metropolitan area is gross injustice to the majority and minority alike, is a source of incredible profit to some, and of great cost to us who are the small taxpayers of Cook County, and frequent or occasional commuters to Chicago.

The implication here of responsibility on all of us in suburbia is bound to be extremely disquieting, yet believing these things we have the duty to speak, and surely the right to do so without being accused of fanaticism by those who have hardly heard our case.

The decision of the Arlington Heights Human Relations Committee to make the phone survey was not unanimous. I still do not feel that counting and classifying can establish much rapport with the countees, nor that this tactic can do more than give an illusion of understanding. . .the favorite fallacy that more quantity equals greater reality. On the other hand the Committee has begun a genuine educational effort using tape-recordings in small discussion groups.

No one I know of has questioned the integrity of our Village Board, nor the fact that these men give much time and labor to the many items of village business. The whole purpose of a Human Relations Commission is, as with any other village commission, to accumulate data in a single area of inquiry on behalf of the Board, and on the basis of this data to make recommendations to the Board for its consideration.

The plight of the migrant Mexican workers and some Americans of Spanish descent whom we know to live here all year under dismal conditions is the most cogent argument anyone could make for the immediate usefulness of such a commission.

As an elector, speaking only for myself, I still retain the right to say that the Human Relations Commission idea is a good one. Also as an elector, I wish to publicly thank Mr. Hanlon for meeting with a small group of the electorate which has been somewhat overlooked by the rest of the gentlemen on the Board. It was courteous of him to come and say why he disagreed with us.

The pre-election flap described by Mrs. Hanlon sounds unfortunate indeed. She might take comfort, though, from the fact that even among the most hardened human relations advocates we try to weigh all the items reported about the candidates, and in some cases experience and training must obviously be preferred over ardent enthusiasm for our pet projects.

We too hope to see this city grow soundly and become truly the City of Good Neighbors it aims to be.

'Demonstrators Do Not Owe Us An Apology'

Jean Hanlon's definition of a fanatic (Oct. 7 Fencepost) is probably accurate. Except for the Human Relation Commission's labeling of her husband as opposed to a human relations commission (which may or may not be fanaticism) she presented no evidence that the commission is guilty of fanatical behavior. The tenor of her article seemed to be,"Don't disturb the calm, we are intelligent, fair, and we have a good understanding of justice."

Why, then, does the Hauser report say, "This generation is now faced with the need to deal with the consequences of over three centuries of discrimination and deprivation which the Negro has experienced in this country"? I imagine that as long as injustice prevails in the various forms of segregation that we have in our nation there will be demonstrations.

Those who demonstrate do not feel that they owe us an apology for disturbing our calm, and I agree with them. Our "calm" may be better defined as our guilt, and it may not be a bad idea to disturb my guilt and the guilt of others.

However, it will not be demonstrations, riots or government millions that will solve this contemporary social problem. It will be human understanding and appropriate action based on that understanding. This will not be an easy job, but it is a job that all of us had better be getting at. Until I get some better evidence, I will assume that the Human Relations Commission is one means of doing that job.

Legion Coach Praises Frisk For Great Job

The excellent coverage which Paddock Publications gave to the Junior American Legion Baseball team this past summer was very much appreciated by the team members and myself.

Many compliments especially should go to Bob Frisk, Sports Editor, for the tremendous job he did in stimulating interest in the team with his interesting and well-written articles. I would also like to thank him for the many kind words he wrote about my family and myself.

This past summer has been an exciting and rewarding season for the boys and their parents, one that will long live in their memories. The cooperation of the boys, their parents, the local American Legion Post, your paper, as well as the many fans who were kind enough to send telegrams and come out to cheer at our games, and for all the kind letters and verbal congratulations we received, made this a memorable experience for my family and me.

Without a doubt, your paper played a major part in our successful season and deserves a great amount of credit. Thank you again for your coverage and your interest.

Pair Refreshed By Accusation Of 'Fanaticism'

As two of the "fanatics" Mrs. Hanlon attacked on this page last week, we must say we found the charge refreshing. Till now most of our critics have complained that local human relations workers are proceeding too slowly and cautiously. You can't please everybody.

Mrs. Hanlon offers evidence that perhaps we aren't pussyfooters after all.

TWO POINTS raised by Mrs. Hanlon require specific answers:

1. It is not true, as she suggested, that we have ignored the problems of the Spanish-speaking minority in this area. Some of us were working for their rights as long ago as the 1950's.

2. She argues that human relations matters should be left entirely in the hands of the village board. This is a Big-Brother-Knows-Best approach to government we're certain she would not advocate as a solution to any other community problems.

Volunteer Firemen Given Lavish Praise

As Fire Prevention Week comes to a close, we would like to take this opportunity to say a great big "Thank You" to the Rolling Meadows Volunteer Fire Department.

We all went up this week to the openhouse at the fire station. The firemen put in a lot of effort and put on a splendid program, explaining the causes of fires and all the modern equipment our station has available for fighting fires and helping us in other emergencies.

The equipment, however, is only a small part of the story in relation to all the time and effort given by the men of the volunteer department. It takes a special kind of person to give freely of his spare time to help his neighbors.

Too often we take these men for granted, and at this particular week of the year it would be a good time for all of us to stop and reflect that they are just ordinary fathers and husbands who are willing to give of themselves to help the rest of us. Being on call at all times throughout the year, we should appreciate the time and effort they put in for this strictly volunteer work.

We have never had occasion to call the fire department, but if we do, it is nice to know we have such a finely staffed and fully equipped station ready to serve us.

"Thank You" seems such a small gesture of appreciation for all these men do for us, but it is really a heartfelt one and we're sure it's multiplied thousands of times by all the families of Rolling Meadows. We hope this combined "thank you" will give each of the volunteer firemen the "pat on the back" they so richly deserve and an incentive to keep up the good work they're doing for every member of our community.

Indignant at Criticism of Library Director

Since Mr. Curley's arrival in Palatine, the selection of books, and records, has become a very fine one, and I feel he has done his best to broaden the field of literary appreciation. He obviously has done little to broaden the minds of some Palatine residents.

FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS — By C. D. Smith

Teenager Self-Conscious About Skin Problem

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I am a sophomore, and I have a problem which shouldn't bother me, yet it does. I have a rather bad case of acne, but some people just don't realize how self-conscious I am. They seem to think of themselves and make very sly remarks. What should I do for my defense? I don't want to explode, and I try not to pay any attention to them. It also seems that I only have a slight case according to my doctor. What should I do?"

OUR REPLY: Continue to ignore the sly remarks and at the same time try not to be self-conscious. In other words, don't make any effort to hear the sly remarks people make and try not to be self-conscious. Because you won't allow yourself to forget the acne, you perhaps expect people to notice and to make comment.

The truth is that people are not as observant as you think they are. Since the problem is yours, you are naturally concerned, yet others don't give it a second thought.

This is not to say that some people will not make sly remarks. Some will, because they are people. Most of these are not purposefully unkind; they are just thoughtless.

If you worry less about your problem, chances are people will notice it less and, since you have a slight case, the problem may disappear before too very long.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, COMMUNITY AND SUBURBAN PRESS SERVICE, FRANKFORT, KY.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

SO A COTTAGE ON A LAKE IS YOUR MEAT AFTER 65?

As you continue trying to master the art or retiring — an art that still eludes most people — you come eventually to a cottage on a lake.

Such a cottage is a popular retirement idea these days, what with all the lakes that have been created around the country in recent years. From about age 55 on, many people start pricing lake lots, or contracting for shell houses they can complete themselves, or buying established cottages that are for sale.

Should YOU follow the parade?

Here is an autumn appraisal of what retirement to a cottage on a lake is like, based on talks with a hundred or so retired people that are trying it:

— It is a chic thing to do. There's little doubt that friends back in the city and former-fellow workers at the company will envy you.

— It is a less expensive life than the city, partly because everything is informal but mainly because there is little to spend money for except a Ferris Wheel ride at some nearby County Fair.

— You won't have much fun fishing, nor will you catch much to brag about. The lakes are being fished to death. Even the fish the states are hatching to restock the lakes are biting the dust before they're four inches long.

— In summer, swarms of vacationists will be milling about you because lakes have become a major lure. In the spring you will like the excitement of this influx; by late August you'll be pretty sick of it.

— Vacationists bring boats with them, usually with motors attached. All summer they roar back and forth, often with yelling kids riding water skis behind them. It's noisy, but you get conditioned to it by mid-July and don't notice. Nights are quiet.

— You will find that a lake area usually gets as hot as a frying pan in summer, and your inclination will be to stay indoors from about 10:30 to 4 each day and let the young folks take over. In the fall you will feel great relief as the vacationists depart and then, except in the hot climates, you will enter a lonely winter of isolation. You won't like it much.

— You'll not have as many deadbeat houseguests. from the city as is generally supposed. A few, but not many. In fact, during the winters, you'll wish you had more.

— In general, the lakes of recent times are well removed from urban areas. Your cottage, most likely, will be out of touch with civilization except for some nearby rural town and the small businesses that grow up around lake resorts.

— Doctors will not be inclined to ride down your rutted road at night to make house calls. If, indeed, there is a doctor around.

— Retirement cottages on a lake are usually not very good houses. Many are jerry-built, or do-it-yourself projects of amateurs.

— About boats. They are synonymous with lake life. But you don't get them with trading stamps. They cost. They also don't pull very easily up the hill to your basement in the fall. Not after age 65. Maybe you can ride in a neighbor's boat. Buying him some gas, or something.

Human Relations Chairman Replies to 'Fanatic' Charge

Paddock Publications last week (Oct. 7) published a letter signed by Jean Hanlon under the headline "Human Relations Groups Hit for 'Fanatical' Tactics."

Though many of the accusations made by Mrs. Hanlon could not possibly apply to the Arlington Heights Human Relations Committee, some did, and I am compelled to reply in justice to the 100 or so good citizens of our community who are members of that organization.

Mrs. Hanlon lumps together "demonstrators," "rabble-rousers," "fanatics," and persons "motivated by hopes of personal gain and publicity" into what she conceives of as "human relations groups." She then tars them all with a single brush.

Thus, she carelessly slanders the housewives, priests and ministers, lawyers, engineers, accountants, a state legislator, and others who make up the membership of the Arlington Heights Human Relations Committee.

Our committee was organized last winter under the auspices of the quite respectable and unfanatical Arlington Heights League of Women Voters. Since that time, we have not organized, sponsored, or taken part in, as an organization, a single demonstration or any other activity that could possibly be labeled "rabble-rousing." We have not been, nor do we intend to be, in the demonstration business.

Presumably as a sample of our "demonstrations," Mrs. Hanlon cites the single example of the appearance in our village of the Freedom of Residence organization which, according to the Arlington Heights Herald, had as its purpose the stimulation of a dialogue among village officials and leaders on the question of open occupancy.

Whatever the judgment might be for or against such meetings, the Arlington Heights Human Relations Committee did not invite the FOR group here or sponsor its appearance. As interested citizens, some of our members did attend the FOR meetings, as did Mrs. Hanlon's husband, Village Trustee Thomas H. Hanlon.

Was that fanaticism?

So that we may be properly distinguished from other organizations and not be accused in general terms, here are the purposes of the Arlington Heights Human Relations Committee as set forth in its constitution:

"1. To promote fair and equal treatment and opportunity under the law to all persons.

"2. To encourage understanding and respect between persons of various racial, religious and nationality backgrounds.

"3. To promote the establishment of a Commission on Human Relations by the Village of Arlington Heights."

At the same time, it should be stated what are not our purposes. Most certainly we are not agitating for the integration of Arlington Heights. We exist primarily to do what we can to keep Arlington Heights the "City of Good Neighbors" in the event that integration takes place. This is a task that cannot be accomplished by demonstration, by agitation, or by inflammation. Our goal is understanding, not irritation.

Is this a fanatic goal?

Such organizations — whether committees of volunteers like ours or official commissions — have repeatedly proven to be effective in keeping peace and good will at critical times in communities throughout the land, including several that are neighbors of Arlington Heights. They have helped ease hostility by the use of quiet, reasoned persuasion and have put down the threat of panic by summoning facts to contest inflammatory rumor-mongering.

Where in such activity is the glory of publicity or the possibility of personal gain?

It should be known that we are not wrestling with ghosts in a vacuum. In recent months, Negroes have moved into Elk Grove Village, Hoffman Estates, Rolling Meadows, and Palatine. In recent months, Negroes have tried to find housing in Arlington Heights. Even the mere possibility of their presence among us already has caused some unpleasantness in our own community.

Is it fanaticism to be prepared for what might happen, to have a fire extinguisher handy in case a spark touches tinder?

We would prefer that the fire extinguisher be in the hands of our elected officials. That's why we favor a Human Relations Commission organized by the Village Board of Trustees. We have organized ourselves into a committee only because such a commission does not exist here. We have offered our services to village officials as they may want or need them.

In the last session of the Illinois General Assembly, both the House and the Senate adopted resolutions urging the establishment of human relations bodies locally. The Arlington Heights Ministerial Association has advocated the establishment of a commission here.

Are we fanatics because we do the same?

Central to Mrs. Hanlon's accusations is the charge that our organization worked against the election of her husband to the village board. This charge is absolutely false. On the contrary, I know that many of us — as individuals — voted for him and urged others to do the same.

The facts, demonstrable by minutes and other records I have in my files, are these:

Last winter, a committee of of our organization chaired by the Rev. Isaac H. Strain, polled the candidates for the Village Caucus nominations for trustee on their position relative to the establishment of a human relations commission. The views of the candidates on other matters were known. We felt justified in wanting to know their positions on the matter that is central in our field of interest as only ONE factor in the demonstration of their worthiness for office.

Where is the sin?

Mrs. Hanlon states that "candidates who favored human relations commissions were supported regardless of the views of these candidates on other matters."

This also is not true. The directors of the committee voted UNANIMOUSLY on Feb. 16 against making any endorsements whatever. We could not have supported "candidates who favored commission" because — regrettably for us — none of them did. The best statements from our point of view came from those candidates who said only that they had open minds on the matter.

Mrs. Hanlon states further that "a news release was published listing all of the candidates. My husband was shown as being in opposition to a human relations commission."

Such a news release was never put out by our committee. We could not have done so because it would have been at variance with the facts on Mr. Hanlon as we had them. The Rev. Mr. Strain, in his report to the committee, says of Mr. Hanlon: "He did not know exactly what a commission was. He had heard conflicting reports. He had an open mind on the subject."

We, as a committee, neither opposed nor supported Mr. Hanlon. As individuals, many of our members did attend the Caucus nominating sessions. I was there and voted for Mr. Hanlon. A quick telephone sampling of other members indicates that many of them also voted for Mr. Hanlon.

Mrs. Hanlon is accurate when she states that we promised to send Mr. Hanlon a statement of the purposes of a commission and have failed to do so. There was no evil intent here. It was an error of omission by a forgetful member. We are rectifying the matter immediately.

As for other complaints of Mrs. Hanlon:

1. "Did these (human relations) people come forward in righteous indignation over the problems and difficulties of the migrant workers, the Mexicans?"

Yes, many of our officers and members were active in the Opportunity Council, which worked in that area. And the present committee considers the Mexican-Americans — and other national, racial, and religious groups — in its field of interest.

2. "The people of these human relations groups. . .have done little if anything to help this village." We have tried, and we are trying now. We are kind of an average group of Arlington Heights residents. But I would guess that as individuals we probably apply ourselves to civic responsibilities more than many other citizens. Certainly all of us salute those who do much more, like the village trustes — and their wives.

3. Yes, we have taken a small telephone survey of home sellers to see what their attitudes are (not to promote our own attitudes) on sales of homes to non-whites. We felt that if we were going to play an educational role — as Mrs. Hanlon herself recommends we should — we ought to get an idea of what opinions are in our community so that we could tell what questions the community at large might want to have answered.

Actually, our callers got a gratifyingly small proportion of hostile responses. Most people were happy, even anxious, to talk on the question, which is obviously one of the vital questions of our times. But the telephoning appears to have stirred up some anger among others, especially the Hanlons. We're sorry about that. Our intentions were good.

4. I don't know who called Mrs. Hanlon "prejudiced" or "a bigot." No one in our organization that I have been able to determine. If it happened, I am indeed sorry. Name-calling is reprehensible — whether one is called "a bigot' in private or "a fanatic" in the newspapers.

Such behavior does not promote the cause of good human relations in Arlington Heights. In that cause we stand at the service of our community and its leaders, hopeful that reason will prevail and we will not be needed — and humble in the knowledge that, if we are, we can do little without the good will of others.

Builder Takes Personal Pride In Developments

I am writing regarding the letter published by Mr. Henry Sorenson.

Being a local businessman, I have on several occasions dealt with both the "Plans" Board and the Council and I agreed that they have always given fair attention to everyone's feelings and concern. I would also like to commend Mr. Sorenson and the others like him who actively participate in the business community.

As indicated on page 6 of the Sept. 30, 1965, issue of the Arlington Herald, the changes in my revised proposal do eliminate Mr. Sorenson's principal complaint; namely, direct access will be provided to State Road. An additional benefit will be the office building since it would provide a location for business firms who might have employes in the immediate area. The extra convenience of being closer to home would be favored by many, I'm sure.

I have taken personal pride in the developments with which I have been identified and have made every effort to assure these developments of being assets to the community. Due to the fact that the rental rates have been above average, our clientele have contributed to a positive growth in Arlington Heights.

This is a growing community because it is such a desirable place to live. We are only hoping to provide homes for those who want to enjoy living in this area.

Charges Errors in Report On Birch Society Meeting

In the interest of accuracy, may I correct several erroneous items which appeared in the front page article about the John Birch Society by Don Heine in the Mount Prospect Herald on Oct. 7:

1—Heine stated that ". . .a panel of out-of-town Birch speakers appeared before about 100 persons. . ." The fact is 179 chairs were originally set up with some 24 added later. Almost all were filled and many persons were standing at the rear of the hall.

2—Heine said "They (John Birch Society) also tried to connect communism with former President Dwight Eisenhower. . ." The fact is the person who raised the question was referred to read "The Politician" by Robert Welch to see exactly what link there is between Eisenhower and communism, if any.

3.—Heine stated "Wilk. . . . helped plan an ICC (Illinois Congress of Conservatives) meeting last Saturday in Des Plaines." The fact is the story released to your paper (which you suppressed) stated correctly the meeting place was Aurora.

4—Heine said "The featured speaker was the Rev. Paul Lindstrom. . ." The fact is the story released to the Herald stated: "Leading speaker Saturday will be Kent Courtney, publisher and chairman of the Conservative Society of America. . .A (Note: not THE) featured speaker will be Rev. Paul Lindstrom. . ."

5.—Heine stated "For $2.45 you can buy 'The Warren Impeachment Packet'." The fact is that $2.45 is the retail value and the whole packet may be obtained (as clearly indicated in my report) for $1 from the John Birch Society, Belmont 78, Mass. 02178.

6—Heine said that ". . .they (the Birch speakers) read at length from 'documents' and lists compiled by Birch sources." He then gave only one example as the statements of U. S. Sen. James Eastland of Mississippi. Other sources quoted but not reported by Heine include: Senate Internal Security Subcommittee; House Committee on Un-American Activities; Louisiana Joint Legislative Committee and J. Edgar Hoover.

7—Heine mentioned that none of the panel members could give a definition of "communism." The fact is the question as stated (and recorded on the tape recorder) was "What is the definition of a communist?" An example was given in the explanation that followed. The last speaker on this question summed it up this way: "communism is a criminal conspiracy to take over the world. A communist is a person who goes along with this program."

The above are illustrations of how fact can become fiction in a radical left-wing newspaper such as the Mount Prospect Herald. An even greater distortion of truth occurs when a reporter like Heine suppresses facts which are in conflict with his or his newspaper's views.

Also in the front page article on the JBS by Heine, he quotes from a report on the "John Birch Society" which I prepared and financed. And let me say that such responsible independent action would not be necessary if newspapers, magazines and television were reporting the truth about the JBS. This report explains the attack against the JBS, outlines key JBS issues and suggests a course of action for objective citizens to take. In the interest of objective and fair reporting, I am submitting this report to the Herald for publication in its entirety.

Singers in Rehearsal

The recently chartered Northwest Choral Society, under the direction of Prof. Martin R. Rice, D.M.A., director of choral music at Roosevelt University, Chicago, is currently in rehearsal for a production of the "Magnificat" by Antonio Vivaldi.

The "Magnificat," a work for mixed chorus, orchestra and soloists, and two Bach Cantatas, number 61 and number 63, are to be performed some time in December. The society hopes to present works in conjunction with the Northwest Symphony during the 1965-66 season.

A tentative membership of 100 voices, male and female, is the goal of the group. The chorus is still open to all interested individuals. There is an urgent need for tenor and bass voices.

PROFESSOR RICE also has announced that auditions for soloists will be held during the latter part of October. Any interested party may contact the Rev. William Woofenden, Good Shepherd Community Church, 9000 Home Ave., Des Plaines, for an appointment. The phone is 827-4188.

Rehearsals are held at the Home Avenue address every Monday at 8 p.m. (Bill

"Our band has used an organ since 1935. In our opinion no electronic organ compares with the Thomas. We use a Thomas on our television show and also at the Hollywood Palladium. And I have one in my home, too." Mr. Welk is a Thomas fan. We think you'll be one, too — when you see how easy it is to play a Thomas Organ. Yes, anyone can play. Color-Glo makes it easy. Just press a button. The keyboards light up to show you which notes to play. You'll be playing a tune in 15 minutes.

Dance Teacher Recalls Tour

Sharing ideas and talents with dance teachers from all over Europe and the United States highlighted this past summer for Maria Konopa, dancing instructor from the northwest suburban area.

With more than 130 other dancing teachers from all over the country, Miss Konopa flew from New York City in early August to Paris where the first world dance conference was held at Le Grand Hotel Place De L'Opera.

There she attended classes from 8:30 in the morning till noon and again from 1 to 5:30 each of the three days of the conference, learning from such distinguished teachers as Jetka Ivelja from Yugoslavia, Gene Nettles of Norway and Luigi, jazz teacher from the U.S.A.

THE PETITE blonde American felt quite honored when Jetka Ivelja asked her to demonstrate a combination alone before 130 other teachers in the ballet class.

Gene Nettles she recognized as a teacher with the June Taylor Dancers of Boston and New York when she was the group's captain some years ago. Following class, teacher and pupil reminisced about those days.

Nights the Paris visitors spent sight-seeing, visiting such famous Parisian spots as the Follies Bergere, the Eiffel Tower and the Moulon Rouge.

From Paris a group of the dancing teachers traveled to other European cities to study with dance teachers in those places. At Cannes they spent a day with Rosella Hightower at the Classical Ballet Center.

"AT THIS CENTER children are boarded from the age of 12 on for scholastic and dance studies," Miss Konopa explained. "This was the most beautiful dancing center we Americans had seen."

Next the group moved to Italy. In Rome they had an audience with Pope Paul VI and marveled to "Aida" performed on a block-long stage among the Roman ruins.

"There were 700 performers on the stage at one time plus a number of horses, and it was tremendous!" Miss Konopa recalled.

She also thrilled to riding the canals of Venice by night.

IN MADRID, SPAIN, the dancing instructors studied flamenco dancing from both young and old.

Their last stop was England where Miss Konopa was able to obtain standing room only at the famous London Palladium, where whe watched English comedian "Daddy" along with more than 2,500 other spectators.

From her trip and studies abroad Miss Konopa brought home many new ideas about teaching and many new dances for the classes she teaches at Rolling Meadows Bowl, Hoffman Lanes in Hoffman Estates and Striking Lanes in Mount Prospect, among other locations in the northwest suburban area.

She also came back with a "jump suit," which many of the teachers wore while teaching, she said. A jump suit is a one-piece leotard, she explained.

HAVING TRAVELED as a USO entertainer, Miss Konopa was no stranger to the strains of such a rigorous tour, but several of the young girls in the group were happy to adopt her as a temporary "mother," she said, when their plane was delayed on take-off for several hours. They kept her in that role throughout the trip.

She returned to the United States in late August.

Few home furnishings offer the long and continuous service you get from the plumbing fixtures in your bathroom. That's because they're made to last a lifetime. Hundreds of hours of research, design and testing go into the creation of a water closet, for example. (S

New Exhibit At Findlay Galleries

A second collection of "art by appointment" will be shown by the Findlay Galleries Inc., 320 S. Michigan Ave., next Monday through Saturday, Oct. 23.

The one-week exhibition will offer a cross section of contemporary artists represented exclusively in the United States by Findlay Galleries, according to Helen Findlay, manager.

Specially featured will be the "Winners' Circle," paintings by six renowned artists who have added new honors and awards during 1965. The six include Bernard Buffet, Gaston Sebire, Michel-Henry, Helen Girod de L'ain, Noe Canjura and Helena Adamoff. (Bill

Curtain Time for WLT In 'Third Best Sport'

The curtain goes up tomorro night (Friday) on Winston Lit' Theatre's production of "Thi Best Sport." The play will l given both tomorrow and Satu day at 8:30 p.m., in Palatin High School's Cutting Hall o Wood Street in Palatine.

A luxurious Palm Beach hote room is the setting for thi former Broadway comedy, writ ten by Eleanor and Leo Bayer. The theme is sales conventions and the almost cut-throat business of trying to undersell the competitor.

The plot develops into a com- y of errors when the eager neral manager's wife invites philosopher instead of a busi- ess writer to give the principal onvention speech. This just bout spoils a sales effort by ther members of the Norse- Vagner Company who mix business with pleasure.

GEORGE DANIELS of Palatine is production manager for "Third Best Sport." Little theatre work is not new to Daniels, who directed several plays and also worked backstage with the Palatine Players before joining Winston Little Theatre. Working along with Daniels is Ken Blik, well-known civic leader in Palatine and newcomer to WLT.

State props will handled by two other newcomers, Pat Sniff and Bunny Uttley. House managers will be a husband and wife team, Bill and Edna Nelson. Betty Post will handle set decorations, and Marilyn McCartney and Karen Costin will do the costumes. Bill McCartney and Dorothy Daniels are in charge of make-up.

The leading female role, that of Helen Sayre, will be played by Betty Kandlbinder of Palatine. The part of her husband, Doug Sayre, is taken by Bruce Drake of Mount Prospect. Both have been active in Winston Little Theatre in virtually all capacities.

COMPLETING THE cast are Harry Brown as Dr. Lockwood, Ruby Kandlbinder as John Wagner, Herb Gegenhuber as Art Underhill, Dan Yelovich as Spencer McHenry, Marty Martin as Chuck Robbins, Liz Dumler as Myra McHenry, Patti Clark as Marge Robbins, Barbara Wickline as Amy Underhill and Jim Kowalczyk as the bellboy.

Tickets will be on sale at the box office or may be obtained from Barbara Wickline, FL 8-1278. (Bill

Full House Expected for Guild's Opening Production

With well over 800 season anticipate near-capacity audiences tomorrow (Friday) and Saturday evenings for the two performances of their first play of the season, "The Desperate Hours."

For the first time, the guild will stage its production in the new Lake Park High School auditorium in Medinah which has a seating capacity of 675 persons.

This season, the number of guild patrons alone would have been equivalent to three full-house audiences at Parkside School in Roselle where the guild has previously presented plays.

"THE DESPERATE Hours" starred Karl Malden and Paul Newman when it was first presented on Broadway in 1955. The play was honored with the Antoinette Perry Award as the best play of the season to be shown on Broadway. Joseph McAuliffe and Arthur Blackaller portray the two male leads in the Guild Players' production.

Strong emotions and violent action prevail when the home of a suburban family is invaded by three escaped criminals who hold the family in terror during the three-act play.

Prominent roles in the cast of 14 are played by experienced Guild performers Richard Linnell, Mrs. David Fulton, Howard Risberg and Mrs. Gerald Mandel. New personalities who will be seen by guild patrons for the first time are George Cadotte, John Boehler, Kathleen McNaughton, Arthur Blackaller, Dan McNally, Dennis O'Brien and Joseph McAuliffe.

IMPORTANT supporting roles are played by guild members William Koppari, Marvin Kaufman and Arthur Dern. The play is directed by Guild Players resident director Victor Simone.

Season tickets for this season's three guild productions may still be obtained by calling the box office, 894-5044 or 894-3735. (Bill

OSCAR WINNING actress Teresa Wright stars in "Tea and Sympathy" at Pheasant Run Playhouse through Oct. 24. The production is directed by the play's author, Robert Anderson, who is Miss Wright's husband.

Pheasant Run Resort Continues to Expand

By HOWARD HARMENING
Staff Writer

If you meet Edward J. McArdle, shake his hand heartily for he's truly unique.

An ex-real estate man and builder, McArdle stood three years ago on 200 acres of farmland near St. Charles and envisioned Pheasant Run Lodge.

McArdle, who felt there was a need for year-round resorts in the Midwest, planned Pheasant Run and then went on to supervise every phase of construction.

"If he didn't want a door in a certain place," said a friend, "he'd tell workmen to change it. It was something to see."

THE RESULTS today include a complex that employes 400 persons and hosted 87,000 guests last year.

Among other facilities are an 18-hole golf course; an indoor-outdoor swimming pool heated to 80 degrees; an authentic replica of New Orlean's Bourbon Street; four restaurants and a dinner-theatre.

The resort also has 21 meeting rooms of various sizes that can serve groups as small as 20 or as large as 1,000.

From 1963-64, the lodge nearly doubled the number of people served (47,000 in 1963) and increased its gross sales 76.6 per cent.

Never one to stand still, though, McArdle opened another 150 new rooms this month, almost doubling the size of the resort.

THE THREE buildings of the new wing, which include single rooms and two- and three-room suites, are described by the owner as "Irish Provincial" and have three floors instead of two.

The buildings will also eventually contain a barber shop, beauty salon and sundries shop.

Two of the new buildings overlook a terrace-bordered lagoon and the golf course, while the third faces the outdoor portion of the pool, heated to 80 degrees.

The lagoon, said McArdle, was pumped dry to allow the construction of a 10-foot-deep retaining wall and then re-filled.

Wattr is pumped from wells into the lagoon and then pumped from the lagoon to water the golf course, he added.

A NEW LOBBY area overlooks the indoor portion of the pool, which is separated from the outdoor portion by a glass wall that a swimmer can duck under.

What lies ahead for the ever-growing Pheasant Run? McArdle said he frankly didn't know.

"I'm leaving for the Caribbean shortly," he explained. "I've bought an island down there and am working on plans for a new resort." (Bill
